Quebec Chief Justice Named To Probe Bribe Allegations

REPORT SAYS

Drive Vital On District Youth Crime

D. H. NELSON
. . . delinquency committee head

By LESLIE MILLIN

Underpaid, underhelped workers are standing hapless in the face of a substantially increasing rise in Greater Victoria juvenile delinquency.

And it will take a massive co-ordinated effort at all levels from the provincial cabinet to the man in the street to help the situation.

So says a report released today by juvenile delinquency study committee of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria.

It was presented to a noon luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel.

It took more than a year to prepare . . . and some of the conclusions are the same as were reached in a 1956 study by a committee of the council.

J. M. ANGUISH
. . . principal fact gatherer

Recommended by the committee are these measures:

- A new, fully-equipped, dignified court building behind present detention home quarters;
- A provincial government agency to co-ordinate the attack on juvenile delinquency;
- Social workers or psychologists in every elementary school, paid for by the provincial government, to identify and curb the budding delinquent;
- More, smaller, more diversified institutions — properly staffed—to deal with the widely-differing types of juvenile delinquents.

Inadequate quarters for family court, inadequate court staff, too heavy a work load on policemen and probation workers, a lack of respect for the family courts—these are cited in the report.

And the result is a judical system for juveniles that the report says is inefficient and undignified, the subject of "interminable argument as to who should be responsible for its welfare."

Young Crime

Only an aroused community can do much to reduce incidence and seriousness of juvenile crime, says the report.

Provincial and municipal authorities responsible for coping with juvenile delinquency have failed.

They have not provided the leadership, money, staff or buildings to do the job, says the report.

In fact, they have heaped more work on the already overloaded system without offering financial help.

Serving on the committee were chairman D. H. Nelson, A. H. Stott, Ald. Lily Wilson, Prof. W. A. Cooke, Dr. R. E. L. Watson, F. V. Shoemaker, Donald Bell, J. W. Nicol, Ian Stewart, Lundy Sanderson, and Donald Smith.

Committee secretary was J. M. Anguish.

Mr. Anguish is credited by other members of the committee with doing much of the work of preparing their report.

His work involved collecting and compiling statistics, and drafting questionnaires submitted to workers in the field.

They found that Victoria sends more boys to the Brannen Lake school out of the total juvenile male population than the provincial average.

But they also found that fewer Victoria boys, on the average, are sent there for a first offence.

New Officer

They found that if another probation officer were added to the staff, there would still be a work overload.

In seven years the number of juvenile boys brought before the courts on other than traffic offences jumped 85 per cent.

This compares with a 68.3 per cent increase in traffic offences, and a 56.3 per cent population increase in the group.

In the overall area, they found, there are about 76 juvenile delinquents for every thousand juvenile boys, as compared with 68 per thousand in 1956.

WIRE BRIEFS

U.K. Honors Contract

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson told Parliament today Britain will honor a contract to supply 16 jet fighters to South Africa.

Wilson's statement made no specific reference to a further 14 Buccaneer aircraft understood to be on option to South Africa but he said: "No further South African contracts will be entered into."

Miners Trapped

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Rescue workers were digging today to reach four coal miners trapped in a pit at Zenica, central Yugoslavia.

Bank Bill Reprieved

The FBI still is trying to gather enough evidence to go to court in both cases, the spokesman said.

Hostages Held

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — About one-sixth of the 800 prisoners at Brushy Mountain State Prison holed up in a prison coal mine today with three mine foremen as hostages in an apparent complaint about mail service.

Bayonets, Gas Dispel Students

HUONG
. . . under attack

SAIGON (AP) — About 2,000 students rioted in Saigon today demanding the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong of South Viet Nam and were dispersed by paratroopers with bayonets and tear gas.

Martial law was declared after a day of violence that saw scores wounded.

In an attempt to end the civil tumult and get on with the war against Communist guerrillas, U.S. officials warned that American aid may be curtailed unless the disorders end, reliable sources said.

It was the fourth straight day of disorders and U.S. authorities are telling the South Vietnamese that "the patience of the American public is wearing out," one informant said.

In declaring martial law, the government imposed a curfew from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m.

LED BY BUDDHISTS

At least 100 persons, 60 of them police and troops, were injured in the melee around the headquarters of the politically powerful national Buddhist organization.

Premier Huong's predecessor, Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was brought down by riots in August. But the rioting today exceeded the August riots in violence.

The Buddhist hierarchy also declared open political war on Huong's government and demanded immediate release of demonstrators arrested previously. Huong showed no sign of giving in.

The high national council, South Viet Nam's interim legislative assembly, scheduled a meeting Thursday. It was considered possible that the council might remove Huong in hopes another government could muster enough support to end the political chaos.

The violence broke out shortly after U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor left for Washington.

Rebels Open Fire At Mercy Flight

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Rebels opened fire on an RAF mercy mission which flew into Stanleyville today, wounding a British army doctor, a correspondent who flew with the mission reported.

Maj. David Findlay received a slight flesh wound in one arm when snipers fired as he was supervising the erection of tents for a field hospital unit.

'OUTSIDE INFLUENCE MUST VACATE CONGO'

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Kenya's Premier Jomo Kenyatta said tonight there had been a prospect on Monday that "arrangements could be made to repatriate the Stanleyville civilians through the International Red Cross" before Belgian paratroopers were dropped to free them.

Kenyatta, chairman of the Organization of African Unity's Congo commission, declared in a statement:

"I was neither consulted nor advised before the news came of the paratroop landings in Stanleyville.

"This contemporary tragedy has pointed to the paramount need for removing from The Congo scene all outside influence and contribution from whatever source and directed to whatever cause."

Troops Flush Jungles for Last Rebels

(Times News Services)

STANLEYVILLE — Belgian paratroopers today plunged into the jungle villages around this captured rebel stronghold in the Congo in an effort to save the last of the white hostages held by rebel guerrillas.

The mopup operation was undertaken in a 30-mile radius around Stanleyville while sporadic gunfire rattled throughout the day in the city. Rebel snipers, holed out in the sprawling African city and in some houses in the European section fired at cars driven by paratroopers and white mercenaries.

Some 200 white persons including seven Canadians are still missing in the northern Congo and believed to be held by the rebels.

Included among the Canadians still unaccounted for is Miss Muriel Harman of Victoria, a member of the World-wide Evangelization Crusade.

Miss Harman was last known to be at Yumbi, 200 miles south of Stanleyville, said Rev. Alfred Ruscoe of the Crusade's Canadian headquarters in Toronto.

A task force of white mercenaries and the Katanga gendarmes column of Belgian Col. Robert Lamouline crossed the Congo River this morning and penetrated into the left bank of the Negro sector with some resistance from rebels.

Meanwhile, a company of crack Belgian paratroopers prepared to jump on the city of Paulis, 300 miles northeast of here, where 100 Europeans are being held.

UNITS FAN OUT

Other paratroop units fanned out around Stanleyville in an effort to find 24 Spanish nationals, 11 Italians and a Belgian believed still imprisoned in the immediate vicinity of Stanleyville.

Central government forces including the Belgians battled last-ditch rebel resistance in Stanleyville, scene of a bloody white massacre Tuesday that took at least 25 lives.

Canadian missionary Rev. Hector McMillan, 49, of Avonmore, Ont., was killed but his family of seven escaped. Another family of seven, from Steinbach, Man., also made it to safety.

The soldiers went about their grim task with the knowledge that their swift dawn drop Tuesday resulted in more than 1,400 hostages being freed, including 18 Canadians.

More than 900 refugees have arrived at Leopoldville from the former rebel capital and another 500-600 awaited evacuation at Stanleyville airport.

Several rebels and a Belgian paratroop sergeant were killed during the night in the Stanleyville area. Much of the skirmishing took place near the airport

TROOPS FIRE QUESTIONS, THEN SHOTS

STANLEYVILLE (UPI)— Automatic rifles ready for trouble, the Belgian paratroops today stopped an African riding a bicycle with a bunch of bananas balanced on his head.

"Are you a Mulelist?" the soldiers demanded. (Pierre Mulele is a Communist-backed Congo rebel leader).

"No," the African replied.

"You're lying," one of the Belgians said. And shot the man dead.

Paratrooper Landing Hit By Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet foreign ministry called in U.S., Belgian and British diplomats today and demanded an immediate end to military operations in The Congo and the withdrawal of all foreign mercenaries.

The Soviets called the Belgian paratrooper landings in Stanleyville "a new gross act of armed intervention in the internal affairs of The Congo." The paratroopers were flown in U.S. planes.

Statements handed to the three Western diplomats rejected the Western explanation that the paratroopers went to rescue hostages in the hands of rebels. The Russian statement said the landing was made "to suppress the national liberation movement" in Stanleyville.

The U.S. and British diplomats immediately rejected the Soviet charge.

Mundane Projects Out for Centenary

TORONTO (CP) — All provinces have agreed with the federal government to limit their federal-provincial centennial projects for 1967 to things of an historical, educational, cultural or recreational nature, State Secretary Lamontagne said today.

He announced that provincial ministers attending a closed conference agreed to reject any proposals in future by municipalities for more utilitarian projects, such as fire halls, sidewalks, sewers and even cemetery vaults.

Inquiry Terms Made Broader

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec was appointed today to head a judicial inquiry into accusations of attempted bribery and coercion of a Montreal lawyer by aides to two federal cabinet ministers.

DORION
. . . 'full study'

The appointment was announced by External Affairs Minister Martin at the opening of the day's sitting of the Commons.

Mr. Martin also tabled the terms of reference for the chief justice's investigation.

The inquiry is to make a full study of "allegations about any improper inducements having been offered to or improper pressures having been brought to bear on counsel acting upon application for the extradition of one Lucien Rivard and all the relevant circumstances connected therewith . . ."

In addition it will "consider fully the reports submitted to the minister of justice by the RCMP and the evidence laid before him in connection therewith and any further evidence elicited or laid before the commissioner . . . consider such other matters as may appear to the commissioner to be relevant and . . . report where there is sufficient evidence to warrant any prosecution for offences that may be involved."

The cabinet decided at a meeting this morning to reword the terms of reference, making them broader than the interpretation placed on them Tuesday in the Commons.

However New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas proposed that the Commons hold an emergency debate on the "inadequacy" of the new terms of reference.

CHARGES ROCK PARLIAMENT HILL

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Parliament Hill was reeling in stunned bewilderment today as the full impact of Conservative allegations of bribery and coercion began to take effect.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker warned Tuesday the Conservatives have unearthed new material that will provide further political shocks.

DENIS
. . . accused

"This might cause further interest even than those (matters) already revealed," Diefenbaker said.

Speculation on Parliament Hill centred on the possibility that this new information could link notorious former Seafarers' International Union boss Hal Banks with the affair.

This speculation started after New Democratic party leader T. C. Douglas asked Labor Minister Alan MacEachen in the Commons if Norris commission documents showed Raymond Denis, the former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay, had been given $1,500 by Banks.

MacEachen agreed to search files to see if there was any voucher showing such a payment.

Denis has been accused in the Commons of offering a $20,000 bribe to a Montreal lawyer in an unsuccessful attempt to have the lawyer not oppose a bail application by an alleged associate of members of the Mafia.

ROULEAU
. . . resigns

Conservative Erik Nielsen (Yukon) has also accused Justice Minister Guy Favreau's former executive assistant Guy Lord of naively attempting to coerce the Montreal lawyer into "going easy" on the bail opposition.

The Montreal lawyer, Pierre Lamontagne, confirmed Tuesday that he was the object of a bribe and coercion attempt while acting for the United States government in a case involving drug smuggling.

A day of crisis in the Commons Tuesday began with the resignation of Guy Rouleau (Montreal Dollard) as parlia-

BUT THE NEED GOES ON

For 12 Years You've Been Giving

By MARGE GILROY

Twelve years ago Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova walked into the Times office and told the story of thousands of starving youngsters in Korea, Greece, Hong Kong and India.

She pleaded for help through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

The Times listened to the USC director, then told Dr. Lotta's story to its readers.

That was how it all began 12 years ago.

Every year since then Dr. Lotta has made a pre-Christmas trip to Victoria to renew her appeal, and to thank Victorians for their generous support the previous year.

That support, given during the past 11 years, went over the $100,000 mark last year. It is hoped that another $15,000 will be added to the total this year.

The USC campaign is primarily carried on by one woman with a staff of 12 at headquarters in Ottawa, but it is the support of thousands of volunteers across the country which makes it a success.

In Victoria you can support the campaign by sending a donation to "Help the Hungry Child" fund, care of The Times, 2631 Douglas, or deliver it before 5:30 p.m.

Donations are also being accepted at the Bank of Montreal main branch, at Yates and Douglas.

Acknowledgment of contributions will be made in a daily list published in the paper and official receipts will be sent later from USC headquarters in Ottawa.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Albert Sterling, 28-year-old Victoria artist, has gone to New York to present his portrait of the late U.S. president to Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Sterling

"I hope to give it to her personally," Mr. Sterling said.

The portrait is painted in black oils and measures two by three feet.

"I have learned that she likes black-and-white paintings," Mr. Sterling said, "and I think she will like this one."

Earlier this year, Mr. Sterling said he had been commissioned by Mrs. Kennedy to do three portraits in oils of the late president, Mrs. Kennedy and the Kennedys together.

Elections we have always with us, and with that in mind some words from the Columbia Journalism Review might be worth pondering.

That respected journal wonders whether the get-out-and-vote urge should be made by newspapers.

It suggests a more constructive line might be:

"If you have taken the trouble to inform yourself on candidates and issues, get out and vote. If you have not, it is your patriotic duty to stay away from the polls."

The association, which has its headquarters in Vancouver, will hold a seminar in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, 680 Courtney Street, Thursday, Dec. 10, at 8 p.m.

Representatives of city churches, schools, health organizations and service clubs are being invited.

"The need for non-smoker education is now widely recognized," said Robert Ludwig, secretary of the association.

"There have been more than 340 deaths from lung cancer in British Columbia since the start of this year."

. . . DELINQUENCY

In downtown Victoria, 83 juvenile boys out of a thousand are delinquent.

But in one part of Saanich, there are 167 delinquents for every thousand boys in the 15-17-age bracket.

A quarter of all delinquent boys come from broken homes, and more than a quarter have parents who are both employed.

More than a quarter of the boys sent to Brannen Lake from Victoria have been sent there before.

But Greater Victoria courts committed fewer boys on their first appearance than the provincial average.

In its attempt to wrestle with what it admits is a problem woven right into the fabric of society, the committee came up with a detailed series of recommendations.

Family Court

Urgently required are the following for the family court, says the committee and provincial and municipal governments must foot the bill:

Enough qualified probation officers that the case load does not exceed 50 per officer;

A full-time family court judge, with no other responsibilities;

A full-time prosecutor and the end of juvenile prosecution by policemen.

Another area where the provincial government should help out, says the committee, is in aiding delinquency prevention.

Because delinquent behavior is part of a discernible pattern, each elementary school should have "sufficient" social workers or psychologists added to its staff to help teachers spot potential delinquents early.

And their salaries should be underwritten or at least partly paid for by the government.

Leadership in establishing a number of smaller institutions to handle delinquents should come from the province, says the committee.

These should be smaller than the training schools like Brannen Lake provided for in the present system.

The new system should include group homes with a maximum capacity of 12 children, established on a regional basis.

"Too much emphasis can not be placed o the importance of carefully selected and properly trained staff . . ." says the report.

The committee's report points out that juvenile delinquents are not all of a type.

Their backgrounds vary, so that "for many, removal from their own home and a period in a residential or correctional institution is required — and not always as a last resort."

"It is evident, therefore, that no single institution can meet the need."

This will cost more than the current training schools program, but will be well worth it, says the committee.

Although some of the institutions suggested perhaps should be developed at the local level by municipalities, leadership and adequate financial assistance would have to come from the province.

Virtually the same recommendations were made by the Community Welfare Council in 1956 and 1961.

Different aspects of correction and treatment are now the responsibility of different government departments.

The approach should be a co-ordinated one, perhaps in line with a 1961 recommendation that the provincial government create a specific agency for child rehabilitation.

Court Judges

Also, to assist juvenile court judges in disposing of cases, local disposition boards should be set up to help decide the best possible handling of delinquents.

In line with its aroused-community concept, the committee wants to establish a standing committee on children and youth.

It would attempt to find out more about juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria, which is admitted to have many aspects not yet explored.

It would attempt to help with co-ordination, examine the problem of school dropouts, seek programs to attract and rehabilitate delinquents or prospective delinquents.

It would attempt to implement the council's report.

And it would attempt to help find a better system for tackling the delinquency problem than the present one, which has failed.

. . . CONGO REBELS

HELD BY REBELS

Ten Britons and a number of Canadians were believed to be still in rebel hands in Stanleyville, according to a correspondent of the East African Standard flew from Nairobi, Kenya, to Stanleyville today.

Well-informed sources here said it appeared as it would take about three more days to clear up resistance by the rebels.

Four U.S. planes flying refugees out of Stanleyville this morning were all fired on by rebels but none was hit badly enough to stop its flight to Leopoldville.

Several rebels were killed night and morning.

Refugees from Stanleyville said rebels were hiding in every possible place, including private homes.

None of the rebel leaders had been captured yet and a military observer in Leopoldville said it looked as though they escaped "although they may be fighting with one of those small bands on the outskirts of the city."

EXECUTED CONGOLESE

One evacuee said the rebels carried out thousands of executions during their occupation of Stanleyville.

"Every day, any time of the day, some Congolese was being dragged to the Lumumba monument in the city centre and executed," he said.

"They were tied, hands behind their backs, and hacked to death with machetes."

An American embassy official said patrols "found some more bodies" in Stanleyville today, bringing the estimated number of whites killed by rebels Tuesday to 25, with 38 wounded now in hospitals in Leopoldville. Eleven are in critical condition.

It was believed the dead found by the patrols were Belgians.

At least 19 persons were killed when rebels opened fire on hostages in front of the Patrice Lumumba monument in Stanleyville.

McMillan, according to a U.S. embassy spokesman, was cut down in Lumumba square. His wife and six sons, who were held hostage with him, were rescued.

Two of the McMillan boys were shot and wounded.

One boy was shot in the hip and the other was nicked on the cheek by a bullet when the rebels opened fire on the white hostages in the main square of Stanleyville.

McMillan was a member of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, an inter-denominational mission group.

The other large Canadian family to escape were Dr. Melvin Loewen, 38, his 41-year-old wife Elfrieda and their five children, of Steinbach, Man.

Dr. Loewen is dean of the Protestant University of Stanleyville.

(Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burk of Toronto, Muriel Harman of Victoria, B.C., Sister Yvonne du bon Pasteur (Jeannette Vezina) of Montreal, Sister Thecle de Marie (Marie-Claire Carrier) of Edmunston, N.B., Sister Marie Gaston (Donia Bedard) of Notre Dame de la Paix, Que., and Mrs. Hulda Schroeder Brown of Waldheim, Sask.

(Rev. George Thomas of Toronto, Canadian secretary of the UFM, said earlier that the Burks were reported to have escaped.)

mentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson.

The ashened-faced French-Canadian, who is also chairman of the Liberal party caucus, said he has asked the prime minister to relieve him of his duties as parliamentary secretary until he was cleared at an inquiry.

He admitted he had made some representations in the case of the accused drug smuggler Leo Rivard, but denied any wrongdoing.

Then Justice Minister Favreau announced a judicial commission would be set up to inquire into his own decision not to recommend criminal charges after receiving an RCMP report on the alleged action of the two executive assistants.

The one-man commission, he said, would also decide at an open hearing whether any new evidence warranted prosecution.

Liberal back benchers and cabinet ministers appeared to be stunned Tuesday as the opposition hurled question after question about the scandal across the house.

Prime Minister Pearson, who delayed a flight to the Prairies for several hours so he could be in the Commons, sat stony-faced and generally silent.

But the agressive gleam in Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's eyes, noticeably absent during recent attacks on his Conservative party leadership, has returned brighter than ever.

'Explosive Political Dynamite'

There is no doubt in the minds of most observers that the Conservative charges are the most explosive piece of political dynamite to be thrown at the minority government during the entire trouble-filled session.

Observers are asking these key questions:

- Why did Justice Minister Favreau not take the usual action of referring the RCMP report on the activities of the executive assistants to the criminal law advisers in his department for a decision on whether charges should be laid?
- Why was Prime Minister Pearson not informed of the affair until the day before Neilsen made his charges in the House, particularly as one of his parliamentary secretaries was involved in the police investigation?
- How long can Pearson keep in his cabinet a justice minister who admitted he might have been naive in his handling of such an affair, and an immigration minister who failed to advise him of serious accusations against his executive assistant?

Opposition Sought Wider Inquiry

During the hectic question period Tuesday opposition members asked persistently for a widening of the terms of reference of the judicial inquiry.

Pearson said he believed the terms were wide enough to allow for a full inquiry, but agreed to reconsider them.

Diefenbaker also demanded that the spending estimates of the justice department be again brought before the Commons so Neilsen can make the further revelations he has promised.

Another lengthy debate on the justice department estimates is not possible under the present situation in which the estimates of all departments, by order of the House of Commons, have to be completed by Friday night.

The estimates of eight other departments have yet to be finally approved.

OUR LINDA HIGHLIGHTS BIG PARADE

The provincial government will enter a float in Saturday's Grey Cup parade in Toronto depicting "Beautiful B.C." — and bearing Canada's most beautiful girl to add oomph to the message.

Riding in state will be Miss Canada, Linda Douma of Sidney.

Heavy Trucks Face Penalty Off Highways

Central Saanich council Tuesday decided to crack down on logging trucks which are using side roads in the municipality.

It endorsed enforcement of a 1950 bylaw prohibiting heavily loaded vehicles from using routes other than primary and secondary highways.

Reeve Gordon R. Lee said he felt the trucks were using the side roads to avoid government weight scales at Elk Lake.

The vehicles cut across Wallace Drive to the West Saanich Road, thus avoid inspection, he said.

MP SUSPECTS LINE TAPPED

OTTAWA (CP) — Erik Nielson, Conservative MP for the Yukon, said Monday night he "strongly" suspects his Parliament Hill office telephone line is being tapped.

Mr. Nielsen declined to state the grounds for his suspicions but said they have been aroused for "some time."

CANDIDATE?

Fulton Talk Increases For City

Speculation that E. Davie Fulton may run as a federal Progressive Conservative for the Victoria seat increased somewhat Tuesday when it was learned the local riding's annual meeting was postponed for him.

The federal riding executive decided to push back its scheduled Nov. 30 meeting to sometime in mid-January when it learned the provincial PC leader could not make the earlier date.

Mr. Fulton will be the main speaker at the meeting, whenever it is held.

Victoria federal riding president Alex H. Reed, asked for his comments on rumors Mr. Fulton may re-enter the federal field here, was reported to have replied:

"I'm satisfied that if Mr. Fulton decided to come here he would make a splendid candidate."

MANY ENTRIES

However, he added, he would like to see as many candidates in the field as possible.

T. Foster Isherwood, acting secretary of the riding association, commented that there is no nominating convention under way "and we're not really shopping for a candidate."

Hootenarmy, A Sally Ann String Blast

A hootenarmy is not, as you may think, a regiment of khaki owls marching in formation.

It's a Salvation Army hootenanny.

One of these rare events will take place Sunday afternoon at the Citadel on Pandora Avenue at 2:30.

Supplying the music will be the Los Angeles Congress Hall Combo — a five-soldier group that really swings, according to local Salvation Army officials.

On Saturday night, there is a concert in the Citadel already sold out featuring the combo and the Arion Male Voice Choir.

Performers in the combo are Don Torgerson, lead tenor, and his wife, Darlene, who plays the organ; trumpeter Harry Stilwell, bandmaster of the Congress Hall Band; bass violinist Ed Hultin; and James Paton, who plays the electric guitar.

Victoria Amateur Movie Club will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at Norway House, 1110 Hillside.

A short business meeting will be followed by showing of members' films.

Nations Unite to Bolster Status of U.K. Sterling

LONDON (Reuters) — The Bank of England announced tonight it had made arrangements under which $3,000,000,000 (U.S.) will be available for the support of the pound sterling.

Eleven central banks and the Bank for International Settlement will make the funds available.

The Bank of Canada is among those participating.

The Bank of England's official statement said: "The Bank of England have made arrangements under which $3,000,000,000 are made available for the support of sterling.

"The central banks of Austria, Belgium, Canada, France, West Germany, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland and the U.S.A. are taking part, as is also the Bank for International Settlement.

"Included in the total is a loan from the Export-Import Bank of the United States.

"The credits newly made available are separate from the existing central bank credits which have been drawn on over recent months and which will mature shortly. These latter credits will be repaid after the forthcoming drawing by the United Kingdom from the International Monetary Fund has been completed."

Earlier an authoritative government source denied suggestions that the pound might be devalued.

Last-Born of Quints Dies of Lung Ailment

PARIS (Reuters) — Jean-Luc Sambor, last of the quintuplets born Monday to Mrs. Monique Sambor, died Tuesday night, the health ministry announced today.

There was "no change" in the condition of the othre four children — two boys and two girls.

The ministry said Jean-Luc had been suffering from respiratory troubles which suddenly worsened Tuesday night. Three hours later a hemorrhage of the lungs developed and he died.

The surviving babies were in incubators at the pediatrics centre of the Paris Faculty of Medicine.

Professor Marcel Leong, head of the centre, said "all of the babies are fighting for survival in their incubators."

The quintuplets, two girls and three boys, were born Monday, 2½ months premature, to Mrs. Monique Sambor, 27, wife of a postman. They were France's first quintuplets.

They weighed between two pounds, 1½ ounces and two pounds, 12 ounces. All five babies had difficulty breathing.

LAD PLAYS WITH PISTOL —RELATIVE SHOT DEAD

MONESSEN, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Celina Renshaw, 80, was shot to death Tuesday when a gun in the hands of her four-year-old great-grandson fired. Coroner Stephen D. Yoney said Layne Sandes, four, picked up a .38-calibre pistol that had been lying on a night stand in Mrs. Renshaw's bedroom for the last eight years.

DEFENCE CLAIM

Route 'Factor' In Car Crash

The Patricia Bay Highway may have been "a silent contributor" to a two-car crash in which two people were killed on Sept. 24, it was stated in B.C. Assize Court Tuesday.

Lawyer Donald Anderson was addressing a 12-man jury at the trial of Barry Robert McGillivray of Burnaby, who is charged with dangerous driving.

Killed in the crash were James Gordan Worrall, 4, of Sidney, and Mrs. Frances Daniel, 72, of 1317 Pandora. The crash occurred about half a mile north of Elk Lake near the intersection of Wells Road and the Patricia Bay Highway.

Said Mr. Anderson:

"This road, and I use the term advisedly, which has the effrontery to call itself a major highway, may have been a silent contributor to the accident."

Mr. Anderson said broken lines at the scene of the accident give permission to pass while the contour of the road curtails the view ahead.

The accused was travelling south on the highway and was in the act of passing another car when the accident occurred.

Mr. Anderson argued that a trailer, which was parked off the highway at the time of the accident, could also have confused McGillivray when his headlights hit a red reflector on the trailer.

SUMMATION

In his summation to the jury, Crown prosecutor E. George MacMinn said the broken lines in the highway mentioned by Mr. Anderson meant "you may pass" and not "you must pass."

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton gave his charge to the jury this morning.

567 Killed By Typhoon

MANILA (CP) — Typhoon Louise killed about 567 persons and left 300,000 homeless in it devastating sweep through the central and southern Philippines last week, the red Cross reported today.

President Diosdado Macapagal toured stricken Mindanao Island in the southeast today and called the typhoon "the most devastating calamity in the Philippines in a long time.

Earlier, the president had declared a state of calamity in Durigao de Notre province, where 312 persons were killed, on the basis of reports from a team of cabinet members.

On Negros Island, also hard hit by the storm, a village leader described the scene, at the height of a flood to a Philippine news service correspondent.

"It was a pathetic sight as hysterical parents lost all their children. It was a nightmare. . . . Drowning victims shouting for help, others clinging to rooftops as their houses were carried away by rampaging floodwaters or smashed by logs. . ."

After the flood, a tornado struck. It was reported to have lifted a Protestant chapel where the Filipino minister and his family had sought shelter and smashed it against his nearby home. The entire family was killed.

New Contract For Herring Fishermen

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eighty crews sailed for the herring fishing grounds during the weekend with a new work contract in their collective pocket.

The return to fishing ended a strike of 640 fishermen which began Oct. 24 over their pay and lack of a medical plan.

Before the strike an eight-man crew split $12.40 for every ton of herring they caught. Under the new contract they will reecive $2.08 more as a result of conclusive negotiations between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) and the Fisheries Association of B.C., acting for seven fishing companies.

The new contract also includes a medical plan, with half the cost paid for by the fishermen and half by the companies for the fishing season, plus four months. For the balance of the year the fishermen pay the full cost.

Pearson Aide Explains Position in Bribe Case

OTTAWA (CP) — Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal Dollard, said Tuesday night he resigned as Prime Minister Pearson's parliamentary secretary so that neither Mr. Pearson nor his position as prime minister "may be in any way brought into question" in a judicial inquiry.

Mr. Rouleau, chairman of the Liberal caucus of MPs, announced his resignation as parliamentary secretary in the Commons Tuesday shortly before a government decision was announced to hold a judicial inquiry into opposition charges of attempted bribery by a former executive assistant to Citizenship Minister Rene Tremblay.

Mr. Rouleau gave this account, in a statement issued outside the House, of his connection with the case:

At his brother's request, he asked the justice department to look into the possibility of obtaining bail for Lucien Rivard, charged with a narcotics offence in the U.S. and held pending extradition proceedings in Montreal.

He informed Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne of the step he had taken. Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the U.S. government but Mr. Rouleau said he had been informed Mr. Lamontagne was acting as a Crown prosecutor.

ACTED FOR U.S.

Mr. Rouleau said Mr. Lamontagne explained he was acting for the U.S. government, not the Canadian justice department, and outlined the nature of the charges against Rivard and the reasons bail was denied.

After the justice department relayed similar information, Mr. Rouleau said "at that point I completely dissociated myself from the matter."

Some time later, he said, he complied with an RCMP request and supplied the RCMP with similar information. No further question was asked him by the RCMP.

"At no time did I ever receive or transmit any offer of money, nor was any such offer ever brought to my knowledge.

"May I repeat that in my capacity as member of Parliament, I am frequently called upon to make representations to the department of justice on behalf of persons who claim to be the victims of unfair treatment."

Mr. Rouleau said he regrets his name was mentioned in connection with a matter on which he had no details and from which he withdrew as soon as the information was supplied by the authorities.

HAS REGRETS

"I also regret that my intervention might have caused embarrassment to the prime minister or the minister of justice."

He said he is pleased the government has called for a judicial inquiry and will provide it any clarification required.

"I am positive that the inquiry will enable me to establish beyond any doubt that I acted in good faith and in a manner that is entirely in accord with the integrity which must rule the conduct of any member of Parliament."

Mr. Rouleau's statement did not identify his brother by name but merely described him as the chairman of the Mille-Iles school board. An associate said the brother's name is Raymond.

'I Have Confidence In My Ministers'

SASKATOON (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday declined to criticize Justice Minister Favreau for his handling of charges of bribery and coercion against two federal ministerial assistants.

"I have confidence in my ministers," he said when asked if he believed Mr. Favreau acted correctly in not reporting the allegations to the prime minister until shortly before they became public knowledge.

The prime minister said in an interview Mr. Favreau informed him of the charges immediately before the justice department's spending estimates were brought down in the Commons "because he thought they (the charges) might come up in the House."

Mr. Pearson said a judicial inquiry would be set up "just as quickly as we can get a chairman."

He said terms of reference would include investigation of the bribery and corruption allegations to determine whether prosecution would be necessary.

Mr. Pearson addressed the annual Saskatchewan Liberal convention.

He told the convention the government had a "very, very rough time, indeed," in the Commons Tuesday over the charges against former ministerial assistants Raymond Denis and Guy Lord.

To Assist With Movie on Square

The film story of Centennial Square will be assisted by city hall inside staff union, which has given $500 to the project.

A movie record of the square's progress is being filmed through donations by private contractors and others, who have spent about $800 to date.

Council will be asked to match the $500 gift to help finish the project, expected to require about $3,000 all told.

City manager Dennis Young said the "example of far-sighted civic planning" will be circulated throughout Canada when completed, bearing the union's name in the credits.

LESAGE SHUFFLES CABINET

QUEBEC (UP)—Two cabinet members in the Liberal government of Premier Jean Lesage switched portfolios today and a third resigned and was appointed to the legislative council, Quebec's upper house.

Transport and Communications Minister Gerard Cournoyer (Lib-Richelieu) became tourism, games and fisheries minister. He replaced Leonel Bertrand (Lib.-Terrebonne) who was appointed to Cournoyer's post.

Minister without portfolio Mrs. Clair Kirkland-Casgrain (Lib.-Montreal Jacques Cartier) was appointed to Cournoyer's post.

Bertrand also resigned his seat as a deputy but a by-election in Terrebonne is not expected to be called for some time.

Nothing But the Truth

THERE CAN BE ONLY ONE possible reply — already indicated by the government—to the startling charges arising out of the Denis affair which Monday and yesterday hushed the House of Commons and shocked the country. There must be a complete and open investigation of every aspect of the accusations so that no questions remain unanswered in the public mind.

It should be remembered that as yet there are only charges, made under the immunity granted to spokesmen in the Commons. The dismissal of one person involved and the resignation of two others followed naturally under the circumstances. The guilt or innocence of these persons, however, and of any others who may enter the picture remains to be determined by the proper authorities. That there has been delay in publicizing the matter, and in reporting the first suggestion of irregularities, must be assessed against those whose responsibility it was to act through recognized legal channels. It seems clear that Mr. Pearson acted immediately the matter was drawn to his attention. But failure to inform him earlier should be explained to the public.

There should be no thought of a limited enquiry or a secret one. There should be full exoneration of anyone wrongly accused, and full exposure of anyone who may be guilty of wrong doing. The integrity of individuals and the good name of the government are here involved. Nothing less than the truth will satisfy the public.

A Valuable Public Service

THE NEW REPORT ON JUVENILE delinquency in this area makes two points very clear: the rate of delinquency is increasing faster than the growth of our young population and present methods of handling it are not effective enough.

This is a factual finding by a study committee of Greater Victoria's Community Welfare Council, which presented its report to the parent body today. With the report are several recommendations.

The committee does not pretend to have all the answers to the problem. On the other hand it suggests action which may reduce the incidence of delinquency here, may assist in the reformation of the offender and best of all may, by early identification, steer some youngsters away from delinquency.

Most of the recommendations involve greater expenditure on the various forms of treatment proposed. Some can be carried out with relatively little extra cost, some call for more extensive financing.

But if improvements are not shown in methods of handling the situation here, then juvenile delinquency is going to become much more costly than it is now. Hence, funds spent on effective courses are investments which could furnish dividends by avoiding the losses entailed in an expansion of local juvenile delinquency.

If the report leads to public recognition of the fact that this community—all of it—has a stake in reducing juvenile delinquency, it will have served a purpose and at the same time it will have increased the possibilities of various authorities doing something more about the problem.

No one acquainted with the subject assumes that there is one acceptable, all-embracing treatment which will offer a complete cure. Progress toward control is the best that can be expected, and it can be made only with a recognition of the need for different methods for different types of young offenders, whose make-up and responses vary sharply.

The committee has suggested a sensible improvement in facilities by urging the establishment of a family and children's court building of a nature to impress upon youth the dignity and importance of its functions. Makeshift arrangements so far undertaken here are not adequate.

There is wisdom, also, in the recommendation that adequately trained people be employed in the early grades of public schools to identify children with problems who, lacking early attention, may become delinquent.

Many of the other suggestions merit close consideration by various authorities with jurisdiction over children in trouble or apparently headed for trouble.

The degree to which such proposals are implemented will, in the committee's opinion, determine to a large extent the value of the report.

It has alerted the public to a very serious situation here—a situation which could rapidly grow worse if left without adequate attention. The adequacy of attention, it should be noted, will depend largely on the extent to which existing services are broadened. This is particularly the case in probation work where staff in operation at present is burdened by too heavy case loads and by duties other than those of giving personal attention to individual children.

Obviously the committee has kept in mind not only the need to work toward the rehabilitation of youngsters who have strayed, but also to see to it that the depredations of the delinquents do not expand in a way to inflict greater injury on the public in general. The victim no less than the culprit has been considered.

This is no namby-pamby gesture to extend undue leniency to young people who misbehave seriously. It is, rather, an effort to check that misbehavior by constructive measures aimed at prevention and reformation.

The study group has provided a useful community service. But the fruits will lie in what action is taken.

An Answer Too Long Delayed

THE CONTINUING TOLL OF life and property on the Patricia Bay Highway calls for a proper study to be made of the whole traffic situation on that thoroughfare. The provincial government has promised new routings, new lanes, new speeds, but such proposals do nothing to meet the problem which confronts us now with the old routing, the old lanes and the old speeds.

If closer control of speed is the answer, then let us more closely control speed. If the answer lies in better banking on curves, better informational signs, better lighting, better supervision — then by all means let us have what is necessary.

But first there must be facts—and so far we have mostly theories. How long will authorities wait to provide proper protection for vehicle drivers—if necessary, against themselves?

A Different Kettle of Fish

REPRESENTATIVES OF CANADA, the United States and Japan, after six days spent discussing fisheries of the North Pacific, have agreed to urge their respective countries to shorten the halibut season in the Bering Sea.

This is the logical response to the problem which has developed in those waters in the last year or two. In 1964 halibut fishermen in the area caught only one-third of the permissible quota—a result indicative of heavy depletion of the stock.

But at the same meeting the three nations reportedly failed to agree on the contentious "abstention" principle applied previously to Japanese who thereby were prevented from fishing for salmon east of the 175th meridian.

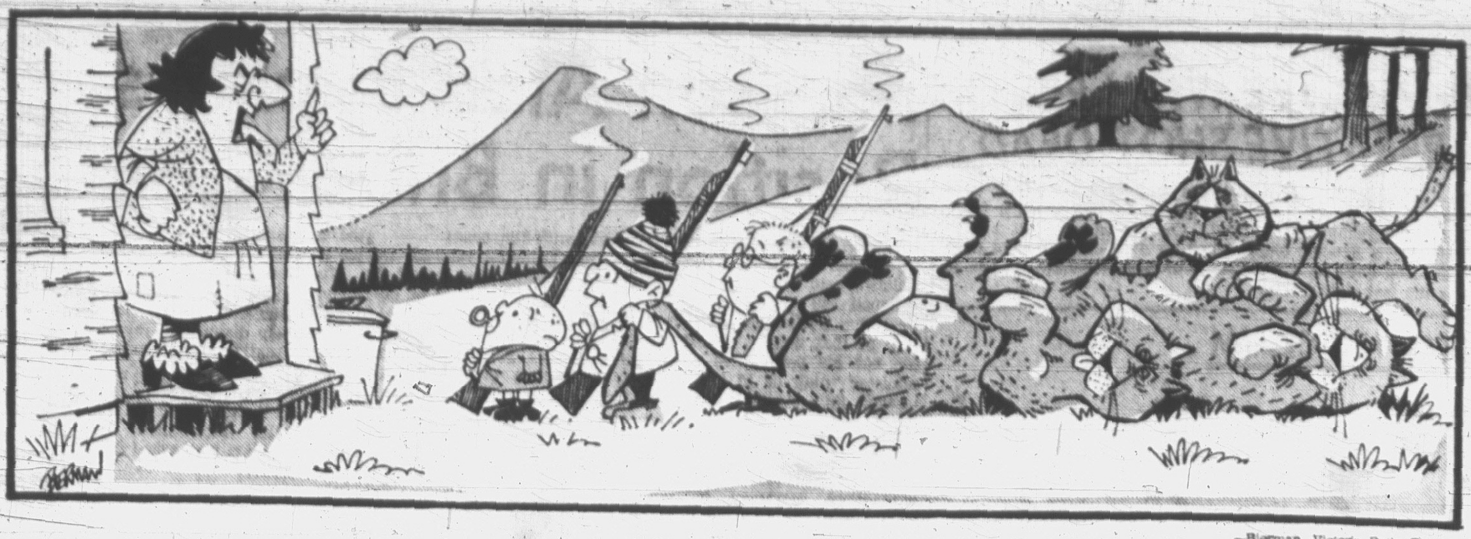
The principle was accepted in the original three-nation North Pacific pact by a Japan emerging from the defeat of the Second World War and in no position to protest strongly. It was justified by the North Americans on conservation grounds and on the argument that wide-ranging species in that section of the high seas came from North American streams where propagation had been stimulated by heavy Canadian-American investment.

Japan today is no longer bargaining from a position of weakness comparable to that existing 10 or 12 years ago. Moreover her fishermen have applied heavy pressure on the government to avoid any renewal of the abstention principle.

Yet though the six-day meeting failed to produce agreement on this contentious point, it may be significant that the three countries agreed on protective measures for Bering Sea halibut. Stocks of that fish were so low some joint action was obviously essential if the resource were to be built up again. Japan recognized that fact.

Conceivably if high-seas salmon fishing seriously depletes that stock, the three nations will again agree on protective measures—the abstention principle perhaps. But at this point in negotiations Japan does not appear convinced that abolition of the restriction on her high seas salmon fishing threatens the supply.

As long as Japan takes that stand, renewal of this section of the old three-nation pact remains a remote possibility.



"How many more times do I have to tell you kids—first your homework, and THEN you can have fun . . . !"

—Bierman, Victoria Daily Times

AFTER THE POST-KHRUSHCHEV FOG

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

'Strong Men' Identified in Russia's Big Shuffle

THE features of the chief actors in the new power-struggle in the Kremlin are already beginning to emerge through the smokescreen laid down by Moscow after Mr. Khrushchev's fall. As Messrs. Podgorny and Shelest, the two Ukrainians, on the one hand, and Shelepin and Semichastny, the two political policemen, on the other, loom up through the mists the overlordship of Messrs. Brezhnev and Kosygin begins to look very provisional indeed.

These two men are, in effect, being invited to preside over extensive party reforms, or shake-ups, the execution of which will be shared by Podgorny and Shelepin, each exploiting the situation to his own advantage.

A fortnight ago, I suggested that Mr. Semichastny, the egregious youth leader, turned head of political police, must have played a critical part in neutralizing his own master, Mr. Khrushchev, before the comrades could sew him up. What was not clear at the time was whom Mr. Semichastny was acting with and for.

Prime Mover

His prime mover might have been Mr. Podgorny, like Mr. Khrushchev an ex-party boss of the Ukraine, who, surviving after the downfall of Khrushchev with whom he had been very intimately associated, had evidently been playing for his own hand. Or it might have been Mr. Shelepin, Mr. Semichastny's predecessor both as head of the Komsomol and the KGB. There was nothing to tell whether Semichastny was for or against his immediate senior. Now it is clear that he was for him.

Shelepin has profited greatly from other people. Already a member of the party secretariat, he has now been elevated to the Presidium. The only other men who belonged to both these august bodies are Brezhnev, Suslov and Podgorny. Since Brezhnev appears to lack the stuff of leadership, and since Suslov has always been a back room figure, this means that Podgorny and Shelepin are now the two most powerful and challenging men in the Soviet Union.

Can Spot Own Men

Podgorny, at 61 is now in charge of the party cadres—i.e. the staffing of all party appointments—and has also undertaken the job of party reform: undoing certain of Khrushchev's arrangements aimed, amongst other things, at reducing the power of provincial party leaders. Podgorny is thus in a position to put his own men where he wants them. For his own immediate support he has moved up to Moscow from Kiev his successor as party boss of the Ukraine, Mr. Shelest. He is thus very strong.

But Shelepin, 46, tight-lipped, cold-eyed, all ambition, has the KGB still in his pocket. Semichastny has been rewarded by promotion to the Central Committee. He is still only 40. On top of that, Shelepin is master of the State and Party Control Committee, which exercises an inspectorate over all party functionaries—i.e., in future, the men appointed by Podgorny.

There are other interesting promotions; but these can be discussed on a later occasion. The important thing is the immense concentration of powers in the hands of both Podgorny and Shelepin. This in itself is sufficient to induce rivalry of the most cut-throat kind. It seems inevitable that the men who came together to get rid of Khrushchev will soon be turning on each other. Mr. Brezhnev's role is evidently to hold the ring. It is the sort of employment that in the Soviet Union rarely last long.

For some time to come the sound and fury seems likely to be limited to the domestic front. In Soviet foreign policy there will be no sharp change just yet.

This applies to Moscow's China policy too. After the very brief truce which followed the removal of Khrushchev, and which was highlighted by Chou En-lai's Moscow visit, China is once more resuming the offensive. Speaking through her obedient satellite, Albania, she has now formally declared that the new Soviet leadership has demonstrated its intention of continuing on Khrushchev's revisionist and anti-Leninist path.

Peking Warning

The other day Peking itself issued another warning of the return to the status quo ante, with a short, sharp statement about Sinkiang.

It had already been suggested there that there was more to the Sinkiang quarrel than met the eye, and that Mr. Khrushchev, not contenting himself with stirring up trouble on the border, was planning a deeper operation aiming at raising a major rebellion which could lead to the virtual detachment of the province from China, and at the same time wreck China's nuclear installations.

Strong Talk

Last Wednesday the New China News Agency gave some color to this suggestion when it reported speeches made at the Provincial Peoples Congress at Urumchi, in which it was declared again and again that Sinkiang was "a sacred and inalienable part of the great Chinese fatherland," and that, "any ignoble scheme aiming at destroying the unity of our fatherland and undermining the solidarity of all our nationalists is doomed to end in shameful defeat."

Although it is clear that the breach between Russia and China is not to be bridged, although Chou En-lai went home with nothing to show for his visit, there is evidently to be a certain attempt to paper over the cracks, at any rate as far as state relations are concerned. It is reliably reported that the Soviet Union is about to extend limited economic aid to China and that Mr. Brezhnev has committed himself to visit Peking. At the same time the most incendiary operation of all, the conference of 26 parties scheduled for December, through which Mr. Khrushchev was determined to force a formal split with China in the teeth of opposition from fraternal parties everywhere, has now been quietly dropped.

FROM PARIS

By CHARLES BARTLETT

'A Statue Barring the Road to the Future'

THE wiles of diplomats and the humbling forces of politics do not hold any immediate answers to Charles de Gaulle's disruptive influence upon the Western Alliance.

"He is like an enormous statue barring the road to the future," the former French Premier Paul Reynaud writes in a new book of stinging criticism against Gaullist politics which have led France into a virtual state of isolation.

French officials maintain in private conversation that if John Kennedy had lived many problems would have been eliminated by a De Gaulle-Kennedy meeting last spring. They say that much will now depend upon a De Gaulle-Johnson meeting which they project for next March.

But there is no motion in the relations between France and the United States. De Gaulle's attitude is tightly bound by bitterness against the Anglo-Saxons. The memory of his exclusion from the meeting at Yalta has not been eased by the British perfidy in cancelling the joint plans to build the Concord supersonic plane.

"We do not want the giant of the West to lead us, not even to protect us," De Gaulle said a year ago. This is a cardinal Gaullist tenet and it is difficult to believe that President Johnson or any visitor will find a way around it. Hubert Humphrey was warned off the trip to Europe that was projected in Texas right after the elections and there is no American enthusiasm in Paris for the prospect of a March visit by Mr. Johnson. "President De Gaulle doesn't have much to say to any American," says one observer. "In fact he really doesn't have much to say to anyone."

De Gaulle's underlings concede that he has been disillusioned by the failure of his six-year campaign to bind West Germany to France. He miscalculated the thrust of Germany's economic revival and the extent of her psychological dependence upon the United States. He aimed at enhancing the grandeur of France but he has ended by enlarging Germany's importance at the expense of France.

This disappointment has caused him to withdraw more than ever from his colleagues. He does not fully confide in any man and his plans are made beyond the reach of consultation or criticism. As it was said of King Louis XIV the French now say: "The gap around the throne is terrifying."

Criticism of De Gaulle has increased among French intellectuals and jokes about De Gaulle have spread among the people. But observers agree that if he decides to run again, in the election that will be held in early December 1965, he is likely to carry some 60 per cent of the vote.

De Gaulle symbolizes an escape from an unhappy past. His errors on the world scene are obscured by the state's control of television. The nightly budget of television news is tailored to the interests of the government, and opposition has little chance to be heard.

De Gaulle's economic policies, although based upon a heavy system of controls which cause some chafing, have induced a prosperity of stable prices and full employment. France's gold reserve has increased ten-fold since De Gaulle took power. The prices of manufactured goods are high in France and French manufacturers, like De Gaulle's isolationist fears about becoming an economic satellite, have been agitated by the American acquisitions of French subsidiaries and an awed awareness that General Motors' advertising budget is larger than the entire operating budget of any French company.

De Gaulle's ability to be re-elected is more certain than his intention to seek re-election. The decision has not been made, his associates maintain, and they do not expect any indications before spring. The informed hunch is that he will run unless he is deeply troubled by his health which is presently excellent, or by a realization that his foreign policies are inexorably destined to fail. Some believe that if an MLF treaty is signed before spring De Gaulle may accept the event as his final discouragement.

The old age of this remarkable figure is sad for him and for the world. As Reynaud wrote, "It is possible to be a great man without being a statesman."

FROM ROME

By NINETTA JUCKER

A New Power Shift in the Roman Catholic Church

AN EVENT which marks a turning point in the history of the Roman Catholic Church as important as a dogma of papal infallibility occurred in the closing session of Vatican Council II. By 2,099 votes to 46 the fathers approved a new doctrine which says that the bishops "under and with the Pope" have supreme authority over the Church.

This so-called doctrine of collegiality says the bishops are the successors of the Apostles and derive their power from divine will and not by concession from the Pope. Historically the vote completes the work left unfinished 90 years ago by Vatican Council I. This was called to define the respective powers of the bishops and the Pope, but had only time to proclaim the dogma of infallibility.

Ended By Troops

In September, 1870, Italian troops, entering Rome, put an end to the Council and the temporal power of the Pope. For nearly a century the dogma of infallibility (uncorrected by the corollary on the authority of the bishops) has been the pretext for centralizing the government of the Church in the hands of a jealous Italian-dominated Curia (the court of the Papal See). It required the genius of Pope John to perceive that this over-centralization was keeping the Church out of touch with the world.

Vatican Council II is nothing less than the gigantic effort to wrench the Roman Catholic Church out of the Counter-Reformation and put it into the mid-twentieth century. To this end the new doctrine on the collective responsibility of the bishops and the Pope is immensely important.

Vitality In Bishops

In three remarkable sessions the Council has shown that the real vitality of the Roman Catholic Church lies in its great bishops. Again and again these men have refused to let themselves be brow-beaten by the Curia or to allow the central operators to double-cross them or stampede them into accepting garbled versions or amendments of the schemas the Council is called to debate.

There have been some outstanding incidents like the protest of 17 cardinals to the Pope against an attempt to stifle discussion. Their action constrained Paul VI to promise to call a fourth session of the Council.

Again recently the Council fathers held their independence by refusing to vote the draft schema on missions recommended to them personally by the Pope.

There is nothing at this stage in the nature of a conflict between the bishops and the Pope but a new phase of decentralization has started in which the bishops, particularly the great archbishops, emerge as the dominant figures to the detriment of the Curia and also incidentally of the lower clergy which is now dominated by a local hierarchy with enhanced powers and prestige.

The personal influence and authority of the Pope remains formally unimpaired. In practice it will probably tend to depend slightly more on the personality of the man and slightly less on the prestige of his office.

The new authority of the bishops offsets the somewhat disappointing results of the Council in the two major fields to which this session gave attention: relations between the Roman Catholic Church and other religions and its function in the modern world.

As regards the ecumenical program the schema on revelation leaves the door open for further discussions with the other churches but progress if any is more likely to be with the Orthodox Church than with the Protestant sects. The Council watered down its original statement absolving the Jews of responsibility for the death of Christ and has sought to please the Arabs by asserting that of the non-Christian religions the Muslim is the nearest to the Christian faith. Both these questions were handled clumsily and neither the Jews nor the Arabs are likely to be much appeased.

Unsatisfactory

The schema on the Church in the modern world which embraces such controversial matters as birth control and nuclear weapons has left no one satisfied and will certainly be the centre of discussion when the Council meets again next year. The Pope has reserved to himself the final ruling on the Catholic pill after hearing a special commission.

Whether or not the Council in some future session gets around to revising Roman Catholic doctrine on marriage, the important thing at this point is that some powerful voices have been raised to defend a new attitude towards the problem, shifting the emphasis from procreation towards the physical and spiritual aspects of marriage as companionship.

Doctrinal Decentralization?

What use will the bishops, particularly the Afro-Asian bishops, make of their new-found authority? Is the Roman Catholic Church heading towards doctrinal as well as administrative decentralization? These are the questions raised by the Council session which closed on November 21.

Perhaps the fourth session next year will provide some of the answers. But will a fourth session be enough? The possibility that the bishops may try to keep the Council alive as a permanent institution should not be wholly discarded.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

Miriam Green Ellis, a dean among Canadian newspaperwomen and a recognized authority on all matters pretaining to stock, grains and agriculture, will not make her usual visit to the Empress Hotel this winter.

Last Friday, in Winnipeg, a city she adopted as her own, she stepped quietly into eternity.

Friends in Victoria will mourn her passing. At the same time they know she will not soon be forgotten.

During more than 30 years, until retirement in 1953, her broad-shouldered, mannishly dressed figure was to be found wherever there was an agricultural fair or a stock show in any of the western provinces.

She gained fame for her accurate reporting and her name became a by-word in every phase of ranch and farm activity.

Breeches, high boots and classically tailored suits were her characteristic attire. On most occasions she went hatless.

Her hair was brushed severely back from her high forehead and her shrewd, grey-blue eyes looked directly at you from behind heavy-rimmed glasses.

* * *

She always carried a stout cane. It was her trademark.

From occasions when she was in reminiscent mood, those closest to her gleaned that she was very proud of the fact that she had successfully shouldered her way into a corner of her profession that included more men than women . . . and in a day when it was considered "unladylike" for women to step out of their own sphere.

It was a matter of pride with her, too, that she could meet ranchers, stockmen and farmers on their own ground and talk intelligently about their failures and successes.

In her knowledge of their agricultural needs she was the equal of any man. In fact, I would hazard a guess, she was the superior of most.

Mrs. Ellis always said she drifted into agricultural reporting when she worked for the Edmonton Bulletin.

* * *

Her editor was Frank Oliver, minister of the interior in the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier from 1905 to 1911. He brought his printing press across the prairies by ox cart and he believed that agriculture was Canada's basic industry.

All politicians said that, Miriam Green Ellis used to insist, but this one meant it. When summer came he turned his staff loose and even hired more to cover the fairs.

That's when she first adopted breeches, top boots and mannish coats. "If you had to wade through dust, straw and dirt in those early stock rings you'd have worn 'em too," she would say in defence when someone questioned the attire.

Primarily she left Winnipeg for this city each January and February to get away from the severe winter cold.

She'd tell you she could as easily go to Florida or southern California, but somehow she never did get around to it. She liked Victoria and she had friends here.

* * *

She always had the same room in the Empress Hotel, a combination bedroom and sitting room on the first floor, with windows facing over the Inner Harbor.

There was a time when friends who knew her loves and likes, accused her of coming back to this city, year after year, to make sure the CPR boats were still making their way out of the harbor—and to help them accomplish this feat.

She'd agree. In fact she'd boast that she never went to bed at night until the midnight boat went out.

"I love to watch it turn and twist its way out of the harbor," she'd say, "and subconsciously I've no doubt I do give it a shove or two for luck."

* * *

When the service was curtailed she exploded into blazing wrath. In fact she packed her bags that year and left on one of the last regular sailings with the avowed intention of never coming back.

She did come back, however, to the room she called hers and to the view she loved.

That next year and for each successive visit, she brought a supply of thumb tacks with her to fasten the window drapes back so she would not miss a move out in the harbor.

One year she arrived to find hotel staff putting new and heavier drapes at the windows. A grand opportunity for her to wave her cane and say: "I don't want them. Take them away!"

Which they did. And, she won her point.

In future years Miriam Green Ellis will no doubt become a legend alongside others whose stories are a part of the Canadian west.

Right now she is remembered as one of the outstanding newspaperwomen of her time. She would ask no higher accolade.

NATURE ON THE ISLAND

Turkey Vultures on Increase

DEAR DR. CARL:

This fall a group of several dozen turkey vultures was seen circling over Oak Bay. The birds soared aimlessly for some time then gradually drifted off southwards. Where did they come from and where were they going?

E. G. H.

DEAR E. G. H.:

Each year turkey vultures appear over the city, usually near the end of September or in October. Sometimes 60 to 70 birds are seen in one flock and they are so conspicuous because of their large size and wheeling flight that even non-bird watchers notice them.

Carl

Because of their more or less regular occurrence each year in the fall and their general southerly direction of movement it seems obvious that the birds are on migration, but where they have come from and where they go is not precisely known.

* * *

Vultures used to be considered quite rare in British Columbia. Occasionally one or two birds would be seen around the Gulf Islands or along the rock bluffs of Saanich Inlet and a few birds were known to work over slash areas northwest of Courtenay, but they were never thought to be numerous.

However, the number that are spotted each year over the city indicate that they are far more common than formerly supposed, but their source is still somewhat of a mystery.

The population must be thinly spread along the entire coast and over the adjacent logged-off country with the result that the birds are relatively inconspicuous.

Where these birds go is also unknown. Until someone studies the life history of our local birds we can only assume they travel south to areas free of snow in the winter months, possibly California. Since the normal range of the turkey vulture is a vast area extending south from southern Canada clear down to the Strait of Madgellan, including most of the United States and Mexico, fresh arrival of groups as small as our population would be unnoticed.

Actually it is probably only birds at the extremes of the range that migrate, and these movements are noticeable in areas such as southern Vancouver Island only because the configuration of the land funnels the birds into a narrow migration route.

* * *

Vultures are scavengers, depending upon dead animals for their food. Along the coast they probably subsist upon deer which die of natural causes as well as those that are killed but not retrieved by hunters. They also patrol the beaches for dead fish and other carrion stranded by the ebbing tide.

Domestic stock also are a potential source of food. While the birds are ordinarily interested only in dead animals they have occasionally been accused of hastening the death of lambs that are too weak to stand.

How vultures locate their prey has been a contentious question for many years. Scientists have tended to believe that since birds as a group have practically no sense of smell, vultures must depend entirely upon their sense of sight for finding carrion.

This theory was substantiated years ago by a simple experiment; when a dead animal was concealed by brush or other cover vultures failed to find it though birds apparently passed within smelling distance of the corpse.

* * *

However this test was inconclusive; more recent experiments using a certain synthetic gas have shown that vultures do indeed have a rather keen sense of smell and are quite capable of flying upwind precisely to the source of the artificial odor. This ability, which is most unusual for a bird, has already been put to a very practical use. By pumping this same gas through a pipeline engineers have been able to spot leaks with a minimum of time loss by merely noting where vultures tend to congregate.

Send questions in natural history to Dr. Cliff Carl, in care of the Times.

SCHISM MAY BECOME DEEPER

Peking Terms Too Tough for Soviet

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

China has delivered its ultimatum to the Soviet Union: plug up the holes in the Iron Curtain or the Communist movement will be irrevocably divided into two camps.

No other construction can be placed upon a 3,000-word statement from the theoretical journal, Red Flag, broadcast by Peking over the weekend. As matters stand now, it means the Soviet-Chinese dispute not only will continue, but probably will grow more intense.

Peking, in breaking a sullen silence on its reception of the new regime in the Soviet Union, probably has thrown a scare into the Communists of both Eastern and Western Europe.

Almost openly, Red Flag was asking for a continuing and thoroughgoing purge in the U.S.S.R. to weed out all those Communists who supported Nikita Khrushchev's policies, and to return to Stalinism. This would be bad news for the Communist-ruled countries of Eastern Europe, and equally bad news for West European Reds for whom Stalinism had proved a heavy liability.

TERMS ARE TOUGH

The Chinese statement was a recitation of Peking's terms for playing ball with Moscow within a unified world Communist movement, but the terms are just about as tough as they can be. Indeed, if the Chinese conditions were met, the present regime of party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin in the U.S.S.R. could not last long.

Peking heavily assailed virtually all the domestic, Communist party and foreign policies developed in the Khrushchev era.

In almost so many words, Peking demanded that Moscow reassess and reinstate Stalinism. It demanded an end to co-operation between the Soviet Union and the United States and virtually demanded abrogation of the Moscow treaty partially banning nuclear tests.

It demanded that the Russians once again anathematize President Tito of Yugoslavia and toss him out of the Communist family. It demanded that policy of the Soviet 22nd party congress dealing with consumer goods development and the theoretical course of Soviet Communism be scrapped as hopelessly "revisionist."

And it demanded a purge in the U.S.S.R. This was implicit in its warning that there must be no "Khrushchevism without Khrushchev."

AGREEMENT HARD

The Soviet Union, as matters stand now, can meet none of these terms. Meeting all of them is utterly out of the question. Even if there should be a successful new palace revolution in the Kremlin by an alliance of Stalinists and military men, it could hardly hope to go back all the way to Stalin after the past decade of Soviet social development.

At the same time, the Chinese assault will do nothing to help the new Soviet regime. Even if there were a Soviet anxiety to muffle the dispute with Peking, it could lead to perilous paths. The prospect could so alarm Europe—including even Communists in Europe—that the cure for the Peking-Moscow dispute could turn out to be worse than the disease.

Therefore, the dispute will continue. The chances are that if Peking-Moscow talks are held in 1965, they will prove fruitless.

China will turn her back on the U.S.S.R. and devote her attention to dominating revolutionary movements in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Gov't Douses Industry Hopes To Build Plane

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Production Minister Drury Tuesday seemingly delivered a knockout blow to the hopes of the Canadian aircraft industry of procuring a contract to build the U.S. McDonnell F-0 Phantom jet fighter-bomber.

He told the Commons defence committee that the level of activity in the aircraft industry is and should be dictated by defence policy rather than defence policy being dictated by the aspirations of the industry.

The defence department is known to favor the U.S. Northrop F-5 Freedom Fighter whose unit price is less than one-third that of the Phantom.

A Christmas Gift Idea

By HILDA BEASTALL

People with orderly habits are already compiling Christmas gift lists.

In fact, I know of some cases where gifts involving garden plants have been given, received and are adorning their new gardens.

Hilda

You too may be in the happy situation of having had a gardening friend admire or express a wish to have a plant similar to one in your garden.

If this is so, now is a good time to obtain the plant and see that your friend receives it while planting weather is still with us.

We all know the pleasure of receiving "exactly what we wanted! How did you know?"

Sometimes a surprise gift is in order, and for an active gardener that could well mean a membership in the local horticultural group.

Our own Victoria Horticultural Society is just commencing its new year, and a two dollar gift membership will entitle your friend to 12 monthly four page issues of the society's Garden Notes.

This publication has been sent out to members for more than 35 years, and is crammed with gardening information for this Victoria area.

The society is a lively one, conducting practical outdoor pruning demonstrations on fruit trees and roses in their proper seasons, as well as staging two rousing flower shows each year in the Victoria Curling Rink.

A meeting is held on the first Tuesday of each month in the St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora Avenue, at which a speaker is heard on a subject selected from suggestions submitted by members.

Enquiries will be welcomed, or subscriptions of two dollars may be mailed to the Secretary Mr. G. A. Wiggan, 1840 Ferndale Road, Victoria.

MORE EFFICIENCY IN LONG RUN, SAYS NAVY LEAGUE HEAD

Integration of Services 'Inevitable, Progressive'

By PAT DUFOUR

A man who heads an organization devoted to promoting the Royal Canadian Navy and merchant marine sees the federal government's plans for the integration of Canada's three armed services as "progressive and inevitable."

Dr. Harry D. Roberts, newly-elected national president of the Navy League of Canada, is here from St. John's, Nfld., on his first official tour of the league's activities which also include Royal Canadian Sea Cadets, Navy League Cadets and Navy League Wrenettes.

'DISTURBING'

"This period of reorganization is disturbing to all concerned but, in the long run, the new plans promise more efficiency for all three services."

Dr. Roberts stopped off in Ottawa on his trip west and met with members of the national defence board.

"I was assured that service men and officers in the lower ranks will remain definite components of their particular service. After all, you can't expect a pilot to be able to run a naval vessel or vice versa!"

UP TO DATE

He is confident that the new ships promised to the RCN will be competent and up to date.

"In addition to other qualities, the ships will also have transport capabilities. Our navy has never had ships like this and, in large-scale landings, transport by sea is the most economical and efficient."

Dr. Roberts was not so enthusiastic about the closure of reserve divisions.

DR. HARRY ROBERTS
. . . official visit.

"In towns and cities where this has happened, the placing of the navy's case before the public has been definitely weakened."

Dr. Roberts also criticized the federal government's neglect of merchant shipping.

"I come from a place that had its roots in the merchant marine. Anyone who visits a port or reads the shipping lists cannot help but be concerned that Canada has no deepsea ships at all and that very few British ships are using our ports.

NO ACTION

"Representation has been made to the federal government over the years but there has been no action taken to prevent the disappearance of our merchant marine or to plan its rebuilding. To any true Canadian who saw the way in which Canada answered the call for merchant shipping from 1939 to 1945, it's a great cause for concern."

Dr. Roberts supports this year's change in regulations which requires a student enrolled in the Regular Officers' Training Plan to spend a minimum of four years in the service of his choice instead of the former three-year period.

"In fact, I'd like to see it upped to five years. This is the least a man should be prepared to give after he's received a university education at the expense of the taxpayer."

ASSURANCE

Dr. Roberts reports that he received assurance from defence board officials that revision of the services would not, in any way, boomerang to a cutback in cadet activities.

He reports that present figures show a total of 10,000 Royal Canadian Sea Cadets while the league is aiming at having 5,000 Navy League Cadets and 1,000 Navy League Wrenettes this year.

While not on league business, Dr. Roberts is a surgeon in charge of a medical group in St. John's.

CEREMONY SET FOR FOUNTAIN

Formal dedication of Centennial Square fountain will be at 5:30 p.m. next Tuesday, with a brief reception for special guests following.

The city's square committee decided Monday to ask councillors and reeves of the outside municipalities to be there with aldermen, artists, architects and others directly involved for a brief ceremony and switching on of illumination.

City Author Marks 95th Birthday With New Book

MORTON
. . . "it's gratifying"

James Morton, well-known Victoria author, was 95 Sunday.

At his home at 710 Rupert, the still sprightly veteran announced that his latest book—a collection of verse entitled "After Ninety"—will be published shortly.

It is being printed by Peninsula Press of Sidney and will be distributed by Gray's Publishing Ltd.

"At my age it is gratifying to be still writing," Mr. Morton said.

He celebrated his 95th anniversary quietly, taking his usual walk around the city; reading and writing and receiving birthday phone calls.

Mr. Morton was for many years secretary to Premier John Oliver of British Columbia and his book on the premier, "Honest John Oliver," is still a standard favorite in Canadian libraries.

Born in Staffordshire, England, he came to Canada with his parents and was raised at Two Creeks, Manitoba.

His father was a farmer and Mr. Morton followed in his footsteps, working a homestead until 1902, when he moved to the coast and worked as general reporter on The Vancouver Herald, until 1913.

PRESS GALLERY

Then he returned to farming in Manitoba, but a series of heartbreak droughts brought him back to the Pacific Coast. Mr. Morton joined The Vancouver World and came to Victoria as its legislative reporter.

He became Premier John Oliver's secretary in 1920, and after his death, continued as secretary to Premier J. D. MacLean and Premier S. F. Tolmie.

Mr. Morton has met many celebrities and one of his greatest friends was Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Back in 1910 he interviewed Rudyard Kipling, when the poet laureate visited Victoria and Vancouver.

Last July Mr. Morton represented the Victoria and Islands branch, Canadian Authors' Association, at the ninth annual Pacific Northwest Writers' Conference in Bellingham, Wash.

"I'm still active and thankful to be in fairly good health," he said. "I shall continue writing as long as I'm able."

Mr. Morton says he is still "more Liberal than Conservative" but has an admiration for Premier Bennett as leader of British Columbia's Social Credit government.

"He's dynamic and he gets things done. No one can deny that."

U.K. Plans Memorial To Kennedy

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's permanent memorial to the late President Kennedy will be a hillside garden near London resembling "a Zen-Buddhist garden of contemplation," it was announced last week.

Three acres of meadowland overlooking Runnymede Island in the Thames, where the Magna Carta was signed in 1215, will be surrounded by a sunken fence. The three-part memorial will consist of an inscribed stone, a paved walk and two stone "contemplation" seats.

The memorial is expected to be completed by next June, 750th anniversary of the signing of the Magna Carta.

The seven-ton, 100-foot-long memorial stone will bear a quotation from Kennedy's inaugural address:

"Let every nation know that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, support any friend or oppose any foe, to assure the survival, and success of liberty."

Nasser Going to Bonn

CAIRO (UPI)—UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser has accepted an invitation to visit West Germany. The visit—expected to come after the UAR presidential elections next March—will be Nasser's first to a western nation, except for his trip to New York a few years ago to attend the UN general assembly.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE PLANNED

A citizen's zoning and planning committee may next year be the sounding board for public reaction to high-rise apartment buildings in Oak Bay.

Reeve Allan Cox said today he would propose in his opening report in January that a large zoning and planning advisory committee, composed of ratepayers representative of the whole muicipality, be constituted. It would enable council to receive a good cross-section of opinion on zoning and planning matters.

He said, "It is presently difficult for council to obtain objective advice concerning public opinion in these matters, because the only persons council normally hears from are those who are either enthusiastically in favor of, or violently opposed to specific zoning applications."

The purpose of the committee would not be to relieve council of its zoning and planning responsibilities but to enable it better to fulfil these functions, Reeve Cox said.

A second proposal includes a system whereby public hearings on zoning applications would be mainly scheduled only during two specific periods of the year, possibly, April and October.

Education Conference Set Dec. 8

A top-level conference on education in B.C. is set for Dec. 8 at the provincial legislature.

Cabinet ministers and representatives of B.C. School Trustees' Association will meet with the executive of Union of B.C. Municipalities to discuss problems in education.

The confrontation was set up after the summer meeting of UBCM.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, a UBCM vice-president; Maple Ridge Reeve P. Jenewein, UBCM president; UBCM executive director T. R. B. Adams; Education Minister Leslie Peterson; Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, and BCSTA executive members and director Frank Reder are among those who will take part.

New Fire Strategy Aired at City Talks

Complex and sophisticated aids in fighting forest fires will be analysed at a three-day meeting convened by the provincial forest service here Tuesday.

Basic plans for 1965 operations also were to be laid at the meetings.

Among new techniques to be discussed is a fire detection system using infra-red sensory devices in the woods. Other subjects at the sessions will be: tracking and plotting in advance the progress of lightning storms; use of light aircraft for detection; value and risks of slash burning; air tanker operations; and staff training.

Harry B. Forse, chief of the service's protection division, is chairman of the meeting. Service delegations from all five forest districts in the province are attending the sessions.

End to Poverty Trap For Indians Pressed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An economic development agency is needed to break the cycle of self-perpetuating poverty on Canada's Indian reserves, the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada was told last week.

Martin P. O'Connell, a Toronto investment broker and chairman of the association's planning committee for Ontario, told 300 delegates to the group's annual meeting the Indian affairs branch should be separated from the federal citizenship and immigration department.

He said economic development of the 556 bands living on reserves could be achieved by a development agency with professional personnel and a development fund of at least $25,000,000 at its disposal.

Mr. O'Connell said Parliament neglects the Indian affairs branch. He said it receives perhap less than one-quarter of the minister's time while spending three-quarters of his budget.

He suggested an Indian development agency could make long-term plans for economic development of reserves, encourage companies to locate new operations in or near reserve communities, and provide financial incentives for companies to provide in-job training for Indians.

Housing needs for Indians are at least equal to education needs at this stage of development, Mr. O'Connell said, charging that at least 90 per cent of Indian housing ranks among the worst in the country.

Man Found Guilty In Bookie Killing

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrialist Mark A. Fein, 32, accused of slaying his bookmaker instead of paying off a $23,890 World Series bet, was convicted early today of second-degree murder.

The all-male jury brought in its verdict after a 25-day trial. He faces a sentence of from 20 years to life in prison.

Fein is president of his family's New York container manufacturing company, Fein Industries Incorporated.

The state said Fein shot Brooklyn bookmaker Reuben Markowitz, 40, in Fein's east side "bachelor apartment" Oct. 10, 1963, stuffed his body in a trunk and had three friends take the trunk in a rented station wagon to the Harlem River and toss it in. Fein is married and the father of three.

The trunk surfaced a month later and the body was found with $440 in the suit pockets.

The state's star witness, Gloria Kendal, a 37-year-old admitted prostitute and madam, testified Fein called her to his apartment the night of the murder. He showed her the open trunk and asked her to get rid of it for him, she said.

She said she and two friends, David Broudy, 32, and Geraldine Boxer, 22, dumped the trunk into the river.

Fein's wife, Nancy, testified that her husband was home in the shower at the time Miss Kendal said he was in the bachelor apartment.

'Arrogant' CBC Officials Hit

By ALEX MORIN

OTTAWA (CP) — Although speeches in the House of Commons were barely audible for the din of charges made there Tuesday, MPs managed to authorize the spending of about $250,000,000.

By sitting through most of their dinner break and extending half an hour beyond normal adjournment time they passed estimates for the CBC, the Board of Broadcast Governors, the National Gallery, the Indian affairs branch, the trade and commerce department and the finance department.

Ralph Cowan (L—York-Humber) called the CBC a "bloodsucking behemoth that is drawing off more and more money every day."

Douglas Fisher, deputy leader of the NDP, said CBC executives were "stiff-backed, swollen-headed, stuffy, niggling, petty and damned arrogant."

He accused CBC President Alphonse Quimet and his aides, who were sitting in the official gallery, of ruining the reputation of Toronto freelance producer Richard Ballantine.

Mr Ballantine produced the $35,000 film Mr. Pearson which was canned by the CBC last summer amid charges of government interference.

WAITS FOR REPORT

State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne said the government likely will introduce new broadcasting legislation next year after it receives recommendations from a special committee headed by Robert M. Fowler of Montreal. Also under consideration was establishment of a permanent Commons committee to study broadcasting and all other cultural affairs.

Earlier, Mr. Fisher attacked the National Film Board for abandoning its role as an educational medium in favor of producing arty films.

He said film councils in smaller communities were being neglected with the board distributing the bulk of its output through CBC television and movie houses.

Citizenship Minister Tremblay said during debate of the Indian affairs estimates that consultations will be held with Indians to determine which bands want to receive provincial education, welfare and community development.

He said provincial services would not be imposed on any band.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said the branch should provide collateral for Indian farmers who want to borrow money from the government. Farm land in reserves could not be used for loan collateral and this put the Indians at a disadvantage.

The Commons also passed, without debate, a supplementary estimate of $19,270,000 to finance recently-announced increases in veterans' pensions and allowances.

Coin Dealers Guilty

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Two operators of a large Canadian coin dealership pleaded guilty in U.S. district court Tuesday to smuggling $65,000 worth of coins and commemorative medals into the United States. The operators, Nicholas E. Cerbinkski, 36, and Somer O. James, 43, both of Winnipeg, were arrested at Noyes, Minn., last August after customs inspectors found 33 boxes of coins and medals in their station wagon.

'UNDER GOD' WORDS STAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court has rejected a challenge to the words "Under God" in the pledge of allegiance to the flag. The suit had charged the words are an unconstitutional interference with the rights of school children.

The case was brought by two New York residents, who lost in three state courts. The action was in the form of a brief order, with no opinion.

Trafficker Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thomas Dong, 30, was sentenced to six years jail Tuesday for trafficking in narcotics.

COMMITTEE WANTS SINGLE AGENCY TO FIGHT DELINQUENCY

Gov't Money, Leadership Major Need

By LESLIE MILLIN

The provincial government must share in the blame for rising Greater Victoria juvenile delinquency, and the costs of combatting it.

In its report, the Community Welfare Council's juvenile delinquency study committee says provincial and local government have failed to provide money, leadership, physical facilities, or staff.

It calls on the provincial government to help the situation by partly or wholly paying for several corrective measures.

ONE AGENCY

The first step would be creation of a single government agency to fight delinquency.

This might be a committee made up of members of provincial departments of social welfare, education and health, and the attorney-general's department.

They would meet with local representatives, with a view to establishing regional boards to help local family court judges decide the best disposition of youngsters judged delinquent.

They would also help co-ordinate the attack on juvenile delinquency.

"There is ample evidence of a serious lack of co-ordination, and even of understanding, between the various departments, agencies and professional disciplines . . . attempting to deal with the many . . . aspects of of delinquency . . ." says the report.

Another massive move demanded of the government is the conversion and expansion of the juvenile correction system away from its present training-school orientation.

These schools — like Brannen Lake and Willingdon—should be replaced by smaller residential and custodial institutions.

With properly selected and trained staff—and properly paid—these would allow for segregation of types of problems, and appropriate treatment.

Included should be a number of group homes, with a maximum capacity of 12.

Although some of these might be established by local governments, leadership and financial assistance from the provincial government would still be required.

Also requested from the provincial government is assistance in supplying each elementary school with enough psychologists or social workers to spot developing delinquents.

Children with personal or family problems could be identified by skilled workers, and given assistance before the problems burgeoned into anti-social behavior.

Direct assistance or referral to other community resources, through the family, could thus reduce the incidence of delinquency.

Cost of adding these persons to the staff of each elementary school could be underwritten directly by the province.

SHARE COSTS

Or the provincial government could share costs of these workers with the school boards on the same basis as for teaching staff.

"The earlier a personal or social problem can be spotted and dealt with, the more likelihood there is of a solution," says the report.

"Problems which affect a child's behavior in school or his ability to learn can frequently be identified by a teacher in the classroom.

"But identification of those with different symptoms usually requires the assistance of persons with other training and skills . . . and methods other than just classroom observation."

A complete mental and physical examination of any delinquent before he is sent to an institution is also recommended by the committee.

Results of these tests should be considered by the judge before any committal to an institution is ordered.

The committee feels it is unfair to send a child to a training school when a physical, mental or severe emotional disability renders any benefit impossible.

WASTE OF TIME

The child then becomes a burden to the school authorities and inmates, and the whole affair is a waste of time and money.

Interviews with workers in the field indicated a lack of coordination and understanding, the committee feels.

Therefore a series of lectures and workshops on the problem should be sponsored by the Community Welfare Council in co-operation with the University of Victoria.

These would bring together all those working in the field, or interested in it.

The situation is attributable to each group having its own area of responsibility, its own background and training, and different types of experiences.

"However, this does not make the . . . general lack of coordinated approach . . . any the less tragic for the individual juvenile offender or the community as a whole," says the report.

NO SUBSTITUTE for a proper family court building is the old Juvenile Detention Home on Coldharbor Road, says report. It has been used as such since October, but is old, too small, and in a poor location, the report says, and has no room for additions.

PROBATION OFFICERS COME, GO

100% Turnover in Staff

Probation officers are a cornerstone of the present system of handling juvenile delinquents.

In its report on juvenile delinquency in this area, a committee of the Community Welfare Council found that four men are doing more than the work of five.

Maximum case load for each officer is 50, according to the Canadian Corrections' Association.

There are now 264 cases, and four officers—an average case load of 66.

In 1963, work previously handled by Esquimalt and Colwood juvenile courts was turned over to the central family court.

But only another half-time worker was added to handle the load.

Since August 1963, there has been a 100 per cent staff turnover among probation officers in this area.

Two of the four officers graduated from university only this spring.

The total cost of keeping one juvenile boy in Brannen Lake and one girl in Willingdon School for a year is $6,585—about what an experienced probation officer makes in a year.

The provincial government is giving the central family court no more money, although it ordered the court to handle all cases from the Colwood-Langford-Metchosin-View Royal area, and the Esquimalt area.

'TRAFFIC CASES IN ADULT COURT'

A major burden would be removed from the family court if routine traffic offences were dealt with elsewhere.

One of the Community Welfare Council juvenile delinquent study committee's recommendations was that these matters be dealt with in the appropriate adult courts if the juveniles are over 15.

The report suggested an amendment to the Juvenile Delinquents Act be sought to make it possible for driving offences to be exempt from the juvenile court age limit of 18.

In the committee's opinion:

"The privilege of operating a motor vehicle, which can so easily become a lethal weapon, carries with it such serious duties and responsibilities that the youthful offender with respect to motor vehicle offences should not be offered any special protection by law."

First applicant for use of Victoria's new council chamber is the Association of Women Electors, seeking the chamber for an all-candidates meeting during the period Dec. 1-10.

President Mrs. Edith R. Gunning in a letter to council points out AWE is a non-partisan organization.

"We realize that use of the council chamber cannot be indiscriminate, but we believe an all-candidates meeting to be an essential part of the democratic process and therefore to be within the classification of municipal business," she said.

MAYOR OFF TO TORONTO

Mayor R. B. Wilson left this afternoon for Toronto where he will attend the National Conference of the Canadian Centennial Commission.

He returns to Victoria Sunday.

Keep a Light In Window

Keep the store lights burning and make a prettier Christmas.

That's the message today from Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

In a circularised letter, the chamber's retail merchants group asks city companies to leave store lights burning after hours.

"This, together with the lighted Christmas trees, would greatly enhance the night picture of Victoria's shopping area," said chamber assistant secretary Lou Worrall.

'Home a Day' For Wreckers

Winner of a school board contract to demolish 24 houses for expanded school sites will have to wreck an average of one home per working day to comply with the terms.

Bids are asked in order to demolish the houses within 30 days of the award.

Tenderers have until noon Dec. 2 to submit bids.

Virtually all jobs are to increase the playground size of existing district 61 school yards, with one — Braefoot Road—to provide land for new school.

Catholics Pay Visit To Jewish Synagogue

Roman Catholics went to a Jewish synagogue Sunday in what may have been the first visit of its kind in the country.

Led by Msgr. Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Victoria Roman Catholic diocese, 110 Catholics entered the Blanshard and Pandora synagogue.

Rev. W. H. Bullock, parish priest of St. Andrew's Cathedral, nuns from St. Ann's Academy and parishioners from St. Andrew's and St. Joseph's were shown around by R. D. Barer, vice-president of Temple Emanuel.

Msgr. O'Connell asked the synagogue for the visit so Catholics might become "better acquainted with the traditions and beliefs of the Jewish people as a means of contributing to mutual understanding."

Mr. Barer commented later the visit was "a nice thing to see."

One Man, Two Names, Two Charges

A man who appeared in court under one name Monday was up again Tuesday morning charged with a different offence under another name.

He pleaded guilty Monday under the name of David Craig to vagrancy. Tuesday, as Charles Foreman, he pleaded guilty to obtaining food and lodgings worth $123 from the Dominion Hotel between Aug. 21 and Sept. 8.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said the immigration authorities are investigating the accused because he is suspected of entering this country illegally.

Magistrate J. A. Byers remanded him to Nov. 30 for sentence.

The accused, a Negro, said he left the hotel after he was insulted.

Funeral Held For Vice-Chief Of Foresters

Funeral services were held Tuesday at McCall's Chapel for Elbert Ernest Wood, a longtime member of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Mr. Wood, who was to have been installed as chief ranger Monday, was vice-chief at the time of his death. He died Friday at the age of 51.

Members of the lodge took part in the service at which Rev. Murray Henderson officiated. Burial followed in Hatley Memorial Gardens.

He is survived by the widow, Elizabeth, at 1644 Gladstone; a daughter, Mrs. S. L. Moore, Comox; a son, Rodney; a stepmother, Mrs. George Wood, and a sister, Mrs. W. Rule, of Victoria.

Union to Seek Mine Re-Opening At Britannia

International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union is expected to seek reopening of Britannia Mine in its annual meeting Tuesday with the provincial cabinet.

The mine was closed down by Anaconda Copper Co. after work was stopped by a strike in August.

The union brief is understood to argue the government should intervene because the closure denies the province development of a natural resource.

More Whoopers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. interior department reported Tuesday night a record 41 whooping cranes has been sighted at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas.

The previous high in recent years, the spokesman said, was 38 birds spotted in 1961-62.

Labor MPs in Revolt As Pension Line Held

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson's embattled government today faced the twin threat of financial crisis and a backbench revolt among its own Labor supporters.

Despite a flight from the pound on international money markets, about 40 Labor legislators decided to press Wilson for quicker action to boost old age pensions.

The government already has promised a pensions increase for next March and at the weekend was believed ready to bring it closer.

But a private meeting of Labor MPs was told Tuesday night that in Britain's present urgent situation no earlier increase could be contemplated.

Several of the MPs left the meeting bitterly angry, some charging that the needs of old people were being sacrificed to the demands of "the gnomes of Zurich," meaning international bankers.

Financial authorities estimated that the Bank of England spent up to £35,000,000 ($105,000,000) in buying pounds Tuesday to prevent a major fall in its value against other currencies.

Foreign holders were selling sterling rapidly despite Monday's drastic increase in British interest rates — a move which financiers usually expect to bring money cascading into London.

Behind the sales, according to the Zurich correspondent of The Times of London, lay belief that Britain eventually may be forced to devalue its currency.

The Financial Times, independent business daily, said all London dealers reported that confidence in the pound remained low despite Monday's increase in lending rates.

One of the main reasons for lack of confidence, it said, was that sterling holders could not see how Britain's international trade deficit could be corrected once the government's emergency surcharge on imports is lifted.

This surcharge was the government's first action to heal a deficit estimated at more than £700,000,000 ($2,100,000,000) this year. It brought bitter criticism from Britain's trade partners in the European Free Trade Association.

In its lead editorial, the Financial Times said:

"Above all the current run on sterling springs from a widespread lack of confidence in the government's ability to solve the balance of payments problem. This cannot be put right quickly.

"The government can ride out this storm, provided that it is now ready to admit that it is itself partly responsible for it.

"The defence of the exchange rate is a national interest, and the government must enlist the support of every section of the nation.

VISITING Victoria Rotary Club Thursday and Friday is district governor Dr. John W. Richards of Seattle. He will address the club Thursday and in the afternoon will have talks with local president Dr. Robert Stark and secretary Mrs. Vivien Moore. In the evening a fellowship dinner is planned at the Empress Hotel, starting 6:15 p.m. Mrs. Richards will be entertained by Rotary ladies at Victoria Golf Club in the afternoon and a dinner will be held in her honor at the Pacific Club in the evening.

U.S. Not Likely to Approve Major Raid on N. Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Qualified Johnson administration officials would like to see a brake put on speculation that a drastic shift in U.S. policy to greatly expand the war in South Viet Nam is likely to result from the current review under way here.

This policy review, rather, is likely to rule out any massive air or sea assault against Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam, or against North Vietnamese military concentrations — actions that if taken could be expected to evoke a Communist Chinese response, informed sources said.

Officials are sounding this cautionary note as Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, heads for Washington and consultations with President Johnson and his advisers.

These officials stress privately that whatever decision the president reaches, it likely will be far less dramatic than current speculation may have led the public to expect.

State department officials said they read and approved in advance Taylor's views on the South Viet Nam war that appear currently in Life magazine. And, these officials declared, Taylor has not advocated extending ths war to North Viet Nam.

Taylor is regarded here as saying there are both pros and cons that must be considered before U.S. aircraft could be ordered to hit Communist supply lines in Laos and guerrilla training areas in North Viet Nam.

It was pointed out that Taylor cautioned that military action outside of Viet Nam would not solve the situation any more than bare military action within South Viet Nam would if it were unaccompanied by other measures.

Taylor is believed to feel that a stable regime in South Viet Nam is necessary before any decision can be taken to broaden the war.

Mishap Kills Canadian

HONG KONG (AP)—Pamela Kolding, wife of Canadian advertising executive Martin Kolding, formerly of Vancouver, was killed and Vicky Burrows, wife of Life Magazine photographer Larry Burrows, was injured Monday when their car plunged 200 feet down a hillside near here.

Mrs. Kolding was thrown from the car. She was dead before an ambulance arrived.

Kolding, a Danish-born Canadian, met his wife while she was working for the British government in Malaya. They returned to Hong Kong this year after living in Vancouver.

BIRTHDAY FETE FOR SIR WINSTON

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's secretaries and Britain's post office department braced themselves today to handle an avalanche of birthday telegrams, gifts, greeting cards and letters.

Britain's wartime leader will be 90 Monday.

The post office estimates that Sir Winston may receive 60,000 congratulatory messages by nightfall on his birthday.

A spokesman said there would be about 16 guests, including Churchill's son, Randolph; his grandson, Winston, and his daughters, Sarah and Mary.

If past plans are followed, there will be oysters and champagne as a starter. Sir Winston likes both, and together.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIPLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON. Unless 30,000 dollars a year is the going rate for the sub-cabinet post of coach in the major leagues, there was more than met the eye in the New York Mets' statement that Yogi Berra is now a member of their family. In due time, Berra will be unmasked as the Mets' next manager. Never so apparent was the identity of the heir-apparent to 75-year-old Casey Stengel.

Certainly the Mets are not paying Berra all that heft merely to keep him content in the job of caddying for the ball-bag, hitting fungoes or all the other flunkey duties that a coach performs. That they have other plans for him, perhaps at the end of next season, appears to be a certainty.

Anyway, taunting the Yankees has become a thing with the Mets' general manager, George Weiss, who himself was fired by the Yankees four years ago. He exploited sentiment when he hired the much-loved Stengel, who had been bounced by the Yankees, and when they demoted Berra from manager last month the situation had instant appeal for Weiss.

Originally, Berra was Weiss' boy anyway. It was Weiss who was saying, back in 1943, who should and who should not get Yankee contracts and he liked something about the sailor boy at Norfolk, who was catching far a service team. But in 1964, Berra came higher than he did in 1943, when Weiss got him for a contract that read 90 dollars a month.

Mets Succeeded Without Success

The Yankees are probably left in bafflement by the outrageous success of the Mets as the most unsuccessful team in baseball. The pennant-winning Yankees were outdrawn in their own home town by the tenth-place Mets and by a whopping margin of 1,732,579 to 1,305,638. The Mets succeeded in business without succeeding in winning ball games.

On the assumption that there are only a fixed number of baseball fans in New York, the Mets' attendance boomed at the Yankees expense, and this despite the fact the Yankees were involved in a tight pennant race. Actually, Yankee attendance was down 3,282 from the season before, while the Mets' was up 652,489, not all of it due to their new stadium and its proximity to the World's Fair.

The Mets, despite no stars, have developed a personality cult nevertheless. It may be rooted in their futility that evokes the pity of their fans, a stronger emotion than most other factors. It may have been focused originally on Stengel, who got a bad deal from the Yankees. Now, with Berra added as another symbol for Yankeephobes, it could be stronger.

Losing Series In Seven Is No Sin

It was shabby treatment of Berra when they fired him after his losing, seven-game World Series with the Cardinals. It was generally assumed that he had done a superb job in rehabilitating the club that had appeared to blow the pennant in early September when it was six games behind the Orioles. And losing the World Series in seven is scarcely a sin.

The corporate image of the Yankees hasn't been improved, anyway, with their sale to the Columbia Broadcasting system. The Yankees already had something to live down, their reputation as a coldly efficient organization that led years ago to the observation that rooting for the Yankees is like rooting for U.S. Steel. CBS' purchase of the club brings new implications of board room baseball.

Weiss can be grateful for this new popularity test of CBS vs. the Mets. Whatever else may be the explanation for the Mets' success at the gate, an eagerness of New York fans to get away from the seemingly soul-less Yankee organization appears to have been apparent. They quickly gave hysterical support to the next team to come along, even if it was the inept Mets.

Will Met Fans Care for a Winner?

The Yankees gave Berra short shift but they were not ungenerous with him. They not only gave him a two-year contract as a field consultant after firing him as manager, and put an escape clause into his contract if he chose to move on, but they endowed him with 25,0000-dollar severance pay when he did. This was a Yankee credit.

It is not expected that the Mets' new Stengel-Berra team will work any immediate magic in Shea Stadium. Basically, the Mets are still the same team that came into the league as a tenth-place club and has been holding its own ever since. Berra's quickest contribution might be to reactivate himself as a ball player after a year's absence from action.

The Mets have been drawing so spectacularly in their three years in the league that the thing they may have to fear is success itself, and can they withstand it? Their fans have been nurtured on failure for too long, perhaps, and might not understand. But obviously willing to risk this are the old Yankee hands, Weiss, Stengel and Berra.

NOT GETTING FAIR SHARE . . . . . . CLAIMS TICATS' NEUMANN

Grey Cup Players 'Shortchanged'

PETE NEUMANN
. . . plans to retire

HAMILTON (CP)—Pete Neumann, Hamilton Tiger-Cats all-star defensive end, says football players in the annual Grey Cup classic are not getting their fair share of gate receipts.

Neumann said in an interview Tuesday that those responsible for the allotment of the receipts from the Grey Cup game should reassess the program of distribution.

"My personal feeling," said Neumann, "is that the Grey Cup money should be split more generously among the teams that are involved, similar to the split National Football League teams get in a championship game."

He said he has been told winning team members on championship clubs that played in Green Bay, Wis., received approximately $3,500 a man.

The amount is a far cry from the $1,200 members of the winning team in Saturday's game between Ticats and B.C. Lions are expected to receive following the Grey Cup game at Toronto.

He used Green Bay as a comparison since that stadium seats about 40,000—not much more than Vancouver's Empire Stadium or the Exhibition Stadium in Toronto where this year's fall classic is being played.

But should there be a change of heart by those who earmark the distribution of Grey Cup income, Neumann won't be around to share in the rewards.

His plans call for retirement after Saturday's game.

"The only reason I played this year was to honor a two-year contract," he said.

"It's just too difficult to get into, and then stay in shape," said the 33-year-old veteran, who joined the Ticats in 1951 directly out of St. Catharines Collegiate.

Where has the league improved during his stint in pro football, which includes eight Grey Cup games?

"In the quality of players . . . we're not only getting a much better brand of United States college player today than we were 10 years ago, we're also getting a better calibre of player cut by National Football League teams."

Guard Gene Gossage and defensive back Garney Henley were two team-mates he felt would benefit any NFL team.

As a defensive end, Neumann has faced many of the finest players ever to play in Canada. But Alex Webster, former Montreal Alouette star now performing with New York Giants stands out as the greatest, with Lovell Coleman of Calgary Stampeders, this year's outstanding Canadian football player, running a close second.

"They're different types of players . . . Webster hit the hardest, was a tremendous blocker and one of the finest pass receivers in the country.

"Coleman is a strong runner who can dipsy-doodle and has exceptional speed."

Neumann forecast another Tiger-Cat win Saturday. The team, he feels, is equal to the 1963 championship club and possibly improved defensively with the acquisition of Dick Cohee and Dave Viti.

CORN PADS ANYONE?

Modelling their toes, but not for reasons of pure art, are John Devlin, left, and Jim Cunningham, members of Victoria Haida Chiefs. Devlin has broken toe, Cunningham has missed three Inter-City Senior Men's Basketball League games with sprained ankle. Another Chief, Pete Simmonds, has double fractured pinkie. All three will play tonight when Bakers, led by tough Dave Way, move into Central Junior High at 9 p.m. Prelim game and square dancing at half time round out program.

B.C.'s Jim Champion Covets Calgary Post

JIM CHAMPION
. . . he's interested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jim Champion, drawling defensive coach of the British Columbia Lions, said today he is "very interested" in the head coach's job with Calgary Stampeders.

Lions toppled Stampeders in a rugged three-game final series to win the Western Football Conference. They are in Toronto to meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup east-west championship Saturday.

Champion told reporters at Vancouver International Airport that he talked long and earnestly with Stampeders after the Calgary club accepted the resignation of head coach Bobby Dobbs Monday night.

Dobbs quit after assistant coach Rogers Lehew was named general manager.

Technically, Champion is listed as "assistant coach" with Lions, as is Frank Johnston. Head coach is Dave Skrien.

His assignment is B.C.'s defensive line, a rugged group he nicknamed the "Headhunters" during the 1962 season.

Champion, 38, played tackle for Mississippi State Bulldogs from 1946 to 1949 and in his senior year of college ball was named most valuable lineman for the South in the annual Blue-Gray game.

PLAYED PRO BALL

He turned pro in 1950, played two seasons for the New York Yankees of the National Football League and one with Dallas Texans.

The next four years he was a high school coach.

For five years before coming to the Lions, he was line coach for Mississippi State under head coach Wade Walker.

Meanwhile, in Calgary they were asking these questions:

Was the resignation of former Calgary head coach Bobby Dobbs the bombshell it was first believed to be?

Or did Dobbs' resignation at a team party actually come as no surprise to the Stampeder inner circle?

'LOVE ROGERS'

Dobbs resigned after Rogers Lehew, formerly an assistant Stamp coach, was named general manager.

"I want you to get it straight," Dobbs said. "I love Rogers—he can work for me anytime—but I cannot work for him after being his boss for nine years. With me it's a question of principle."

Dobbs said he thought he had been subject to undue criticism from a Calgary newspaper and television station. During his three years as head coach he had compiled one of the best won-lost records in the CFL.

Lehew, who was scheduled to leave for Toronto today to take part in the CFL general managers' conference, said he "was sorry to see the situation develop as it did."

Pat Mahoney, interim GM of the Stampeders since the resignation and subsequent move of Jim Finks to the Minnesota Vikings, was to accompany Lehew to Toronto.

LEHEW 'SORRY'

Lehew said he was "sorry" to see Dobbs resign as head-coach and added, "It was hoped that Bobby would have given it (the situation) a chance to work."

He said he had no idea when he would be able to make a recommendation to the Stampeders' directorate about appointing a new head coach. He also said he could give no indication at this time who was being considered for the position.

"Before any recommendation in that regard is made, the directors and I will have to prepare some groundwork," the new Calgary GM said.

Winnipeg Blue Bomber coach and general manager Bud Grant said he was "sorry but not surprised" Dobbs had resigned.

WORRY AFTER VOTE

Grant said he was "disappointed" Dobbs no longer would be a part of the Western Football Conference scene.

"Bobby has done a great job in Calgary," said Grant.

"He and I are members of the same fraternity, and I'm sorry to see him go."

But the Winnipeg coach said he was "not surprised" by Dobbs' sudden resignation announcement.

"I've learned that the time to start worrying is after you get a vote of confidence," Grant said. "That's history."

IN TICAT ATTACK

Lions Expect To Find Flaws

TORONTO (CP)—British Columbia Lions think they can find some flaws in the Hamilton Tiger-Cat offence directed by quarterback Bernie Faloney when the teams tangle for the Canadian football championship Saturday for the second straight year.

The Lions offer a pass defence smarter and more confident for this Grey Cup game than for the last one, in which Faloney and his receivers picked their way to the big plays for a 21-10 victory over the Lions.

Dave Skrien, the Lions' head coach, said Tuesday night his defensive team is stronger in eight of 12 positions for the rematch.

The B.C. team arrived here by air Tuesday and held its first brief workout in the afternoon at Varsity Stadium, former happy hunting grounds for Toronto Argonauts before the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium was built.

Today's workout was open to view, but Skrien plans to keep spectators out for the final practices Thursday and Friday in preparation for Saturday's game. Kickoff time is 10 a.m., PST.

The Lions finished first in the western conference this year, allowing only 11.5 points a game and only 18 touchdowns over the 16-game schedule, including 10 touchdown passes.

They maintained the record in a three-game final against Calgary, allowing 12.6 points a game and only two touchdowns.

Skrien has five western conference all-stars in his defensive lineup. Two of them are Neal Beaumont and Bill Munsey, members of the defensive secondary that Faloney manhandled last year.

BROWN GREATER

Another is linebacker Tom Brown, top lineman in the Canadian Football League for 1963 and 1964, who Skrien says is "better than last year, when he was great."

Skrien is more confident of stopping Hamilton's off-tackle and outside running game with the improvement of such men as Dick Fouts, a repeat all-star end, and corner-linebacker Paul Seale, a Canadian sophomore who played with a shoulder injury in the 1963 Grey Cup.

Left defensive tackle Mike Cacic had an exceptional good year and right defensive tackle Gus Kasapis is a mid-season recruit who shores up a weakness so apparent last year the coaches talked freely about it.

FALONEY 'REAL PRO'

The B.C. coach also says that the Ticats, in turn, are "far stronger" than they were in 1963.

"This is the most balanced offence we'll see this year.

"Faloney is a real professional. You blitz somebody and if he's got a short receiver there he'll hit him."

But Skrien's favorite comparison between Grey Cup 1963 and Grey Cup 1964 has nothing to do with experience, improved play or new personnel. It has to do with injuries.

Last year he had seven men limping or out of action. This year his only concern is flanker Sonny Homber's torn rib cartilage, and Homer will be a definite starter with the help of a shot of pain-killer.

Canadian Champ Misses Semis In World Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Boehm, the Canadian masters champion from Regina, failed to make the semi-finals of the eighth annual $52,000 World's Invitational Bowling Tournament.

With only 80 of the 160 men moving into the semi-finals, Boehm finished in 116th place with 3,769 pins, an average of 188 a game.

It took a score of 3,959 to make the semi-finals.

BUFFALO MANAGER

NEW YORK (AP) — Warren "Sheriff" Robinson, a New York Mets coach for the past two National League seasons, will manage Buffalo Bisons of the International League in 1965.

After Eight Seasons, Harris in No Hurry . . .

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Harris waited eight years in the minors for his chance to play in the National Hockey League. And when the first opportunity came, he turned it down.

Such disdain for even an NHL trial usually amounts to hockey suicide. But the 28-year-old defenceman, now a regular with Montreal Canadiens, doesn't rank hockey as the most important thing in his life.

His family comes first.

When Harris, playing for Cleveland of the American League, got the call a year ago his wife was just leaving a Cleveland hospital with their third child. He thought he was needed more at home than in a Canadiens uniform.

He felt that if he was good enough he'd get another chance to make the NHL. That chance came two months later when he filled in admirably during four trial games. The Habs didn't hesitate to invite him to training camp and Harris won a regular berth as the fifth defenceman.

RECORD WON JOB

"His record as the outstanding defenceman in the AHL earned him the job, because he didn't exactly overpower the other candidates. But coach Toe Blake is happy with his steadily-improving performance and the rest of the league has taken quick notice of the rugged bodychecks thrown by the 195-pounder.

It wasn't the same Harris that tried out for Montreal in 1963, when he appeared out of shape, didn't throw a check and was shipped to Cleveland.

"I wasn't disappointed when I didn't make it," he says. "I knew how poorly I played in training camp. Besides, the writing was on the wall with all the other good defencemen in camp.

"The last training camp was much different. I didn't impress anybody, including myself. I guess the big year in the American league must have counted when the Canadiens decided to keep me."

Billed as a slow starter, Harris is just beginning to move. On a recent weekend, he put Boston's Murray Olive out of action, accidentally sidelined New York's Rod Gilbert, and sent Rangers' Camille Henry to the bench with a solid body-check.

"It's all part of the game," he explains. "When a guy is on your side, he's like a brother. But you have to hate his guts when he's against you—he's trying to take money out of your pockets."

No NHL games were played Tuesday night, but Toronto Maple Leafs can take first place from Detroit tonight when they visit New York Rangers in the only game scheduled. The second-place Leafs are one point behind Detroit with a game in hand.

The Canadiens, meanwhile, announced that centre Henri Richard has recovered from his season-long groin injury and will return to action Thursday.

Boston Bruins disclosed that winger Murray Balfour, obtained in an off-season trade from Chicago, has been sent to Hershey Bears of the AHL on loan. Balfour has only two assists in 15 games with the Bruins.

Birds to Defend Volleyball Title

University of B.C. Thunderbirds will be starting out in defence of their western intercollegiate volleyball title Friday night at Victoria High School.

Two other university clubs—UBC Chiefs and University of Victoria Vikings—will be battling the Birds for the right to represent the province in the Canadian championships at Vancouver in March.

VICS ENTER

Also entered is a Victoria High School team, which will be competing mainly for experience.

Action starts Friday at 7:30 and six games are scheduled.

More volleyball battles are scheduled next month, when the Western Command Army championships are staged at Work Point Barracks.

Royal Canadian Engineers of Chilliwack will represent the B.C. Area in the meet Dec. 10-11. The RCE, which defeated Queen's Own Rifles Saturday to enter the meet, will compete against area champs from Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

BELISLE HELPS LEAFS TONIGHT

Danny Belisle, the new winger acquired by Victoria Maple Leafs, will be on the firing line tonight when the Leafs tackle the pace-setting Totems at Seattle.

Belisle arrived here Tuesday night, agreed to terms with club manager Buck Houle and left for Seattle with the Leafs this morning.

CRITCHLEYS LOSE . . . . . . CONTROL OF SPORT

Greyhound Racing Surprise

LONDON (CP)—Greyhound racing in Britain has been taken out of the hands of the famed Critchley dynasty, controllers of the sport since the late Brig.-Gen. A. C. Critchley of Calgary introduced it here in 1926.

The Greyhound Racing Association Trust Limited announced that Critchley's twin half-brothers, Col. Gerald Critchley and Brig. Richard Critchley, have been relieved of their posts with the association.

The move came as a complete surprise to greyhound racing men. One theory is that the reorganization is intended to streamline the association.

Critchley erected Britain's first greyhound racing track in Manchester. The association now controls a chain of tracks in Birmingham, Manchester, Edinburgh and London.

Fielder and McLeod Keep Totems Aloft

Goaltender Jim McLeod and centre Guyle Fielder spell double trouble for Seattle Totems' Western Hockey League rivals.

They also spell out two good reasons why the Totems are cruising along in first place.

Fielder, the league's chief helper, picked up four more assists last week to raise his point total to 27, tops in the circuit. Vancouver's Phil Maloney and Norm Johnson of Los Angeles share second with 26.

McLeod tops the goalkeepers with a solid 2.26 average. Portland's Don Head is next with 2.87.

Totems' double-barrelled boys will be out to pad their averages this week in a two-game series with Victoria Maple Leafs.

The Victorians visit Seattle tonight and then host Totems Saturday at Memorial Arena.

College Boys Can Get Rich On Draft Day

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hey, fellas, better bring a wheelbarrow—they're planning to give more money away than ever come Saturday.

PETE ROZELLE

That's the day both the National Football League and the American Football League will conduct their annual college player drafts and that's also the day when the owners in both circuits begin removing the rubber bands from their bankrolls.

Since the NFL received $28 million from CBS for two-year television rights and the AFL was paid $35 million by NBC for a five-year period, there will be no money shortage for signing all those eager collegians.

And just in case there was any doubt about the rising cost of procuring talent, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle put the financial record straight.

"It will cost us more to sign players this year than it did last," he said. "Fortunately, we have the income to pay it."

Rozelle's statement must come as a distinct piece of good news to every graduating college football player who has his heart set on playing with the pros next year.

Fustest With the Mostest Popular Credo

As anxious as the NFL and AFL are to end their financial "war" over the signing of players, there appears to be no armstice in sight, and that also must come as good news to the collegians.

"During last year's draft, we signed 23 of our choices in the first two rounds and lost only four," Rozelle declared. "I hope we'll do as well this year."

Rest assured, the AFL won't be sleeping, either.

Joe Foss' league, which previously had conducted its draft on the Monday after the Army-Navy game, moved its date up two days to coincide with the NFL draft this time, so you can see the way the wind is blowing.

Both leagues, of course, will try to get to the players they want, as the old saying goes, fustest with the mostest.

This situation could make it a mighty happy Thanksgiving for such graduating standouts as Craig Morton of California, Dick Butkus of Illinois, Tommy Myers of Northwestern, Gayle Sayres of Kansas, Jimmy Sidle of Auburn, Jack Snow of Notre Dame, Larry Elkins of Baylor, Jim Nance of Syracuse and Fred Mazurek of Pitt, to name only a few.

Occasionally, a collegian has a definite leaning toward one league or another, but usually he goes where the money is.

Money Gets Preference With Pitt's Mazurek

Most of them feel like Mazurek.

"I'm interested in the team which makes me the best proposition," the Pitt quarterback says candidly.

Rozelle is particularly proud of such NFL rookies as Paul Warfield of Cleveland, Tony Lorick of Baltimore and Charley Taylor of Washington and would enjoy seeing more like them in the league next year.

The NFL, naturally, still feels it has more to offer a rookie than the rival AFL.

"We're quite proud of our fine pension system," Rozelle said, "and even though we had our best year ever in 1963, our admissions are up 5 per cent right now and it would appear we are going to have an even better year this year than we did last."

No ostrich, Rozelle is aware that such AFL teams as the New York Jets and Buffalo Bills also are drawing record crowds. He doesn't resent the fact, either.

"Whatever success they have will not be at our expense," pointed out the capable, young NFL commissioner. "They'll build their own fans."

What it amounts to is that business is great in both leagues and there's plenty of money all around.

Take it easy now, fellas. Don't get killed in the rush.

Tusla Trio Convicted After Bar-Room Brawl

WINNIPEG (CP)—Court fines were imposed Tuesday on three Tulsa Oilers' hockey players following a chair-smashing post-game brawl in a downtown Winnipeg cocktail bar Monday night. Two players were convicted of assaulting a patron.

The ruckus erupted after the Central Professional Hockey League club shut out Canada's national team 3-0 at the Winnipeg Arena.

Fined were Larry Roy Johnston of Bridgeport, Ont., John Patrick Brian Quinn of Tulsa, and William Donald Smith of Hull, Que. All are 21.

Johnston, hit the hardest, was fined $75 for assault, $50 for causing wilful damage and ordered to pay $40 to replace four chairs in the restaurant.

Quinn was fined $75 for assault and Smith $50 for being disorderly. All three pleaded guilty and were also ordered to pay court costs.

Police told magistrate's court about nine Oilers were in the bar apparently celebrating the victory when Smith made an obscene comment to a woman.

Her companion, Cameron Leslie, 34, of Toronto, objected. Johnston hit Leslie in the leg with a chair, then started throwing other chairs. As Leslie started to leave, Johnston knocked him down and he and Quinn started to kick him.

COUNCIL APPROVES ... COLISEUM WORDING

Up to Ratepayers Now

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Vancouver city council Tuesday decided on the wording of a bylaw referendum which gives Toronto Maple Leafs president Stafford Smythe a downtown site in exchange for an $8,000,000 coliseum.

The council adopted an amendment outlawing the use of the site for any other purposes, and gave second reading to the bylaw.

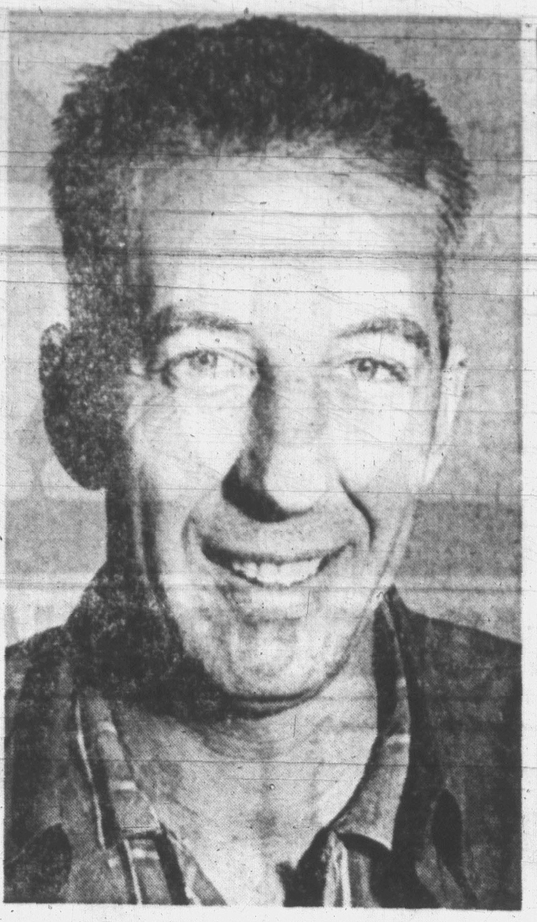
The amendment stipulates Smythe is to be restricted to building a "sports coliseum only and related facilities."

The change was made to allay fears Smythe, who offered to build the coliseum earlier this year, might try to build an office building, hotel, or other structure on parts of the two-block property.

The site has an estimated net cost to the city of $1,300,000.

Mayor William Rathie earlier reported to council that Smythe told him by telephone the bylaw is acceptable to him. The assurance was made, however, before the amendment made by an 8-3 vote of the council.

The bylaw will be voted on by ratepayers Dec. 9.



BOWLER OF THE WEEK

Fortunate worker who is able to combine hobby with work is Keith Snelling, this week's Times' "Bowler-of-the-Week" in men's tenpin category. The 32-year-old trundler works at Mayfair Lanes, where he hit for winning total (210-234-193—637) in Friday Niters' League. Single and bowler for 15 years, Snelling is now eligible to compete for Bowler-of-the-Year championship in May.

SHAPING THE BOWLS ...

Michigan Waiting For West's Reps

(Times News Services)

SAN FRANCISCO—Decision on the West's representative in the Rose Bowl football classic has been delayed until after Southern California completes its schedule in meeting top-ranked Notre Dame this Saturday.

The decision had been expected this week but commissioner Tom Hamilton of the Pacific Athletic Conference polled the eight member schools and decided not to make a selection immediately.

Sixth-ranked Michigan has already accepted the East's berth in the New Year's Day classic at Pasadena.

THREE IN CONTENTION

Southern California and Oregon State tied for the conference championship with 3-1 records. Overall, Oregon State is 8-2 and USC 6-3. Washington Huskies placed third with a 5-2 conference record and 6-4 overall.

Decision on the PAC Rose Bowl team is by vote of the schools and it need not be the conference champion. It appeared, however, that this year's selection will be between USC and QSU, the latter which became a conference member only last July 1. Washington played in the Rose Bowl on last New Year's.

To make a selection this week, the vote of the schools would have had to be unanimous. A conference spokesman said there was not a unanimous vote, but would not comment further.

IRISH ARE OUT

Although Notre Dame (9-0) ranks as the nation's No. 1 team, the Irish apparently will not play in a bowl game since all major pairings have been just about completed.

Eighth-ranked Louisana State and ninth-ranked Syracuse have accepted the Sugar Bowl invitation while Florida State has earned a 'Gator Bowl berth against an opponent yet to be decided.

Texas, the No. 5 team coached by Darrell Royal, is in the Orange Bowl with second-ranked Alabama. Third-ranked Arkansas and Nebraska, No. 4, will play in the Cotton Bowl.

LEEDS CREEPING UP

London Fans Cherish Young Chelsea Squad

LONDON (Reuters) — With less than half the season gone, the English Soccer League championship race looks like a duel between Chelsea and Manchester United.

The young Chelsea team, currently the pride of London and overshadowing the capital's more glamorous teams, Tottenham Hotspur and Arsenal, could be popular champions. Chelsea has won the title only once since the league started in 1888 and its success would be just reward for the hard work and enthusiasm of manager Tommy Docherty.

United, however, must be favorites. Unbeaten in its last 14 games, United has the right blend of youth and experience plus the genius and match winning ability of great Scottish inside forward Denis Law.

The vital test for these two will come in the next few weeks, when the heavier grounds try the stamina of the best players and Cup commitments clog up already congested league fixtures.

LEEDS A SURPRISE

Lying almost unnoticed in third place in the league table is Leeds United, the surprise success of the season.

In 1962, Leeds was a struggling Second Division club. Then manager Don Revie bought inside forward Bobby Collins from Everton for £25,000 and Leeds has never looked back.

Promoted last season, Leeds has kept within striking distance of the First Division leaders all this season.

Manager Revie, the man who found the deep lying forward plan which later developed into the 4-2-4 system adopted by many continental clubs, has welded together a strong, workmanlike team, which could surprise the experts in the next few months.

In Albert Johanneson, a fast moving South African from Johannesburg, and Johnny Giles, a stylish Irishman, Leeds has one of the best pairs of wingers in the league.

TOOK SEVEN STRAIGHT

Leeds lost Saturday after winning seven league games in a row but this was unlikely to knock it out of its stride.

None of the other First Division challengers have the look of champions at this stage though Tottenham Hotspur may still come into the picture with a late challenge.

Tottenham could be involved in a big transfer this week, for Bob Shankly, manager of the Scottish club Dundee, confirmed that Spurs had made a bid for their centre-forward Alan Gilzean, who plays for Scotland against Ireland Wednesday.

NOTRE DAME'S HUARTE WINS HEISMAN TROPHY

NEW YORK (AP)—John Huarte, Notre Dame quarterback, is the winner of the 1964 Heisman Trophy as the outstanding U.S. college football player of the year.

The Notre Dame star, who played only 45 minutes during the 1963 season because of injuries, will receive the award at a banquet on Dec. 3.

Roger Staubach, ace quarterback of the Navy, was the winner a year ago. Huarte is the first Notre Dame player to be chosen since Paul Hornung, now a star with Green Bay Packers, who won the honor in 1956. Huarte is a native of Anaheim, Calif.

Mounties' Boss Oozing Optimism

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nat Bailey, president of the now-defunct Vancouver Mounties, feels the club's chances of re-entering the Pacific Coast Baseball League "are excellent."

"If we show enthusiasm, we're in—there's no argument about that," he told a press conference called to introduce Lew Matlin, new general manager of the club.

Bailey said club officials hope for outright ownership by a major league club, which "would lose less money here, in the long haul, than in any other city on the continent."

The team left the PCL in 1962 after several seasons of financial losses.

Both Bailey and Matlin will attend the major and minor league meetings opening Saturday at Houston, Tex., where Vancouver re-entry could be approved by PCL directors.

Dewey Soriano, PCL president, has said Vancouver could return if a "substantial number" of pre-season tickets were sold to indicate fan support.

Nuggets Plan Shot at Cup

EDMONTON (CP) — The newly-formed Edmonton Nuggets, a senior hockey club, will play a 12-game exhibition schedule this year and compete in Allan Cup play, publicity director Bill Warwick has announced.

Warwick said the Nuggets would play exhibition games with teams in the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League, the Calgary Stampeder Hockey Club and the Trail Smoke Eaters.

Edmonton is hopeful the Western Senior Hockey League will be re-established next year comprising the SSHL, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, Warwick added.

Voters Favor Dancer

Canadian Colt First To Defeat U.S.-Bred

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern Dancer made his bid early and then made it stand up as he won the three-year-old title in the vote of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations' board of selection.

In the opinion of the 31 racing secretaries, announced Tuesday, the Dancer's early season triumphs earned him the decision over such rivals as Quadrangle and Roman Brother.

The little son of Nearctic out of Native Dancer's daughter, Natalma, was sidelined with a bowed tendon in July and will go to stud at E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm near Toronto in 1965.

The three-year-old title is the first TRA award to go out of the United States. Northern Dancer, along with other TRA winners, will be honored at the organization's annual dinner here Dec. 3.

Northern Dancer was bumped and finished third in a six-furlong allowance race which opened the campaign in Florida in February. From there on he proved unbeatable until he wound up third back of Quadrangle and Roman brother in trying to win the Belmont Stakes and wrap up the Triple Crown.

The Dancer returned home to Woodbine in Canada for the Queen's Plate, which proved to be his final start. After an easy victory in the Canadian classic for three-year-olds he returned to Belmont Park to prepare for his Saratoga campaign.

He pulled up lame after a workout and, while he responded to treatment, Taylor announced the colt was through with racing.

Before losing in the Belmont, Northern Dancer put together victories in the Flamingo, Florida Derby, Keeneland's Blue Grass, Kentucky Derby and Preakness. He wound up with earnings of $490,171 for the year after banking only $90,635 as a two-year-old.

Wheatley Stable Cleans Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps completed a sweep of the Thoroughbred Racing Association's two-year-old crowns Tuesday when her Wheatley Stable's Queen Empress was named the top juvenile filly of the year.

Earlier, the TRA board of selection, comprised of 31 racing secretaries, had named Bold Lad the champion colt. The two Wheatley Stable runners, along with five-time Horse of the Year Kelso and Bon Nouvel, voted best of the steeplechasers, will be honored at the TRA's annual dinner here Dec. 3.

Queen Empress, daughter of Bold Ruler who also sired Bold Lad, never was out of the money in 14 starts and earned $319,262. She won eight races, was second four times and third twice.

There was no argument about Bold Lad's selection. He was named on all 31 ballots as the first choice.

FORCED BREATH TESTS ASKED FOR DRIVERS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government will be asked to pass legislation requiring applicants for drivers' licences to sign a document agreeing to take "breathalyzer" tests whenever required.

The request will be made by directors of the B.C. and New Westminster Safety Councils.

Breathalyzer tests are recognized by the courts as a scientific measurement of a suspected drinking driver's alcholic content, but the tests are not compulsory.

Other resolutions passed at a joint meeting of the two boards Monday included a request for a criminal code amendment accurately defining the degree of impairment by biochemical tests.

Directors also agreed to consider another resolution later concerning the compulsory use of protective headgear by all motorcyclists.

Old Friends Both Die Same Day

For 50 years Marie Louise Parsell and Mina Tapscott were the best of friends.

Since first meeting in 1910 they had gone out together and shared an interest in each other's lives.

On Monday they died within a few hours of each other.

At 12:20 a.m. Mrs. Parsell died in Oak Lodge nursing home where she had been ill about six months.

At 4 a.m., her lifelong friend passed away.

Said Mrs. Tapscott's daughter Helen, who lived with her mother at 3342 Whittier Avenue: "I'm sure they would have wanted it this way.

"Even when they got older they never forgot each other's birthdays."

Her mother would have been 91 in February.

Funeral services were to be held for her from McCall Bros. at 4:30 p.m. today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Parsell, who lived at 1150 Benvenuto Avenue, Brentwood, will be at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at Hayward's.

Wife of the stationary engineer at what is now Butchart Gardens when the first sack of cement was turned out by B.C. Cement, she was first president of West Saanich Women's Institute around 1915.

It was in the same period that she met Mrs. Tapscott, then wife of the Rev. Fred Tapscott, minister at Sluggett Memorial Church.

Surviving Mrs. Tapscott is daughter Helen and sister Miss Margaret Washburn, of Smith Falls, Ont.

Surviving Mrs. Parsell are two daughters Mrs. Winnie Miles, of Nanaimo and Mrs. Anne Turner, of Victoria and son Norman, of Brentwood.

View Royal Panhandle Vote Set

View Royal panhandle residents will know their fate Dec. 12.

On that date Esquimalt ratepayers will vote on taking in the 250-acre area, which has a population of 850.

Council Monday gave final reading to a bylaw providing for a vote on their request for amalgamation.

Reeve Alfred C. Wurtele said a letter will soon go to all taxpayers outlining anticipated increased expenditure if the panhandle becomes part of the municipality.

He said: "An increase in revenue of about $7,900 is indicated by a survey we have taken, but that could be affected by the hiring of another man."

Council also approved a $1,042 bid from Clark and Pattison Painting Contractors Ltd., for interior redecoration of the municipal hall.

Open Verdict Returned In Wife's Death

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury returned an open verdict Tuesday in the death of Mrs. Elfrida Kathleen Howard, 24, who plunged to her death in Lynn Canyon in North Vancouver Nov. 7.

The woman fell 200 feet to her death while walking in a park with her estranged husband, Dennis Howard of Coquitlam.

Howard was compelled to testify at the inquest despite objections by his lawyer. He testified under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

Howard told the inquest jury that he was strolling about 20 feet behind his wife, when she suddenly vanished. Her body was recovered a short time later from Lynn Creek, 200 feet below the path they had taken.

Canadian Delhi Offer of $10.12

TORONTO (CP) — Nesbitt Thomson and Co. Ltd., Toronto investment dealers, said Tuesday it will offer $10.12 a share for all the shares of Canadian Delhi Oil Ltd. of Calgary.

If the deal and certain conditions attached to it are completed, Nesbitt Thomson will sell all the Delhi shares it acquires to Standard Oil of Ohio, the announcement said.

Delhi directors have agreed to accept the offer for their holdings and to recommend it to other shareholders, it added.

Canadian Delhi has authorized capital of 7,775,765 shares, with 5,337,000 outstanding.

Its shares traded actively on the Toronto stock market Tuesday, reaching a 1964 high at one stage of $9.75. Low for the year, last January, was $4.75.

The offer is subject to acceptance by at least 70 per cent of the shares being tendered, but Nesbitt will have the option of accepting a lesser amount.

It would require the approval of shareholders and the Supreme Court of Alberta and all other necessary governmental bodies for pro rata distribution to the shareholders of Canadian Delhi of all its holdings in Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., the distribution to occur after the purchase by Nesbitt.

Probe Urged Into Option By MB & PR

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI)—A judicial investigation into an agreement between a B.C. pulp and paper company and Alberta West Forest Products Ltd was urged Tuesday by Neil Reimer, leader of the Alberta New Democratic Party.

"This transaction is going to raise a lot of eyebrows," he said.

Alberta Minister of Lands and Forest Norman Willmore said he had been advised that MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. had taken an option agreement on assets of the Alberta firm. Details of the agreement were not revealed.

Alberta West, a private company incorporated in 1957, has a 21-year lease on 2,483 square miles of timber near Whitecourt, Alta., 100 miles northwest of here. In addition, a 2,500-square-mile timber reserve has been set aside for possible expansion.

Reimer said the Alberta government, which had supported the company publicly, has been "a willing or unwilling pawn of a group of promoters."

Yule Spending Record Sighted

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Whatever the coming year may have in store in terms of economic outlook, reports from all parts of Canada and the United States indicate that North Americans plan to blow a large part of their bankrolls on Christmas spending.

Bell

The Retail Merchants' Association is predicting that December sales in Canada will increase by seven per cent over last year to a record high of $2 billion and that the total for the year will end up at $20 billion.

A survey of American retailers showed expectation that Christmas business this year would be up by at least five per cent over last year bringing the U.S. the biggest-spending and highest-profit Christmas ever.

The big impetus to North American sales is being provided by the heavy increase in purchasing power this year, with total labor income in Canada up eight per cent or better from last year and American income generally up even more as a result of higher earnings reinforced by tax cuts.

Although there is still a month to go, retailers have already noted less resistance to buying because of price as well as a trend to more expensive purchases. These are the trends which will push up profits along with sales volume, the merchants hope.

* * *

There was hardly a bond market analyst in the country who was not caught off base by the increase in the British bank rate Monday. They nearly all assumed, too quickly, that Britain's economic difficulties could be cured by other means.

The mistake in judgment is understandable enough. The Labor party is traditionally the party of low interest rates, there was a strong opinion that British problems were not particularly amenable to interest rate manipulation; and moves were already underway to augment reserves by borrowing arrangements with central banks to combat any suggestions of devaluation.

In the event, however, the British government decided that higher interst rates, along with the previously announced import duty surcharges, were necessary both to choke off spending on imports and to protect the pound.

The immediate follow-through by the United States and Canada was a matter of course and erosion of bond prices, which had risen steadily over the past weeks, was inevitable.

* * *

On the mining scene, Giant Mascot Mines has decided to put another $125,000 into Canam Copper Company's property 30 miles east of Hope.

Giant has already spent $100,000 on the property for exploration and has until April, 1966, to decide whether or not to take it into production. If Giant decides to go into production it will own 60 to 65 per cent with Canam holding the balance after return of capital costs of a mill.

* * *

Sunshine Mining of Spokane has announced its intention of carrying on its working agreement with Dolly Varden Mines on the 62-claim Dolly silver property in the Alice Arm district.

Because of fall floods and heavy winter snow the program will not be restarted until next spring, but Sunshine has already spent more than $250,000 on the prospect.

If the property is placed in production, profits will be split 50-50 after production costs have been met.

* * *

Both Sunshine Mining and Dolly Varden are involved in talks with Silver Butte Mines on joint development of the latter's claims adjoining Dolly's Alice Arm property.

To date 13 holes have been drilled with total footage of 3,694 feet covering a 600-foot vein. For the first 100 feet of vein grade was estimated at 11.7 ounces silver per ton over an average width of 8.6 feet.

* * *

Ventures Mining Ltd. is planning to continue drilling throughout the winter at its silver-lead-zinc property 20 miles east of Cassiar. Goal is completion of 8,000 feet in 15 holes before spring so development work can continue rapidly in the field season.

Ten holes have been completed and assay results on the first seven received with all showing mineralization. Geophysical surveying is also being continued and a number of areas for further work will be established.

* * *

McKinney Gold Mines has awarded a contract for geomagnetic survey work on its claims in the Rossland area.

The four-claim block adjoins to the southeast the Coxey claim of Torwest where drilling over the past season has indicated molybdenum mineralization.

* * *

Vanmetals Exploration has increased its holdings to 28 claims in the Chuchi Lake area, 120 miles northwest of Prince George. Samples have been assayed and show interesting values in lead and zinc while silver assays have not yet been returned.

Power Project Feasible

NEW YORK (CP)—Transmission of Hamilton Falls power through the Maritimes to New England has been found feasible "from the engineering, economic and financial standpoint" Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland said today.

He said he believes work will start on such a transmission system in the spring.

Smallwood has been in New York for two days of talks with British engineers and New York financial interests.

He said in an interview that the results of a report by the British engineering firm of Preece, Cardew and Rider have made this "one of the greatest days in Newfoundland history and one of the happiest days of my life."

The proposed system involves a submarine cable to carry Newfoundland power across the Strait of Belle Isle and Cabot Strait. The power line would run through Nova Scotia and New Brunswick before entering the U.S.

About 3,000,000 horsepower would be designated for use in the Atlantic provinces and the balance of the 9,000,000 horsepower from the giant project in Labrador — described by Smallwood as six times the size of the Boulder Dam—would be sold to customers in the New England states.

Net Profits Show Gain

TORONTO (CP)—The Bank of Nova Scotia had net profit of $9,727,725 or $3.24 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $8,724,015 or $3.03 in 1963.

Total assets rose to $3,050,998,044 compared with $2,674,396,241. Deposits were $2,855,664,056 compared with $2,490,819,333 and loans were $1,988,514,545 compared with $1,681,542,632.

GORDON
. . . no major outflow

Pegged Rate Of Dollar Will Remain

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon said Tuesday there has been and will be no change in the rate of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. funds. The pegged rate now is 92½ cents to $1 U.S. The rate Tuesday afternoon at New York was 93 7/32 cents.

Mr. Gordon was replying in the Commons to Colin Cameron (NDP - Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) who asked whether the dollar would be released from the pegged rate.

Mr. Cameron later asked whether the pegged rate would be maintained even if the upward pressure on the Canadian dollar on the New York market continues.

Mr. Gordon said this was taken into consideration when the Bank of Canada rate was increased to 4 from four per cent while the U.S. bank rate rose by half a point—to four from 3½.

Mr. Gordon also said in reply to Real Caouette, Creditiste leader, that he doesn't anticipate any important outflow of Canadian capital as a result of the bank rate increases in Britain, the U.S. and Canada.

17 Taxmen Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. federal district court warrants were issued Tuesday for the arrest of 17 Internal Revenue Service employees accused of receiving bribes of from $200 to $1,600 from income tax payers between 1961 and 1963. U.S. attorney Robert M. Morgenthau said the IRS inspection service "has energetically used a big broom in cleaning its own house."

'Expansion Plans Must for Canada'

TORONTO (CP) — Business conditions should continue to improve next year, but it is time Canada started considering measures to ensure appropriate future expansion, F. William Nicks, chairman and president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, says.

Writing in the bank's annual report, Mr. Nicks says some business analysts have been suggesting economic expansion in both Canada and the United States may begin slowing down in the last half of next year.

"Thus, while it may be a little early yet for expansionary fiscal action in Canada, it is not too early to begin considering measures best suited to helping the appropriate expansion we must achieve in the years ahead."

Mr. Nicks calls for some serious thought about the relation between tax policies—"the real motivating forces for our economic growth"—and the general desire for more Canadian participation in domestic growth.

"Whatever we do, we must be careful not to choke off the vital flow of initiative, knowhow and investment from whatever source it may come.

"But we must also, by appropriate tax reductions and other incentives, find ways to enlarge the pools of savings available for equity investment by Canadians in Canadian enterprises."

Making Up Your Christmas List? Pause Just a Moment to Read This

By MARGE GILROY

To be alone is sometimes desirable.

To feel alone and friendless, when all around you are people, is unbearable.

Such is the experience of thousands of patients in mental hospitals across Canada.

Each year the Canadian Mental Health Association asks the public to remember these patients by including them on their Christmas gift list.

The fact that someone on the "outside" has taken the trouble to buy them a gift is often the only indication a mental patient has that they are not forgotten.

Gifts are distributed through White Cross centres in Victoria and Vancouver and are individually sorted so that each gift matches a patients needs or wishes.

Supervisor of the White Cross Centre in Victoria, Mrs. Joan Dumka, is hoping to receive enough gifts for each of the 40 patients in the Bay Pavilion at Royal Jubilee Hospital, the 400 to 500 ex-patients in the Victoria area, plus many more for distribution among the 6,500 patients in Essondale and Crease Clinic.

Gift suggestions include billfolds, harmonicas, key rings, pyjamas, pipes, tobacco, shaving material, socks, tie clips, aprons, bed jackets, blouses, cosmetics, stockings, handbags, lingerie, jewelry, fancy soap; sewing and knitting materials, playing cards, magazine subscriptions, slippers and paint-by-number sets.

Gifts should be wrapped or boxed securely and sent to the White Cross Centre, 3216 Lee Avenue or left at one of the following depots: Hudson's Bay Co., Eaton's, Woodward's, Jameson Motors Service Station, Super-Valu, Yates Street; Belmont Pharmacy, Sooke; Esquimalt Pharmacy, Newport Pharmacy, Douglas Building, Gordon Head United Church, Cunningham Drug Stores, Town and Country Plaza and Hillside; Gonzales Pharmacy, Shelbourne Drug Ltd., Merry Mart at Esquimalt, Shelbourne and Colwood plazas; Spencers Stores Ltd., Shop Easy, Oak Bay Avenue; Royal Oak Pharmacy, Peacey's Drug store, Owl Drug store, Mayfair centre; McCall-Davey Drug Ltd., Douglas Street and Jubilee Pharmacy, Fort Street.

As the processing of the gifts is a long job the association has asked that gifts be sent to the centre at least two weeks before Christmas to make sure every patient will be remembered at the pre-Christmas party.

Cash donations may be left with Mrs. Irene Warren at the Hudson's Bay store or sent directly to the Canadian Mental Health Association, 2316 Lee Ave.

Anyone wishing to have parcels picked up may do so by contacting Art Aitkens at EV 5-7811.

'Army' Prepares Toys For Yule Selection

The stores are filled with shiny new toys for families who can afford them.

But elsewhere toys of another vintage are being readied for those who cannot afford the market price.

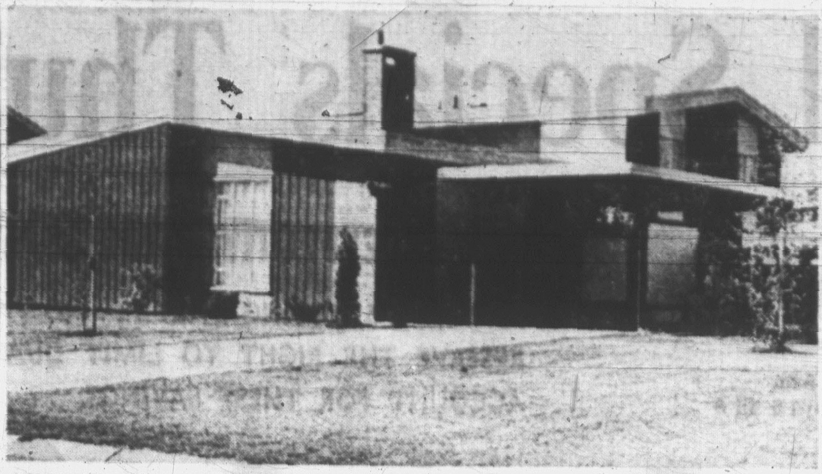
The toys are being repaired and painted in the workshops of the Salvation Army and will be ready for distribution on Dec. 21.

Operation Christmas receives the assistance of the Shell Oil Company and volunteer workers. Toys are left at the Shell service stations and delivered to the Army workshops for repair.

When distribution time comes every family with a voucher from the welfare agency or church organization will be allowed to pick and choose from the array of trucks, dolls, and carriages in the Johnson Street store.

BLAST KILLS TWO

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A three-storey apartment building was ripped apart by a terrific explosion early Tuesday, killing two children and injuring 15 other residents. The blast was believed caused by an accumulation of gas fumes.



HONORABLE MENTION was won by this house in National Housing Council contest recently completed. It was designed by Byron Price, and built by Vickery Construction Ltd. on Carnegie Crescent.

Police Probed 34 Threats On JFK Before Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The secret service investigated 34 Texas-based threats against President John F. Kennedy in the two years before his assassination in Dallas, Warren commission testimony revealed.

Among them:

—An informant's claim that a man had told a bridge party he would donate $1,000 toward the assassination of the president.

—An alleged statement by an auxiliary deputy sheriff in Houston that Kennedy should be "gotten rid of."

A summary by the protective research section of the secret service was included in commission testimony released Monday. It said that of the 34 cases investigated in Texas, five were considered dangerous, 25 not dangerous and four were closed or not solved prior to Kennedy's ill-fated visit. In none of the cases were names given.

In the two years, the summary added, "there were 115 Texas cases in which the subjects were not judged to present a current hazard serious enough to warrant investigation. . . ."

The summary said that in the same period 1,372 threat cases were investigated across the U.S. But only Texas cases were cited in detail.

Before Kennedy's trip a check of records was made to locate potentially dangerous persons along his travel route. A memorandum dated Dec. 3, 1963, 11 days after the assassination, said that none was found in the Dallas area but that two in the Houston area were called to the attention of the Houston office.

The name of Lee Harvey Oswald, charged with Kennedy's murder, was not in the section's files, the memorandum added.

Tight Money Test Slows Italy Trade

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(Second of Two Articles)

IT is a long way from Canada to Italy; trade between the two countries is not large but they are invisibly linked by a common experience and a common problem. The experience is called tight money. The problem is a rising cost of production and a threat to both countries' competitive power in the world market.

Tight money no longer prevails in Canada but it has been enforced in Italy this year with a certain Latin ferocity to solve a balance of payments crisis.

By raising taxes, limiting the money supply and drastically restricting credit, the Italian government has restrained, without halting, a dangerous price rise. It has done all this at the cost of suddenly arresting economic growth. And it knows that the painful experiment cannot last much longer because growth simply must be resumed next year, probably at the cost of further price increases.

Canada Involved

The calculation behind the present policy, never states in public, involves Canada as part of North America. Italy assumes that its prices will continue to rise, at least marginally, but it expected that North American prices will soon rise also after several years of stability.

Thus Italy's competitive position, now under heavy pressure, will be relieved by the developing weakness of its competitors, Canada among them.

Most North Americans must hope that this calculation is wrong since it is only a polite way of saying that further inflation throughout the world is inevitable, with all its injustice and disruptive social consequences.

However that may be, the Italian economy, a marvelous success on the whole, and the thinking of the Italian economists cannot be understood outside the troubled context of Italian politics.

Marvelous Success

They, too, as a democracy still under tutelage, have been a marvelous success by the standards of the past, though not by the standards of the English-speaking world.

After all Mussolini and his Fascist system have been dead for only two decades and today Italy supports the largest Communist party west of the Iron Curtain. Nevertheless, the democratic process has been maintained among a people who have yet to master it and, equally remarkable, the Italian lira is the only European currency to escape devaluation since the last war.

NENNI
. . . reversed his field

As an eminent Italian politican describes his country's basic dilemma: "It's all very well for you people in Canada, Britain or the United States to say that our polities are unstable. Of course they are. Well, how would you perform, I wonder; if Communists with almost as many votes as the government were breathing down your neck, day and night?"

There, in essence, is the political problem underlying and complicating the economic problem. To solve both, the ruling Christain Democratic party has made what blandly terms "an opening to the left" but this extraordinary demarche is little understood outside Italy.

Its real purpose is not to strengthen the left, as that word is generally understood in America, but to build a durable coalition of the centre.

When the shaky government of Prime Minister Aldo Moro took into its ranks the Socialists led by Pietro Nenni that powerful leftist leader broke clean with the Communists after their long, friendly association. He reversed overnight his former hostility to NATO, the United States and the trans-Atlantic community in general.

The True Enemy

Like the German socialists, Mr. Nenni has come to realize that communism, not capitalism, is the true enemy of socialism; that NATO, underwritten by the United States, is Italy's sole guarantee of national independence. In short, "the opening to the left" is an effort, so far successful, to isolate and enfeeble the Communists.

Of course the Christian Democrats have been compelled to pay a price for the support of the Nenni Socialists — a price that seems to deny a cardinal premise of socialism.

In most countries socialism, a word of many meanings, demands the centralization of power to permit economic planning from the top. In Italy, however, the Socialists demand the reverse. They want more power for the various provincial governments because it is within them, and the influential city administrations, that socialism finds its strongest support.

The Socialists also demand increased welfare services of all kinds, a better deal for the poor, especially the peasants, and a larger expenditure of public funds in the under-developed southern half of Italy where already the government is investing massively.

Inside Struggle

Now that the Italian Communists are split by Russia's quarrel with China and the aftermath of Khrushchev's fall, the current focus of politics in Rome is a struggle inside the ruling coalition.

Will the Christian Democrats pay the price demanded by the Socialists in terms of economic reform? Can they pay it without endangering their political base in the middle class and among the rich industrialists?

Even more important at the present critical moment, will the labor unions accept a wage pause when rising industrial costs have produced an exchange crisis and a sharp rise in living costs? Or must the effort to arrest inflation collapse under another round of strikes and wage hikes?

Such is the nature of the combined economic and political process as it enters a new and dubious phase. It cannot be judged, however, outside the broad political context of Europe.

Difficult Position

In this context Italy occupies a unique and peculiarly difficult position. Among the big three of the Common Market it is overshadowed by France and West Germany, alarmed by the possibility of a Paris-Bonn axis (though this is increasingly improbable) and more eager than any nation in Europe for continental unity.

Italy's ardent desire for European integration, both economic and political, is natural enough. For within Italy itself organized and overt communism is a major force but within a truly unified continent it would be diluted and rendered impotent.

The foreigner finds in Rome an almost desperate fear that the movement toward unity, flourishing so hopefully until President de Gaulle vetoed Britain's entry into the Common Market, will soon peter out altogether.

Hence the Italian government's eagerness to support the "new initiative" of the West German government which proposes, on a very modest scale, to build embryonic institutions of unity and hopes that Gen. de Gaulle will accept them.

Threaten Ties

Hence, in Rome, an ill-concealed suspicion of French policy, a strong antagonism to the entire Gaullist concept of Europe because it would threaten Italy's essential ties with North America, the strength, perhaps the existence, of NATO.

For Italy, with all its domestic problems, that prospect is a nightmare. So is it for Germany as well, for Britain, the United States and every nation, except one, in the North Atlantic region. No political leader but the solitary man in Paris can live long with the nightmare which he alone created. Even Gen. de Gaulle, as he is viewed in Rome, must surely see, sooner or later, that he is driving France into ominous isolation and Europe into turmoil.

NEW JOB on the monthly magazine Soviet Union has been given to Alexei Adzhubei, Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law. Adzhubei lost his job as chief editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia soon after Khrushchev's ouster last month.

'KICKED OUT'

Bennett Blasts Fulton Attack

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Monday returned B.C. Progressive Conservative Leader Davie Fulton's fire, volley for volley.

Mr. Fulton Saturday told a party convention that the Socred government is failing to provide for the needs of the chronically ill and other needy groups in B.C.

"The federal government of which he was a member as minister of justice treated the public of Canada with such neglect that they kicked them out," snapped the premier.

He said it was ridiculous for members of the "old line" parties to talk of integrity in government.

"I get a big kick out of these patronage governments — the Liberals and Conservatives — talking about integrity. It's ridiculous. We see it every day in their appointments."

PREMIER LAUGHED

Premier Bennett laughed at a statement by Dalton Camp, national PC president, that B.C. "can afford a Bennett government" and suggesting Mr. Fulton was needed in Ottawa.

"Why did he come out here in the first place then?" the premier asked.

Mr. Bennett said B.C. has seen prosperity and expansion in the past 12 years because Social Credit policies were building "a dynamic society."

"Some of these policies are badly needed in Ottawa, but I have no intention of going there."

Atheist Teacher Suspended

EDMONTON (CP)—Raymond Hertzog, a guidance and sociology teacher at a rural high school in nearby Strathcona County, has been suspended following parents' complaints that he ridiculed Christianity and introduced what they considered trash literature into the classroom.

Hertzog, formerly of Vancouver, has appealed his suspension from Ardrossan High School to the Alberta Teachers' Association.

The suspension was ordered by county officials.

It followed an investigation by school superintendent Bev Facey and Hertzog's non-appearance at two meetings called by county officals to discuss the matter.

Facey said his investigation revealed Hertzog once asked students to stand if they were Christians. He was reported to have said Christians should not be afraid to be counted.

He was also quoted as saying, "There is nothing wrong with being an atheist. I'm an atheist."

Parents of a 17-year-old girl also complained that Hertzog gave their daughter a magazine called Edge, which had been criticized by provincial government officials.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1964—PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

As a semi-reluctant Saanichite, I have more than once peered across our borders into Oak Bay Municipality with admiration and even envy.

Over there in the Happy Land, I assured myself, those whom the vexed and harried property owner elects to guide and serve him don't have heads fashioned from our native Gary oak.

They think, I thought. They pilot the municipal rowboat as if it were a veritable ship of state.

Then, doggone it, they up and betray my confidence by a stupidity so fantastic that even Saanich draws back from it in horror.

I refer to the Council vote which last month opened Oak Bay's splendid waterfront reaches to invasion by multiple-storey apartment building.

* * *

For this act, the yea-sayers who permitted their vision of Oay Bay's municipal future to be clouded deserve nothing better than to have each a high-rise named after him.

I can glimpse those top-lofty buildings now, standing shoulder to shoulder between a citizenry and the maritime view which was once its joy and pride.

They will have scowls and sneers in plenty darted at them as baffled burghers drive on to Saanich, where the roads may be whimsical, but one at least can see the sea.

This was a mistake, gents. It may well be that when December brings a municipal election, men who believe high-rise climb no answer to suburban sprawl will topple you from office.

(And if they happen to need help, there are Saanichites who just might be persuaded to slip over and scatter a few votes in the right places!)

* * *

Not that I'm against high-rises in principle. Just in Oak Bay, and anywhere else where their presence works hardship or annoyance on family folk who pay like the very devil for the right to own a home in a flourishing community.

It would seem to be axiomatic that those who put down roots and cough up taxes deserve all the property-value protection a municipality can provide for them.

With this responsibility in mind, a local government which permits the erection of high-rises in its area by off-Island promoters should insist upon certain precautions.

There are, for instance, sectors where the planners of any structure higher than a two-storey house or a low-silhouette garden court should be denied a building permit.

Even in areas where the family home has become a rooming house, strict controls should be exerted.

To prepare for certain and drastic increases in university student population by expanding the physical plant makes sense and serves progress.

But I'm not sure whether—except in the view of those who supply construction loans—it makes anything but nonsense to sanction new high-rises until those we're already blessed with have demonstrated a demand for vertical housing.

Here, we might cast an appraising glance at Vancouver, where the occupants of too many high rises rattle around in a considerable emptiness.

With that dubious example in mind, an alert municipality should think twice before decking its skyline with what could be white elephants for many a year to come.

* * *

Nor is Oak Bay's handling of her domestic affairs strictly her own business.

Even though we've never chosen to amalgamate, she is part of Greater Victoria, and flies in the face of ethics as well as aesthetics when she hoists yet another penthouse a few hundred feet above the street-level.

I must also warn that she offers an extremely dangerous example to a lovely but flitter-brained neighbor.

"Monkey see, monkey do," the saying runs; and I hope Saanich won't go high-rise happy too!

DEER SEASON EXTENDED ONE WEEK

Vancouver Island hunters received a bonus today when fish and game branch officials announced the deer-hunting season will be extended for one week.

Mild weather has resulted in a lighter deer harvest than was expected and because surveys indicated a bumper crop of animals in most sections, the season on deer of any sex has been extended until Dec. 6 on the Island.

It is the first extension in many years for Island hunters.

"Our kill is down 12 to 20 per cent, depending on the area," game branch director Dr. James Hatter said. "We know the deer are there, but hunting conditions have been difficult. We should have a larger harvest."

Biologists fear that heavy losses of animals could be incurred in areas of large deer populations if a severe winter is encountered.

AMBULANCE UNDER BCHIS

NOVEL PICKETING device was used today when Vancouver ambulance drivers Raymond Beckett, at left, and Ralph Wand hung placards on a stretcher outside the Legislative Buildings. They took up their position to support demands that ambulance charges be covered by BCHIS.

Ambulancemen Set Up Picket At Legislature

Two Vancouver ambulance drivers this morning picketed the legislative buildings' entrance with placards hung on a stretcher.

Under blue umbrellas Raymond Beckett and Ralph Wand carried the stretcher which bore the messages—"Ambulance rated too high, a financial hardship to our sick and injured" and "Citizens of B.C. urge ambulance under BCHIS." (B.C. Hospital Insurance Service)

While television cameras whirred, they ran off in an effort to intercept Premier W. A. C. Bennett when his car arrived, but he entered the building several yards ahead of them.

Later, the two men, representing Local 873 of the Ambulance Employees' Union, submitted a brief through the premier's secretary and asked for a personal meeting.

MORE PICKETS

"We have a mandate to ask that ambulance charges be covered by BCHIS," said Mr. Becket, adding that other pickets were set up outside BCHIS offices in Vancouver this morning.

He said 54 organizations, representing more than half the population of the province, have appeared before a Vancouver-Burnaby-New Westminter intermunicipal committee to support inclusion of ambulance costs as a BCHIS benefit.

Mr. Beckett said the committee was set up to study the problem as a result of indications the present civic-subsidized ambulance charges of $21 in the lower mainland area will jump to $40 next year if subsidies are removed.

150% Increase In 'Impaired'

Police Chief Warns Crackdown Started

By DESMOND BILL

More than twice as many motorists have been charged with impaired driving in Victoria this year as in the comparable 1963 period.

This was revealed this morning by Inspector Brooke Douglass of the city police traffic department.

The exact figures are 100 this year compared with 40 up to this time a year ago.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory said part of the increase in prosecutions is due to more effective law enforcement.

But, he added, the increase also shows that many motorists just don't care if they drive after they have been drinking.

He warned motorists to be more careful in future. Police are intensifying their activity to catch impaired drivers, he said.

MORE SUSPENSIONS

Chief Gregory said the biggest deterrent to impaired driving would be suspension of the offender's licence regardless of whether or not his livelihood depends on it.

At present the courts usually allow an offender to retain his licence for business purposes if he needs it for his job.

The irony of the present situation is that the increase in the number of offences began almost immediately after a stiff warning late last year by Magistrate William Ostler.

At that time he said penalties would have to be increased unless the situation improved. He then increased the usual fine for a first offence to $350.

Inspector Douglass said the fine imposed in court is really the least of the penalties a motorist may incur by driving while impaired.

INSURANCE VOID

He said many insurance companies will not pay damages incurred by an impaired driver and a civil damages suit against an offender "can break him financially for life."

Trouble is, said Insp. Douglass, a lot of people don't know how little liquor it takes to make them impaired.

He said that a man who weighs 175 pounds will certainly become impaired if he drinks five bottles of beer or three "good doubles" of hard liquor.

A smaller man would become impaired with an even smaller consumption of alcohol, the inspector said. And he added that it does not help very much if the drinker eats a big meal after drinking.

ROAD BLOCKS

Insp. Douglass said police road blocks will be set up in different locations between now and Christmas. He said the main purpose of road blocks is to check mechanical defects but it is also to look for impaired drivers.

Insp. Douglass said that even if a driver is not technically impaired by alcohol, his efficiency is certainly hindered by drinking.

He said drivers who have had a few drinks are frequently involved in the accidents investigated by police. The drivers might not be charged with being impaired but alcohol certainly helped cause their troubles, he said.

Semi-Metro Idea Liked By UBCM Says Campbell

By JOHN MIKA

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today said the Union of B.C. Municipalities executive board showed a "very good" initial response to proposed "semi-metro" boards.

He said another meeting will be held early next month to obtain the UBCM's detailed comments on the draft proposals shown them at a recent meeting.

"We'll have some legislation ready for the next session," he told reporters.

"But exactly how far we'll go with it I don't know yet."

The minister also released a three-page letter replying to 14 questions posed by the Saanich Information Committee—a political power in the municipality—regarding the joint services board proposal for Greater Victoria.

OUTLINES PLAN

He said such a board would differ from the present intermunicipal ommittee in that it would be an independent corporation which "would always function with the concept in mind that the regional district is one entity, and there are no internal boundaries."

He also sketched the bare outlines of the board's proposed mechanics and organization.

Under the suggested permissive legislation, municipalities could "opt in" to the arrangement, but having done so would "generally, will not be able to opt out."

He said the councils of participating municipalities would appoint members to represent them on the board for one-year terms.

Unorganized territories participating as electoral districts would elect representatives for two-year terms.

SAME POWERS

The board would have all the powers and responsibilities—over the functions assigned to it—enjoyed by a municipality.

Cost of services or functions undertaken by the board would be charged back to those municipalities participating in the particular services.

Net general operating costs would be shared on the basis of municipal assessment.

Mr. Campbell said that existing services such as the Greater Victoria Water District could be included if the participating members wished.

FINANCING

The purchase of an existing service by the joint board could be financed by board borrowings, or any separate agreements of various kinds.

"I must emphasize that the proposal for a regional district is an extension of local government according to the functions which the member units choose to operate on a regional basis.

"In other words, the councils say, 'Take this function, and operate it for us.'"

AND CURTIS TRIES AGAIN

Two New Aspirants To Victoria Council

Two new candidates and one incumbent today added their names to city council December election race.

Acting mayor Ald. A. I. Curtis was the third incumbent to declare himself and filed nomination papers just before noon.

The new candidates are Victoria-born Clyde Savage, a semi-retired druggist making his first try for local office, and Victor Williams, investment company director making his fourth try for city council in four years.

He previously ran unsuccessfully for federal office in 1957 and 1958.

NINE ON LIST

The additions bring to nine the number of candidates seeking four vacancies—one created by the death of Ald. Arthur Dowell. Ald. A. W. Toone and Ald. Cecil Parrott are the other incumbents who have filed.

Those who entered previously are Mrs. Evelyn McKenzie, Rev. J. L. W. McLean and Wes Dickie.

Harry Fanthorpe, a previous candidate for federal and provincial office, said today he would file papers this week.

Both new candidates — Mr. Savage and Mr. Williams — say transist is a pressing local problem that needs a positive answer now.

NATIVE SON

Mr. Savage was born here in 1908, was schooled here and graduated in pharmacy in 1928, operating his own store for many years.

Mr. Williams, Welsh-born and current president of the Welsh Society, has lived here since 1956. He calls for a strengthening of the impetus given to civic affairs by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Specifically, he wants more recommendations of the Archer report on Victoria police put into force, giving Chief J. F. Gregory more assistance, more authority and more backing. He also would like more public rest rooms, particularly in parking facilities.

BBB GIVES ANSWERS

Unordered Cards Draw Queries —75 Telephone Calls Daily

The Better Business Bureau has been flooded with telephone calls about Christmas cards done by handicapped artists.

The well-finished cards flowed into households here in a mass-mail campaign early last week.

Since then, the bureau has received an average of 75 telephone calls a day, the most about any single subject, says manager William Tindall.

"Basically, they are calling to see if the company is reputable," he said.

"We are mailing a report to those who called us so people can make up their own minds."

He said the parent Swiss company is not a charitable organization but a privately-owned business run by member artists who lack use of their hands and paint with a brush in their teeth.

Mr. Tindall said the paper, printing, envelopes and mailing lists are bought from Toronto companies. Each member artist receives a $300 monthly retainer plus a bonus based on the number of works selected for publication and the organization's earnings.

WILLIAM TINDALL
. . . phones busy

There are 90 artists, including Earl Bailly of Lunenburg, N.S., and Myron Angus of Toronto, who are association members, he said.

There are also 40 others on scholarships, including Henri Baril and Donna Graham of Edmonton.

"The cards should be considered as unordered merchandise and you should understand that you are under no legal obligation to pay for them, nor are you required to return them," Mr Tindall said.

"You should, however, bear in mind that you have no right to use them unless they are paid for.

"The association asks you to judge the value of the cards on their merit (artistic expression) etc., when considering purchase."

If you don't want the cards, they can be dropped into a mailbox with the notation "not ordered" and returned to Toronto, Mr. Tindall said.

This is the third year the cards have been distributed. Price of a set of 12 is $2.

There is no question as to the authenticity of the company, but I am critical of the method of distribution," said Mr. Tindall.

An Esquimalt man called him to say his mother, who died six years ago, received cards addressed to her.

Mr. Tindall said there had been similar complaints and he was writing to the Toronto company.

Ask The Times

Q. What was the total number of persons held in custody in the United States at the time of the last census? H. V. O'R.

A. There were 213,125 inmates in U.S. federal and state prisons and reformatories at the time of the last American census in 1960.

Last available figure from the U.S. bureau of prisons indicated this rose to 219,030 in 1962.

Chic Sleepwear Stops Holiday Gift Problem

By Penny Saver

Are there any men in the crowd who are worried about what to get their wives for Christmas? Something soft and feminine is the best thing to put under the tree for Christmas morning. And Penny has found just the thing to make the woman in your life feel like a million dollars! It's soft, sleek lingerie.

The store I was in has a full line of original nightgowns in both fitted and loose styles. One model in particular is a pink, low-necked gown edged with ruffled chiffon. The body itself is a double layer of chiffon over nylon tricot. Price is $6.99.

Any woman's eyes would sparkle with delight at a charming little gown of black chiffon over pink nylon. The front bodice is slightly fitted and flows gracefully into a semi-full skirt. The back is full and highlighted by embroidered roses. This is priced at $10.98.

A peignoir set is always suitable for a gift. One Penny was intrigued with is a blush pink chiffon negligee with puffed sleeves to the elbow and a ruffle about the cuff. To wear under the ensemble is a toning nightgown, accented by embroidered rosebuds about the yoke neckline.

For a chic touch of sophistication, you might get her something a little special, such as a full-length fitted gown of mocha-toned chiffon. The bodice is black lace. Both peignoir and gown have trim of similar lace. Set is priced at $35.

If something a little more "risque" is desired, a sheer, black nylon sleep coat with bra and panties to match is just what the "sandman" ordered. Outfit is $10.98.

Black slim skirts and sheer white blouses are making a "hit" in fashion this year, and this store solves the problem of a slip to wear under such an outfit. Top of the slip is lace, lined with nylon, and the skirt is black nylon. Cost is $5.98.

Call Penny at 382-3131 if you need help for Christmas gift quandaries.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Be a Sculptor and Mold Your Own Trim Figure

Lowman

Every woman's figure is like so much clay in her hands. She can mold it with scientific exercises. Bulges can be reduced, hollows can be filled out, and like a sculptor, she can redistribute the pounds of which she is made.

Today's woman realizes that she can do wonderful things. Thousands of women are enjoying the exciting experience of watching the happy news on the scales, seeing measurements shrink, feeling energy increase and observing the improvement in hair and complexion.

Exercise is as important a part of a beauty routine as it is of a health routine. This exercise will flatten your tummy.

Sit on the floor with your legs resting on the floor, knees stiff. Place your hands on the floor behind you and lean on them. Now keep your legs straight as you raise both legs up off of the floor as far as you can. Slowly lower legs to the floor. Continue. Do not despair if you cannot lift them far up at first. Later on you will be able to do much better. It just takes practice.

This exercise is a wonderful waist slimmer. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise both arms up overhead, one arm by each ear. Keep the arms in this position as you bend the trunk forward. Move down toward the floor as far as you can with stiff knees. Raise the trunk and stretch toward the ceiling with your arms. Hold the stretch for a few moments. Continue.

Even if you can bend over only a very short distance when you first try this exercise be sure to keep your knees stiff. Otherwise you will never stretch your back leg muscles. Later you will be able to touch your toes or the floor with your fingertips.

If you would like to have waist slimming exercises which have been tested in my classes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet 6. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dome-Shaped Buttons Good—Without Buttonholes

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have seen so many of the very round or dome-shaped buttons on expensive suits in magazines. Is it possible to make buttonholes large enough for these buttons?

MRS. W. H.

Dear Mrs. W. H.:

You don't know how excited I get when you readers become aware of the little details in garments that are constantly changing. The dome-shaped buttons are very new, some of them almost round. When they are very large, they are usually sewed on the front of your garment without buttonholes. This is also true of the larger braid and corded buttons. On the inside of facing, sew very large snaps as a means of closing the garment. Always cover the snaps with a matching crepe or silk for that "couture touch."

MRS. PETER L. ROBINSON

TAKE UP NURSING

Brigade Chief Warns Men with Families

By PAT DUFOUR

A man's place is in the home—that is, when it comes to the field of home nursing.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Peter L. Robinson, Toronto, superintendent-in-chief of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

Here, Tuesday, on a 24-hour visit which saw her attending four meetings, sandwiched between interviews and a call at Government House, Mrs. Robinson stressed that the average man owes it to his family to take instruction in first aid and home nursing care.

"He never knows when he may be called upon to nurse his wife and take care of their children should their mother fall sick."

Mrs. Robinson cited as an example, a couple she knew in Vancouver. "The wife is now quite ill and needs three needles administered every day. Her husband, an executive of a company, now finds himself faced with a program of consistent nursing care, coupled with such mundane tasks as preparing vegetables for the day's meals. If he'd availed himself of our training, he'd be much better equipped to handle the situation."

The brigade's national head quotes figures that show men's awareness of the value of such training.

"We have 8,000 adults under training. Of these, 3,800 are men."

Mrs. Robinson also stressed the value of the training given to the brigade's cadets, aged 11 to 16.

"There are 600 ambulance cadets (boys) and 1,400 nursing cadets (girls). Their training helps make them the most efficient baby sitters in Canada. Here again, I feel that it's just as important for a boy to learn nursing care. Often there are only boys in a family and it's essential that they be equipped to help nurse the sick members of their family when the need arises."

The superintendent-in-chief is also anxious to see more women join the brigade's ranks.

"We need women who are community-minded and practical. It should be stressed that the brigade has just as an important role in everyday life as the ones it assumes during times of emergency."

Mrs. Robinson reports that her interest in the brigade was fostered during a 10-year stay in England.

"It was after I was invalided out of the WRNS during the Second World War and went to live in Surrey.

"There was a large hospital nearby and I became interested in the work of the British Red Cross. From there it was a natural evolution to the work of the brigade."

IODE members in Victoria will remember Mrs. Robinson well. She was national president up until the time she assumed her present position with the brigade.

PANTALOON(ACY)—It will be the saucy look for spring and summer of 1965. Ruth Dumer, left, wears dress with matching pantaloons, both brown, pink and coffee. Lyn Rimmer models a daisy print cocktail dress in sage and pink with white pantaloons.

Fish Bones To Provide New Flour

"From what was formerly the waste parts of fish, the federal department of fisheries has come up with items that will prove a boon to trade and to housewives," Miss Edna Raynor, Vancouver, told members of the Victoria Branch, Consumers Association of Canada when she spoke on "Fashions in Fish" at a meeting held in the Public Library music room.

Miss Raynor is the regional home economist, Pacific area. She was introduced by Mrs. J. S. Hall.

"One product formed from ground fish bones and other waste products is "protein concentrate flour", with which Canada will be able to supply underdeveloped, protein-deficient nations and aid trade," she told the group.

"Dry-freezing" fish will also prove to be a most economical way of using fish in great quantity at minimum cost. A large amount of sea-food can be kept at room temperature — without spoiling even after the container has been opened," she stated.

A film, "Pacific Harvest" was shown. It illustrated new methods of catching and using fish and the way the fishing industry allies itself with other occupations, such as canning, packing, and even machinery.

A report entitled "The High Cost of Dying" was presented by Mrs. J. A. Mace, chairman of the committee assigned to investigate costs of funerals and funeral arrangements. She was introduced by CAC president, Mrs. P. R. A. Coombes.

PLAN AHEAD

Mrs. Mace told members, "It costs much less if you arrange for your own funeral ahead of time—or pay cash. Funeral homes now have generous rates for such occasions . . . and it is easier to provide for your funeral while still alive, to avoid confusion caused by overwrought relatives or friends taking care of details after your demise."

Mrs. Mace warned against "persons who have tried and will try again to sell you any service or services which are not desired or are beyond your means. Funeral services can be financially arranged to suit your budget which include a service, cremation and other details."

"We are also cautioned not to join or affiliate ourselves with any society or cult which deals with funeral arrangements."

In Los Angeles

Mr. and Mrs. J. Barker of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, announce the marriage of their daughter, Sally Margaret, to Mr. Fred Hugh Fletcher, Los Angeles, Calif. The wedding took place on Wednesday, Nov. 18, in Los Angeles with Rev. Frederick Grimes officiating. The couple is now making their home in Los Angeles.

MOSS-YOST VOWS HEARD

Bride Wears Great-Grandmother's Ruby And Diamond Ring As 'Something Old'

An heirloom ruby and diamond ring, worn by her great-grandmother, was "something old" for Marilyn Mae Yost when she exchanged marriage vows with Jerrold James Moss.

The bride wore a white peau de soie gown styled with a fitted bodice and semi-fitted skirt en train. The bodice featured a round neckline and lily point sleeves. French lace appliques highlighted the bodice and skirt. Her four-tier bouffant veil misted from a headpiece of flowers and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and feathered white carnations.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Yost, 979 Easter Road, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moss, 1414 Gladstone Avenue.

Mr. Yost gave his daughter in marriage.

Baskets of white and gold chrysanthemums decorated St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the candlelight ceremony at which Rev. J. L. McLean officiated.

Organist was C. C. Warren. Soloist, Mrs. R. Shepherd, sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Gowns of gold peau de soie were the choice of matron of honor Mrs. W. Roach; bridesmatrons Mrs. B. Forbes and Mrs. D. Homer, and junior bridesmaid Miss Sharon Welsh. Headpieces were toning self-fabric roses. All wore gold lockets, gifts of the bride, and carried cascade bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Ronald Moss was best man for his brother and guests were ushered to their pews by Fred Leak, brother-in-law of the groom, and David Homer.

A three-tier yellow and white wedding cake, flanked with white candles and yellow rosebuds, centred the bride's table at a reception in the Flamingo Room of the Crystal Garden. The cake was made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. C. P. Welsh, Sooke.

Rex Kendrew proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to Vancouver and Bellingham, Wash., the bride donned a three-piece, cardinal red knitted suit. A white maribou hat, black accessories and a corsage of red roses and white feathered chrysanthemums completed the ensemble.

Victoria Man Married in Ottawa Church, Will Live in Alberta

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald G. Harlow travelled to Ottawa, Ont., recently to attend the marriage of Rose Marie Leduc and their son, Const. Brian Harlow, RCMP. Also at the ceremony from Victoria were Mrs. H. M. Harlow, the groom's grandmother, and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Kaye.

Other out-of-town guests were the Misses May and Jenny Blackstock of Toronto.

The couple exchanged marriage vows in a nuptial mass in St. Charles Church, Ottawa. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leduc of Ottawa.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was radiant in a floor-length sheath-style gown of white peau de soie. It was accented with seed pearls and featured a self-fabric train that extended from beneath a bow at back waistline. Her floor-length veil of illusion tulle misted from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of Bacara roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. L. Kirby, and bridesmaids, the Misses Dianne and Helen Leduc, all sisters of the bride, and Miss Fran Group, chose floor-length gowns of gold peau de soie with matching coronets. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums with gold leaves.

Petite Lise Leduc was flower girl for her aunt in a floor-length gold frock with a wreath of flowers in her hair.

Louis Leduc, the bride's brother, was ring bearer. He wore a tailored scarlet jacket and navy blue pants.

ATTEND GROOM

Const. Wayne Wilkes, RCMP, was best man and guests were ushered to their pews by Consts. Tom Kennedy, Larry Warren and Norman McIvor, RCMP.

On leaving the church the newlyweds passed beneath an honor guard of lances formed by the groom's fellow officers.

Mr. Leduc proposed the toast to his daughter's happiness at a reception that followed in the Chez Lucien Hotel. A three-tier wedding cake highlighted with a mountie and his bride standing on red velvet steps centred the head table.

The couple are honeymooning in Victoria prior to making their home in Alberta.

For travelling the bride chose a three-piece yellow boucle ensemble with a black picture hat and black accessories.

Just Whistle!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband chases everything in skirts. Two months ago he asked me for a divorce and I wouldn't give it to him. We have eleven children from 16 years old down to 18 months old. If he goes to a lawyer, he could never get a divorce because he has nothing on me. But I could divorce him on any grounds in the book because he has broken all the Ten Commandments and every City Ordinance and statute there is. Two weeks ago he just packed up and left. The kids miss him. He was a lousy husband but a good father. How long does a man usually stay away? I'm afraid he's broke and hungry. Should I try to locate him? I've got the money; besides, I guess I still love him.

A GLUTTON
FOR PUNISHMENT

DEAR GLUTTON: Just go outside and blow the dog whistle. If he's broke and hungry, he'll hear it and come home.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what the shoe companies have against people with big feet, but I am getting very discouraged. I am a 15-year-old girl who wears a size 10-D shoe, and I can't find a decent-looking pair anywhere in this town. I have to order my shoes from a catalogue, and the only styles they make in my size are for old ladies. Can you, or any of your readers, help me, Abby?

TEN D

DEAR TEN: I'm probably putting my foot in it, but if I were in YOUR shoes, I'd hound the local shoe stores until they special-ordered the kind of shoes I wanted.

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for three months and this is the first time my husband has shown signs of having a violent temper. For a wedding gift, we got a "starter" set (service for four) of some expensive English dishes. I don't care much for the pattern as it is much too fussy, so I use them for every day, hoping in time I'll break them so I won't have to look at them any more. My mother-in-law gave us a set of cheap dishes she got with coupons, which are very plain. I use them for company because it's service for 12.

I want to buy a good set of dishes but my husband can't understand why. He just paid $110 for a new gun (he has four guns) and I didn't say anything. We both work and pool our money. I'd rather have a happy husband than a new set of dishes but I'd like to have both. How?

GLENDA

DEAR GLENDA: If it won't put a strain on your budget, treat yourself to a new set of dishes. But do it cautiously. I don't recommend irritating a husband who has both a violent temper and five guns.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow getting on in years, and I am not physically able to get around in the crowds any more. I am also on a limited budget, and all this Christmas shopping is too much trouble and expense to me. I wrote to several of my friends and relatives and asked them to discontinue giving me Christmas gifts for the above reasons. I am now receiving unpleasant answers to my letters such as, "I don't give to get." Abby, I don't want to accept and not give in return. Was what I did terrible?

KITTY

DEAR KITTY: I think you were more considerate than most people to announce beforehand that you did not intend to give gifts. Ignore the replies. They were unctuous and uncalled for.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jeffrey Tilton, age 10, of Somerville, Mass., for his question:

What Use Are Tonsils?

You can see the tips of your tonsils if you open your mouth wide and use a mirror to look down your throat. They are fleshy buds, one on each side at the back of your tongue. These are the palatine tonsils, the ones most likely to become infected by enemy germs. But you have other tonsils at the back of your nose and farther down your throat. The pharyngeal tonsils at the back of the nose also may become infected. When they swell up and block the breathing passages, we call them adenoids.

All of the tonsils are part of the body's lymphatic system. This system of vessels and ducts and waterways is somewhat like the body's circulating blood system. The circulating lymph is a fluid somewhat like the watery plasma of the blood stream. It bathes the living cells in nourishing liquid and carries away waste materials from the busy tissues. Most important, this watery liquid bears along lymphocytes—tiny, white bodies sometimes called white blood cells.

The lymphocytes are born warriors. Their job is to attack and destroy the multitude of enemy germs that invade the body. In the body, there are several wads of special lymphoid tissue that teem with these little white warriors. The various tonsils in the nose and throat are made of this germ-fighting lymphoid tissue. Every day, the lymphocytes in your tonsils destroy countless bacteria that might spread sickness throughout your whole body.

Tonsils Become Infected

But sometimes an invading army of germs is too strong for the defending lymphocytes. The tonsils themselves then become infected. The throat becomes red and swollen and the patient goes down with a feverish attack of tonsillitis. Sometimes the palatine tonsils become hopelessly infected and the doctor decides that they are causing more harm than good to the body. The patient then has a simple operation called tonsillectomy and his worn-out tonsils are removed.

As a rule, an attack of tonsillitis can be cured. The patient is given wonder drugs that help the lymphocytes in their germ warfare. The doctor does not like to remove the tonsils unless this treatment fails and the patient goes down with one attack of tonsillitis after another. The operation that removes the tonsils, however, removes only a part of the lymphoid tissue in the throat. Other tonsils in a more healthy condition are left to carry on the fight against invading germs.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Sylvia Jarsensky, age 14, of Phoenix, Arizona, for her question:

What are red tides?

The basic color of clean ocean water is blue. As sunlight filters through the surface waters, the red and yellow rays are filtered out and only the cool, bluish colors remain to be reflected back for our eyes to see. But the ocean usually teems with microscopic plants and animals and swarming numbers of their tiny bodies tend to tinge the water. Tiny algae plants add tints of green and yellow and rusty browns to the oceans.

At certain seasons, the microscopic algae of the oceans multiply at a great rate. Suddenly their swarming numbers add a vivid cast to the waters. Sometimes the little red algae become abundant and the tidal waters turn rusty red. These red algae add the floating specks of pigment that make the Red Sea red.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

GOSSIP IN GOTHAM

One of the most gallant fights on Broadway is being waged by the show, "The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window," and it looks like a winning battle. Box office receipts are climbing steadily, and everyone is rooting for the play, especially because its author, Lorraine Hansberry, is so very ill . . . The big buzz in the international set has it that Sukarno and a top-name movie star have been ever so cosy . . . An important music firm is all but signed, sealed and delivered to a top entertainment corporation . . . Dell Publications acquired paperback rights to the fast-selling book on General Patton's "Ordeal and Triumph." Their presses will roll 1,000,000 copies on the first printing . . . Israeli impresario Giora Godik has signed Molly Picon to star in "Hello, Dolly!" in Israeli next year. Only over there it will be titled, "Shalom, Dolly!"

* * *

Oleg Cassini has entered the Lady Bird Inaugural gown sweepstakes. He is currently working on three sketches which he'll submit for her approval . . . Gary Crosby, who now prefers straight acting roles, will play a frustrated singer in a Perry Mason segment . . . There's talk of Victor Borge starring in a remake of the film "Mr. Belvedere," which originally was a vehicle for Clifton Webb—certainly a change of pace if ever there was one. But when you have Milton Berle playing Margaret Leighton's husband in "The Loved One" and Jane Fonda and Rod Steiger set for "Dr. Zivagho," you begin to get the idea that the flickers are going wild.

DORIS

PABLO

. . . displeased

* * *

Quote from Louis Armstrong's wife, Lucille: "Louis is the last of the red-hot papas. He is the only living exponent of an American tradition. When he goes, there's nothing." (Now you know why Satchmo ought to title his autobiography "I Lovy Luci.") . . . Doris Day, first singer at Billy Reed's Little Club almost 18 years ago, still owes the cafe operator eight weeks work, according to her contract. She went to Hollywood a month after she opened at the cafe, and became a great big star in the movies. If she will sing at the Little Club on any night—just one night—convenient to her during the next three months, Billy will cancel her contract and contribute $5,000 to any charity she names.

Coffee houses in Greenwich Village have fallen on evil times. The vogue seems to be almost over, and many of them believe the only way to survive is to get a liquor licence . . . The "Folies Bergere" closed amid a torrent of problems. Many thousands had been invested to keep it going on Broadway on the premise that there would be a road show. Now that seems improbable, the show girls were behind two weeks' pay as of Nov. 13—unheard of in New York theatre in modern times—and the European chicks are just hoping they'll all get their fare back home. Of course it's amazing the revue lasted as long as it did; it was a colossal bore.

The agents for an internationally famous star, noted for her glamour, haven't the heart to tell her, but promoters from coast to coast are turning down offers of a proposed concert tour. The promoters, especially those in the east, couldn't care less . . . Sylvie Vartan, the new 20th Century-Fox star here to record for RCA-Victor, denies the rumors that she'll marry singer Johnny Hallyday. She's using the "just good friends" line, and says she's interested in other chaps who are likewise interested in her . . . Marlon Brando's son, Christian, and Helen O'Connell's daughter are California's biggest romance. They're both six years old.

According to rumors zipping around TV row, those in charge of the "Peyton Place" series have been ordered to clean it up. The network bosses are said to fear that one touchy subject too many and "Peyton" could suffer from a storm of public protests . . . Pablo Picasso, who has never made a secret of his chumminess with the Communists, isn't hiding his disapproval of Nikita's fate, either. In one casual conversation, Picasso said he was shocked at the Kremlin's sudden switch in command, and he had nothing but praise for Khrushchev. He mentioned the design of the dove the Reds use as a symbol, and said that to him "The dove still says 'Khru-Khru.'"

SOUTH PACIFIC
Classic Returns
Capitol Theatre

France Nuyen as the little Polynesian who loves a color-conscious man from Boston seems lovelier than ever in the revival of this 1958 classic, now being reanimated all over Canada, Europe and the United States.

When we first saw South Pacific more than five years ago, Mitzi Gaynor seemed to dominate the film as Nellie Forbush, an American nurse who turns away from her lover when she finds he has colored children by a former wife.

She is still a tremendous screen personality. But France Nuyen (the daughter of a French mother and a Chinese father) almost rivals her as the Polynesian beauty who cares so much for Lieutenant Joe Cable (John Kerr) she doesn't give a thought to his snobbish Boston background.

* * *

Much as he is attracted to her, the young lieutenant cannot subdue his inbred race prejudices and sings of them in the ballad "You've got to be carefully taught."

A similar theme is sustained by Rossano Brazzi as the gallant French planter and the lively Mitzi Gaynor, who cannot forget his former marriage to a Polynesian.

It takes a war to shake her belief that no white man should marry any girl but a white girl. And she doesn't really come round until Brazzi is in grave danger of being massacred by the Japanese.

The twin romantic themes are cleverly interwoven and the Rodgers and Hammerstein songs which made South Pacific so successful on Broadway — Some Enchanted Evening, Bali Ha'i, Younger than Springtime, Honey Bun and others — are as delightful as ever.

Swiss Get Young Son Of Dictator

GENEVA (AP)—Radhames Trujillo, youngest son of the late Dominican dictator charged with misappropriating funds left by his father, was handed over to Swiss authorities Tuesday.

Trujillo was arrested in France following a Swiss request for extradition. He is formally charged with fraud and theft involving several million dollars.

Since the death of the Dominican dictator there has been a bitter dispute btween his three children by his second marriage, among them Rhadames, and a second group of heirs comprising a daughter by his first marriage and five other children born out of wedlock but legitimized by the dictator before his assassination.

Rhadames' group has been claiming their father left about $8,000,000. The others maintain the fortune was nearer $800,000,000.

Teachers Defeated In Broomball Test

About 700 students, teachers and guests of Lansdowne Junior Secondary School Tuesday comprised the largest school skating party this year at Memorial Arena.

The party was financed with school funds and sponsored by the student council under president Gordon Price, assisted by teachers, John Kenwood and Donald Holmes.

Students skated, danced and defeated their teachers 1-0 in a game of broomball.

Claremont, Mount View and Mount Douglas senior secondary schools have held skating parties at Memorial Arena in the past.

The arena is used by many school clubs and physical education classes which come down occasionally for skating and hockey.

Rear-admiral M. G. Stirling will make his first official visit to Vancouver Thursday since his appointment here last month.

Other plans are to visit Mayor William Rathie at city hall and Brig. E. D. Danby at B.C. area headquarters.

He will leave Vancouver at 5 p.m. to return to Esquimalt.

The flag-officer, Pacific coast, will be accompanied by flag Lieut. Bruce Hayes.

More UN Observers Proposed by Thant

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant has raised the issue of whether to allow additional countries to send United Nations observers to New York where they could keep in touch with this headquarters.

The countries that could be affected are Communist China, East Germany, North Korea and North Viet Nam. There are roadblocks in each case, due mainly to U.S. nonrecognition of these countries.

The United Nations now grants observers' facilities here only to non-member governments "which are full members of one or more specialized agencies and are generally recognized by members of the United Nations."

West Germany, South Korea, South Viet Nam, Switzerland, Monaco and the Vatican have observers in New York on U.S. visas. They sit in the public galleries at UN meetings and are given UN documents.

Thant put the question to members in his 10,000-word annual report to the General Assembly.

He felt non-recognized countries "would obtain an exposure now denied them, to the currents and cross-currents of opinion in the world organization. I feel that such exposure will have beneficial results which might well outweigh the political objections."

A UN spokesman said Thant's remark was intended "to stimulate thinking" among members.

He declined to say which countries Thant had in mind.

'Patient with Cancer Will Try Anything'

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dr. Andrew C. Ivy said Tuesday government action against the controversial cancer drug Krebiozen has increased the demand for it so much "that we can hardly keep up the supply."

Ivy himself could go to jail for what he has done to make Krebiozen available to cancer victims.

The 71-year-old physiologist, once one of medicine's most respected scientists, spoke of his work and the federal charges against him in an interview.

The interview was held in Ivy's modest office and laboratory on the 11th floor of Roosevelt University on Chicago's Michigan Avenue. It was here last week that Ivy learned that he, along with Krebiozen discoverer Dr. Stevan Durovic and other Krebiozen backers, had been indicted on charges of conspiracy, mail fraud and violation of the Food and Drug Act. Ivy has pleaded innocent and is scheduled to go on trial in January.

"Adverse publicity always means a greater demand," Ivy said. "A cancer patient is willing to try anything."

He estimated that more than 100 persons are still taking Krebiozen in the belief that it is an effective fighter against cancer. The Federal Food and Drug Administration has said Krebiozen is useless and that its main ingredient is creatine, a common substance found in large amounts in the human body.

Ivy has been doing research on the drug since 1948. Now, he says, "I am willing to go to jail on the basis of my convictions. I wouldn't be the first scientist to do so. . . ."

Garbo Life Tale Planned In Film

ROME (AP) — Italian film producer Dino de Laurentiis says he plans to make a movie about the life of Swedish film star Greta Garbo. He said Tuesday in Rome that his wife, actress Sylvana Mangano, would portray Garbo. He said he would try to reach Miss Garbo to ask her to collaborate on the film. She lives in seclusion.

Soviet Ties Resumed

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Chile Tuesday resumed diplomatic relations with Russia, interrupted since 1947. Chile broke relations with Russia in 1947 after the Soviet ambassador was alleged to have been involved in inciting a strike by Chilean miners.

VILLA EXTENSION WORK UNDER WAY THIS WEEK

Work started this week on a $184,000 extension to Kiwanis Villa.

The addition will provide 26 new bed-sitting rooms, washrooms, a lounge for craft work and other recreations, staff locker rooms, a "quiet room," permanent kitchen and larger dining area.

By the time furnishings and other accessories have been bought the job will have cost around $215,000.

The provincial government has promised to pay about $67,000 towards cost. The village society is borrowing $95,000 from a bank.

More money is hoped to be raised from Kiwanis porchlight blitz canvass which takes place Monday night. About 1,700 canvassers will take part.

Last year's blitz raised nearly $30,000.

Work is expected to be finished by April.

When complete it will boost the villa's capacity to 78 elderly men and women able to sit down for meals together.

At present they have to eat in shifts.

Construction of the present villa began in 1962 and the doors were first opened in the spring of last year.

In addition, the society has built 50 self-contained cottages in Kiwanis Village, providing low-rental homes for 82 elderly married and single people.

Additions to these cottages have been made several times during the past 12 years.

By the time the villa addition is made the entire complex will be worth about $850,000.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

The gratitude in our hearts can never be fully expressed but we want our friends, relatives and neighbors to know how much their kind words and expressions of sympathy have meant to us during our recent time of sorrow, in the sad loss of our husband and dad, Edward Wallwork. A special thank you to Dr. A. V. Piper, nurses and staff at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and the Ven. C. E. F. Wolff, rector of St. Luke's Parish Church.—Mrs. E. Wallwork and son Bob.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends who gave kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings during the illness and death of our beloved wife, mother and grandmother, and to Dr. Higgins and Dr. Sutherland and nurses of the Jubilee and Gorge Rd. hospitals.—G. H. Goodman, A. Goodman and family, Mrs. W. Fernie, P. Matwychuk and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

ADAMS—In loving memory of our darling son, Royce, who passed away suddenly November 25, 1960.

Sweet little flower of heavenly birth,
He was too fair to bloom on earth.

—Sadly missed and always remembered by Mommy and Daddy.

YATES—In loving memory of my dear mother, Bertha E. Yates, who passed away November 25, 1956.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

It was rare indeed to find a swing due to superior card play in the World Bridge Olympiad, but in the match between England and France Maurice Harrison-Gray made a three no-trump contract while his opposite number went down.

Opening lead—♠ 4

The bidding and opening lead was the same at both tables and in each instance dummy's jack of spades won the trick.

Harrison-Gray promptly led ace and another club. East was in with the queen and led back a spade to his partner. This gave declarer four diamonds, three clubs and two spades for a total of nine tricks.

The French declarer cashed four diamond tricks and led a spade. West took his ace and returned the suit, whereupon the defence was able to take five tricks.

Harrison-Gray's line of play was eminently correct. He could count eight tricks to start with and the best place to go after a ninth was in clubs.

The French declarer's play would have worked if East held the ace of hearts, but that was a 50 per cent chance only. The chance of being able to develop a third club trick was far better. This time the percentage play was the winner.

Incidentially, it should be noted that both South players rebid to two no-trump over the two clubs response with a no-trump pattern, but only 13 high card points.

LET'S TALK
ABOUT $500
WHAT WILL IT BUY??
It seems when one talks about $500 down payment, the buying public immediately thinks that all they will get is a run-down antiquated piece of property. Let me tell you what it really will buy.
Just 15 years old, this white stucco, 4-room cottage is located in one of the desired areas of Esquimalt. Full basement, wired for electric range. A real little doll's house with corner picture windows.
Let's NOT talk about it—let's look at it and you will then believe that $500 down payment DOES buy a home much cheaper per month than renting any two-bedroom apartment. Call MRS. V. ROBERTS for exclusive showing. EV 2-8117 or EV 2-1988.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

SAVE! CUT OUT! SAVE! CUT OUT!

Say, gang, be the first in your Grey Cup party to have facts at your fingertips. CONFOUND the experts! CRITICIZE the commentators! DAZZLE your friends!

Stephen

Facts—55 years ago, on Dec. 4, 1909, 20 young athletes from the University of Toronto trotted out onto Rosedale Field, defeated Toronto Parkdale 26-6, and gained the honor of being the first football team to win the Grey Cup.

—Approximately 4,000 people saw the first game. Saturday, millions of sports fans across Canada, the U.S. and around the world will be able to see and hear Canada's football classic.

—The average weight per player of the Grey Cup champion University of Toronto team of 1909 was 172 pounds. The 1964 Grey Cup finalists average 215 pounds per man. (Almost as much as TV columnists. —Ed.)

—The first broadcast of a Grey Cup game was done in 1928 when the Hamilton Tigers defeated the Regina Roughriders 30-0.

—The last college squad to win the Cup was Queen's University. They downed Toronto Beaches in 1924 by a score of 11-3.

—The first Grey Cup game in Western Canada was in 1955 at Vancouver. Edmonton beat Montreal before a record crowd of 39,491.

—The Toronto Argonauts last won the Grey Cup in 1952, downing the Edmonton Eskimos 21-11. That was also the first Grey Cup game to be televised by CBC-TV.

—Former halfback Woody Strode, one of the heroes of Calgary's 1948 Grey Cup victory went into movies after his playing days were over.

—Halfback Alex Webster and linebacker Dale Meinert, who opposed each other in the mid-50s when Montreal Alouettes met Edmonton Eskimos are now in the NFL. Webster with New York Giants, Meinert with St. Louis.

—Edmonton Eskimos and Toronto Argos are the only teams in the modern history of the Grey Cup to win the trophy three years in succession. Argos in 1945-46-47, while Eskimos won the title in 1954-55-56.

—Tex Coulter who once was tackle with Montreal Alouettes, is now a commercial artist in Montreal.

—Red O'Quinn, an offensive end who sparked Alouettes to several cup finals is now general manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders.

—Dr. Tom Casey, a former star halfback with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, is now a neuro-surgeon in Cleveland.

—For radio listeners more than 8,000 miles of lines and cable will connect listeners in places as distant as Dawson City in the Yukon and Baden Soellingen, Germany.

There will also be transmissions of actuality reports of the game to Africa, Latin America, the Caribbean, the U.S. and Australasia.

Hostages Lived Under Threat of Massacre

By DAVID REID

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — A Belgian engineer, shivering in tropical shorts and shirt, arrived today on the first planeload of 163 rescued Congo hostages and gave an eye-witness account of Tuesday's Stanleyville massacre.

"Stanleyville — what a nightmare!" engineer Max Debuisson said as he stepped from the plane with his wife Katie and four-year-old daughter Monica.

Debuisson said he and his family were in rebel hands for three months, subjected daily to threat of massacre and even cannibalism. They were sworn at and humiliated.

"The last three days were the worst," he said. "Before that I was able to live in my house, but then we were rounded and taken to a hotel, some 300 of us.

"Yesterday morning, just before dawn, the rebels came for us and herded us downstairs into the courtyard. We had heard airplanes overhead and prayed that this was deliverance, but at the same time I was terrified for Katie and little Monnie because I feared we would all be butchered.

"A colonel of the rebels said he was marching us out to the plane to hand us over to the Belgians.

"They marched us down the street but 50 yards later ordered us all to sit down. Then they withdrew a short way, turned round and opened up with sub-machine-guns.

"It was butchery.

"I hurled myself on top of Monnie, and Katie was by my side. I could feel my fingers trying to dig into the concrete as the bullets crashed over us. I heard screams as people went down.

"Then the firing stopped, and I heard one of the rebels say in his own lingo 'now we'll turn them over and finish off the ones left alive.'

"I glanced slightly up as they walked toward us and prayed for a miracle.

"To my amazement, it happened. Round the corner of the square walked a single Belgian paratrooper, sub-machine-gun at his hip.

"Some more followed him, and when they saw what was happening they came across the square shouting and firing from the hip. The rebels turned around and fled, some of them pitching forward as the bullets hit them.

"Then it was all over and I was holding Monnie in the dust and crying my eyes out. So was Katie."

The plane carried 76 men, 49 women and 38 children. Four were Dutch and the rest Belgian.

Among them was a blonde girl, Annie Brinkmans, 12. Other evacuees said she lost her English-born mother, her father and her 14-year-old sister in Stanleyville.

One young Belgian woman fainted as she left the aircraft. Her companions said she lost her husband and three children.

Another woman stood alone. A friend said her three-months-old baby died of machine-gun fire in its cot Tuesday morning.

A boy of 12 sat bewildered, waiting for relatives. Other survivors said his father was cut to pieces with machetes.

Debuisson said: "I'm never going back to The Congo." But many of the former hostages said they planned to return after rest and recuperation. "After all, it is our livelihood."

WAS FIRED UPON

Rene Bragard of Brussels was one of those fired upon in the square.

"Almost at once the paratroops appeared," he said. "The well armed rebels started running away shouting, 'the Americans. The Americans'."

Bragard said the rebels feared Americans more than Belgians and thought the paratroops were American soldiers. "They believed also that strafing planes (manned by Cuban refugee pilots) were American planes with American pilots."

Walter de Lepper, a Dutch Catholic father of the Holy Heart from Eindhoven, said rebel leader Christophe Gbenye was responsible for the death of the whites who were shot down.

"There would have been little killing if rebel leader Gbenye had not said on the radio yesterday that all whites should be killed," Father de Lepper said.

Christian de Greef, a Brussels coffee exporter, huddled under a blanket as he told how he, his wife and their three children had been confined to their home for a month.

"We stayed in the house when the firing started," de Greef said. "When the paratroopers came to take us to the airport, we saw about 20 bodies in the street."

'WANTED TO KILL'

De Greef said a crowd of whites had been rounded up in the street and younger rebels demanded that their officer give the command to shoot. The colonel held back.

"'If you don't give the order, you'll get the first bullet,' the young rebels shouted," De Greef said. "Finally the colonel gave the order."

Some of the refugees said youths of about 10 years were carrying rifles among the rebels.

Inik Christian Marcotte, from Liege, said she was among Belgian women and children kept in a hotel while the men were taken to army camps. She said the rebels came to them every day and said, "tomorrow we shall kill you."

"Non-Africans of other nationalities, who were not arrested, brought us food and supplies," the woman said. "The rebels made no effort to supply us."

Two elderly women, still in shock 24 hours after narrowly escaping death, apparently were unaware they were safe. A Red Cross worker kept telling them, "you are in Brussels here. This is Brussels, not Stanleyville."

Revolt in Congo Backed by China

By The Associated Press

The Congo revolution, dealt a heavy blow with the fall of its capital at Stanleyville, has shown signs of being a Chinese project financed by Peking diplomats in African embassies.

The Communist Chinese flavor has been inescapable, but the rebellion has been a combination of Red mumbo-jumbo and primitive African incantation which often invokes magic spells.

The rebel "government" at one time claimed sway over a large area of the eastern part of The Congo, a key country of the African continent. It was set up last September in Stanleyville, capital of Orientale Province, when Christophe Gbenye proclaimed himself president of a people's republic — Chinese style.

Gbenye appears to be a highly volatile character whose lurid oratory often has seemed aimed at inspiring his listeners to savagery against all white men. He speaks to crowds in French, Swahili and Lingala, and often refers to himself as "Baba" — Swahili for father. He calls his soldiers Simba (lions).

Gbenye calls his forces the People's Liberation Army, which is what China calls its armed forces. The regular soldiers had seemed fairly well disciplined but the many irregulars often were wildly undisciplined. Sometimes rebel authorities had to disarm them.

CALLED 'COMRADE'

Gbenye, who uses the Communist title "comrade," is chairman of what is called the "Lumumbist Congolese National Movement," after Patrice Lumumba, the pro-Communist Congo leader murdered in 1961. He is also chairman of the "Congolese Committee for National Liberation."

Gbenye's army leader had been Gen. Nicholas Olenga. He was reported killed in fighting recently, but the rebels denied it and produced his voice on a radio broadcast.

When Gbenye set up his government in September, his aides included such men as Gaston Soumialot, director of propaganda and defence minister; Senghie Asumani, minister of interior, and Sylvain Kama, minister of finance.

Most of the Chinese support for this rebel movement was believed to have been funnelled through the new nation of Burundi, bordering The Congo on the east.

'THAT MAN WAS BRAVE'

'Stupid Accident' Killed U.S. Doctor

CARLSON
. . . thought of others

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Two Belgians today told how American medical missionary Dr. Paul Carlson, under sentence of death by Congolese rebels, died by "stupid accident" in Tuesday's Stanleyville massacre.

Planter Gleb Makaroff said Dr. Carlson's morale, in the face of a death sentence, was "magnificent."

Engineer Max Debuisson said "he was giving medical attention to those who needed it till the last moment. He was in our group and died on that square yesterday morning.

"By God, that man was brave. He knew he was under sentence of death, but he never thought of himself for a moment, always for other people who needed him.

"When they opened fire Paul was not far from me and . . . when I got up he was lying with a bullet in his head.

'DIED BY ACCIDENT'

"After all their threats to him, he died by pure accident. They did not even know who they were shooting at. They just sprayed the ground and went on firing."

Makaroff, 45, said he had been in prison with Carlson, American Consul Michael Hoyt of Chicago, and other U.S. citizens for 40 days and then was moved with them to Hotel Victoria in Stanleyville.

"He was extremely courageous and liked by everybody," Makaroff said of Carlson.

"We were transferred to the Hotel Victoria, and together taken out by the guards on the morning when the paratroopers landed. We walked out with the rest of the people who were in the hotel and then hell broke loose.

"They started shooting us down like hares. I fell down on my face and pretended I was dead. When I looked up Dr Carlson lay dead. His death was a stupid accident."

B.C. University Heads Seek National Funds

Presidents of three B.C. universities will make an appeal for national corporation money this weekend as part of the tri-university capital fund drive.

University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor, already in the east on other business, will meet University of B.C. president Dr. John B. Macdonald and Simon Fraser University president Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan for meetings in Toronto and Montreal.

Also at the [illegible] will be co-chairmen Allan M. McGavin and Cyrus H. McLean, and John Ellis, major gifts chairman.

The $28 million campaign is under way in the corporate and advance gifts areas and will go to the public in February.

University presidents will tell executives of Toronto-based corporations and other friends of the fund of co-ordinated efforts to meet higher education needs here.

"We will be looking for new dimensions in giving support of the 29 capital projects for UBC, University of Victoria and Simon Fraser University," a spokesman said.

In Montreal, a second series of meetings will begin Tuesday.

DEVELOPED IN U.S.

Centennial Rose Picked By Society

An orange-coral floribunda rose developed in the United States has been chosen Canada's centennial rose.

But it will be running in competition with a hybrid tearose developed by Fred Blakeney, 963 Arundel, Saanich, a retired railwayman.

The American cluster rose, available for planting in the fall of 1965, was developed in the U.S. under the sponsorship of the Montreal Lakeshore Rotary Club.

The centennial rose project was the idea of Jack McIntyre of Montreal, who has a huge rose garden.

The rose was chosen over two others, and all of them are from the American company of Jackson and Parkins, said Mr. Blakeney.

CANADIAN ROSE

He said Mr. McIntyre put forward the idea of the American centennial rose to the Canadian Rose Society in Toronto, which turned him down saying it preferred a Canadian rose.

Shortly after that, the Canadian Nurserymen's Association met in Niagara Falls, Ont., and adopted Mr. Blakeney's rose, similar to ones in florist shops. The rose society also adopted this rose.

"But McIntyre took out a trade mark on the name 'centennial rose' so mine had to be called Miss Canada."

The Canadian Rose Society asked Mr. McIntyre to withdraw but he refused, said Mr. Blakeney.

Both the society and the nurserymen's association were "impressed" with his rose and stocks were being built up for distribution in 1966.

BOTH PARENTS

He described his rose as a cross between a rose Peace and a Karl Herbst and has inherited the disease-resistance of both parents.

The face of the petals are deep pink and on the reverse side are silvery cream. It is fragrant with "wonderful foliage."

The Victoria Horticultural Society will give 100 plants of Miss Canada to the Centennial Square here in 1966, he said.

The American rose was chosen after 10,000 ballots from 500 Canadian communities and votes from visitors representing 27 foreign countries were counted.

NO DETAILS

Details of the vote were not disclosed in a wire service report from Montreal.

The Montreal Rotary Club plans to give sale proceeds to the Canadian Fund for Mentally Retarded Children.

ISLAND DIGEST

All Saints To Swing Sunday

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Syncopating Rhythm will be the theme of morning communion at All Saints' Church here Sunday morning.

Shawnigan is to be the first Canadian congregation to hear the 20th century folk mass composed by the Rev. Geoffrey Beaumont, an English parish priest.

It is the communion service set to beguine rhythms and reminiscent of Negro spirituals. The recurring theme is the well-known music of the Dambusters' March.

Rev. Eric Scott will celebrate the communion and act as cantor with the choir of mixed young voices.

NOT JAZZ

He said the idea was to fit the service into a musical idiom familiar to young people. The work has lots of syncopation but Mr. Scott says it is wrong to tag the title "jazz" to it.

Mr. Scott says: "Musically it is not of high calibre but it is very singable." I wouldn't do it if I felt it was going to be in the slightest way irreverent.

"I'm sure the older members of the congregation will like it once they get over the unfamiliarity of the music."

Shotgun Unions 'Seldom Work'

NANAIMO—Dr. J. R. Howey says "shotgun" marriages are wrong—they force teen-age girls to marry boys who they wouldn't even date at the age of 20.

Dr. Howey, head of the department of gynecology and obstetries at Nanaimo Regional General Hospital, was addressing the Brechin Parent-Teacher Association Monday night. He told his somewhat shocked audience:

"These teen-age girls will sleep wth someone they would never consider marrying as a 20-year-old. No wonder these forced marriages break up."

He said in his practice several years ago he advised seven girls not to marry boys because of pregnancy, but all married anyway. Seventy per cent of these marriages broke up and all had two or three children at the time of the breakup.

Constant heterosexual proximity was blamed by the doctor for much of the promiscuity problem and he suggested studies should be made on the effect of separating boys and girls in the school system.

Suggesting this would cut down on proximity, Dr. Howey added:

"I am dead against these 'teen-town dances.' They may be dancing inside the hall, but they aren't dancing outside."

To emphasize the effect of proximity, Dr. Howey told the women in the audience to "put yourself on a desert island with any man under 50 for four years, without expectation of rescue."

"If you can't see yourself becoming promiscuous in that time, you'd better see a doctor as soon as you are rescued because there is something wrong with you."

50% NON-VIRGIN

Dr. Howe said it was his opinion that the virgin and non-virgin rate among the 19-year-old girls now is split 50-50. Girls who practised sexual intercourse and those who did not travelled in separate groups, he said.

"If a girl does, her friends do. If she doesn't I find her friends don't either."

But he said the attitudes toward sex of many teen-age girls are healthier than in many women 30 years of age and over.

"They are very frank," he said. "There is no great spasm when they talk about it; there is no shock if you ask them whether they are virgins or not."

And he felt that parents tend to push their children too quickly through childhood: "Adults get a phenomenal pleasure out of seeing a seven-year-old with a 'girlfriend' or 'boyfriend'."

Nurse Lack Cuts Beds In Albernis

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — West Coast General Hospital will close 20 beds of its 111-bed capacity here Wednesday due to shortage of nursing staff.

Hospital officials said only the most essential and emergency cases will be admitted until such time as nursing staff is available to put the beds back into service.

Meanwhile, Alberni and District Labour Council has suggested heavier municipal taxation to support an ambulance service for the Alberni Valley.

The suggestion came after the sole ambulance operator announced he will cease service after Dec. 1 due to financial losses.

The labor council said an increase of three-quarters of a mill would permit the city to run its own ambulance, staffed by four members of the fire department.

As an alternative, the labor council said an ambulance service tax of $3.50 could be levied on wage earners and businessmen.

Hunting from wheelchair, Paul nailed his buck.

Chilcotin Buck Falls To Wheelchair Hunter

By DON DINGWALL

You've got to be a dedicated hunter to sit out on a Chilcotin headland for six hours in temperatures of five above. If you're paralyzed from the waist down and confined to a wheelchair you've got to have guts too.

Paul Roberge has guts. His hunting reward last week was a really heavyweight buck—all of 250 lbs. It was Paul's second trip into the Chilcotin, his first deer.

The 30-year-old Duncan watchmaker was proud of his kill, a majestic four pointer. Re-telling the story, Paul said it was the last day of the trip and he was feeling pretty discouraged and "cheesed off." He had gone on the trip with his employer, Clayton Wright, and Clayton, Jr.

He said: "They put me on this headland. We had risen at 4:30 and it was closer to 10:30 when they scared this male and female out. My pocket warmers weren't working and I was freezing but I turned the wheelchair around. I had the telescope on my 30.06 semi-automatic Remington and just one shot did it. I was sure glad I didn't have to pick it up!"

Paul a Perfectionist With a Rifle

Paul Roberge is an amazing young man, a perfectionist.

For example, when his boss invited him along on a hunting trip last year Paul borrowed a rifle. His experience with it was that the concussion just about lifted him and his wheelchair off the ground. This summer he invested in a new rifle and spent long hours practising with it.

Recalling his teenage years and shooting moose, Paul finds a greater thrill in hunting deer. He says: "They don't just stand there like moose, and you have to wait, be patient and make no noise."

Paul has been in his wheelchair since 1958. Previously he spent a year in hospital after an accident in which a tractor fell on him and broke three vertebrae.

Ham Operator and a Columnist Too

Paul and his wife, Martha, and their son, Timmy, live on Jaynes Road which besides being home is also where Paul operates his ham radio station. An ex-RCAF radio officer, he indulges his hobby in a big way, even to writing a column about it in the weekly paper.

Paul's other interests include making home-made wine, and woodwork.

Paul has everything arranged. There was 250 lbs. of deer hung in his garage and home came his father—a professional chef-cum-cook. Venison anyone?

Juvenile Crimes Require Court to Work Overtime

NANAIMO—Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts held what he termed an "emergency" session of juvenile court Tuesday night.

The magistrate said he decided to hold his first night court because "We have to get this cleared up somehow . . . we can't keep these boys locked up indefinitely."

When the normal day court was wound up four juveniles had still to appear on car theft charges. They had been in custody since Sunday and Monday.

A 17-year-old who pleaded guilty to two charges was sent to Brannen Lake and placed on two years' probation. A 15-year-old who admitted to two counts was also sentenced to the industrial school.

A 16-year-old who pleaded guilty to five charges will appear in adult court for a further hearing and a 15-year-old who pleaded guilty to one charge and not guilty to another was remanded to Dec. 29 on a 6 p.m.-8 a.m. curfew.

Unusual Accident Blamed for Death

Father of two, Marshall David Coleman, 44, of Cowichan Bay, died as a result of an "unusual accident."

The accident occurred while crew was unloading a logging truck at Cowichan Bay, Nov. 14

A jammed pin was struck with a sledge hammer by another workman. It flew off a cable, hitting Mr. Coleman, who died 11 hours later.

The jury decided no negligence was involved.

He leaves a wife, Joyce.

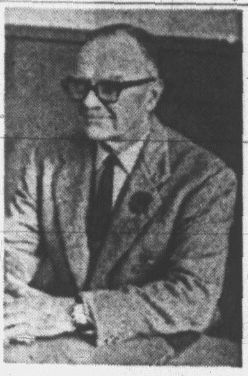
Big Eel for Aquarium

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's public aquarium has been presented with a six-foot-long Moray eel, the largest in its history. The big eel was sent by air from New York, via Toronto, the gift of former assistant curator Don Wilkie. During the flight the eel was kept in a specially insulated plastic bag placed inside a temperature-controlled tank.



APPOINTED magistrate for the Gulf Islands recently is Lt. Col. M. F. Peiler OBE of Salt Spring Inland. He will preside over juvenile and small debts courts. He came here from Eastern Canada two years ago.

Council Supports Legal Lotteries

ALBERNI—Council has given informal support to the drive for legal lotteries in Canada.

Councillors gave support to the idea in considering a questionnaire on the subject from Georges Valade, member of parliament for Montreal - Ste. Marie.

However, in filling out the questionnaire council decided education or hospitals shouldn't be financed exclusively from proceeds of such lotteries.

Hunting Death Ruled Accidental by Jury

DUNCAN—A man who shot and killed his friend in a hunting accident told a coroner's jury Tuesday: "I just hunt on occasions. I never had much luck . . .

"You hear so many stories of men being shot.

"I have had many deer in my sights but subsequently think it might be another hunter.

"I think I have only shot once at a deer."

Gerrit Mol, 32, of 5307 Fairhome, West Saanich, was giving evidence here into the death on Nov. 15 of Jean James Peakman, of 1170 Palmer Avenue, Saanich.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

TARGET PRACTICE

Mol said he and Peakman had been hunting without success that day and decided to do some practice shooting at a tin can.

Walking back to the firing line, Peakman was about five feet in front when Mol's 30.30 Winchester rifle went off.

Dr. Joseph Pawlowski said a post mortem revealed a bullet entered Peakman through the small of the back.

Death would have followed "in a very few minutes" because of total circulatory collapse.

Peakman's spine was shattered and his abdominal aorta severed.

Mol said he couldn't remember how he was carrying his gun at the time but usually in the bush he held it cradled in his left arm.

A jury member asked him: "Why was your gun cocked at this time?"

Mol said he couldn't remember but it might have been he had been trying to put the safety on it.

JFK SHOOTING

'Secret Service Reacted Slowly'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amazement at what he called the slow response of secret service agents when the assassin's bullets rang out in Dallas was expressed to the Warren commission by Senator Ralph W. Yarborough (Dem.—Tex.).

He indicated they didn't act as fast as trained infantrymen or Marines would have done.

Yarborough was two cars behind the president's limousine when Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963. The car in between was a specially equipped one carrying eight secret service agents.

Yarborough's views are detailed in one of the volumes of evidence which the presidential commission gathered in preparing its report of Sept. 27.

Yarborough told of hearing the shots and continued:

"After the shooting, one of the secret service men sitting down in the car in front of us pulled out an automatic rifle or weapon and looked backward. However, all of the secret service men seemed to me to respond very slowly, with no more than a puzzled look.

"Knowing something of the training that combat infantrymen and Marines receive, I am amazed at the lack of instantaneous response by the secret service, when the rifle fire began."

The presidential investigating commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, said of the secret service: "There is no evidence that these men failed to make any action in Dallas within their power that would have averted the tragedy."

The commission had available to it other testimony beside Yarborough's, including testimony that some agents stayed up late the previous night and drank moderately.

But the commission report also said that "the instantaneous and heroic response to the assassination of some of the agents concerned was in the finest tradition of government service."

MAYOR HAWRELAK
. . . bells were ringing

Hawrelak Under New Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — In a noisy two-hour debate, interrupted when someone accidentally set off an emergency alarm, city council Monday night rejected a suggestion by Alderman Ed Leger that it investigate land dealings in the Beverly district by Mayor William Hawrelak.

The alarm brought four policemen to council chambers.

The disruption occurred during study of plans to allow residential development of 400 lots. About 150 of the lots are owned by Sun-Alta Builders Limited, a company in which the mayor has a financial interest.

Alderman Leger said the mayor did not make this financial interest known when negotiations were launched a year ago for an exchange of the land involving the city and Chrysler Corporation.

Alderman Leger proposed the investigation. "I don't make this motion lightly. And I don't do it for personal reasons. But considering the history of this, council would be well advised to thoroughly study it. If nothing is wrong I will be the first to apologize, but I think council would find out some interesting things."

It was Alderman Leger who prompted a 1959 royal commission study of land transactions which led to Mr. Hawrelak's resignation. He was returned to the mayor's office in 1963 and won re-election for a two-year term last month.

Mayor Hawrelak said he made his interest known several times and produced a letter which he sent to council more than a year ago stating his interest in the company.

Quebec Chief Justice Named To Probe Bribe Allegations

Drive Vital On District Youth Crime

D. H. NELSON
. . . delinquency committee head

J. M. ANGUISH
. . . principal fact gatherer

By LESLIE MILLIN

Underpaid, underhelped workers are standing hapless in the face of a substantially increasing rise in Greater Victoria juvenile delinquency.

And it will take a massive co-ordinated effort at all levels from the provincial cabinet to the man in the street to help the situation.

So says a report released today by juvenile delinquency study committee of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria.

It was presented to a noon luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel.

It took more than a year to prepare . . . and some of the conclusions are the same as were reached in a 1956 study by a committee of the council.

See Stories Page 12

Recommended by the committee are these measures:

- ● A new, fully-equipped, dignified court building behind present detention home quarters;
- ● A provincial government agency to co-ordinate the attack on juvenile delinquency;
- ● Social workers or psychologists in every elementary school, paid for by the provincial government, to identify and curb the budding delinquent;
- ● More, smaller, more diversified institutions — properly staffed—to deal with the widely-differing types of juvenile delinquents.

Inadequate quarters for family court, inadequate court staff, too heavy a work load on policemen and probation workers, a lack of respect for the family courts—these are cited in the report.

And the result is a judical system for juveniles that the report says is inefficient and undignified, the subject of "interminable argument as to who should be responsible for its welfare."

Young Crime

Only an aroused community can do much to reduce incidence and seriousness of juvenile crime, says the report.

Provincial and municipal authorities responsible for coping with juvenile delinquency have failed.

They have not provided the leadership, money, staff or buildings to do the job, says the report.

In fact, they have heaped more work on the already overloaded system without offering financial help.

Serving on the committee were chairman D. H. Nelson, A. H. Stott, Ald. Lily Wilson, Prof. W. A. Cooke, Dr. R. E. L. Watson, F. V. Shoemaker, Donald Bell, J. W. Nicol, Ian Stewart, Lundy Sanderson, and Donald Smith.

Committee secretary was J. M. Anguish.

Mr. Anguish is credited by other members of the committee with doing much of the work of preparing their report.

His work involved collecting and compiling statistics, and drafting questionnaires submitted to workers in the field.

They found that Victoria sends more boys to the Brannen Lake school out of the total juvenile male population than the provincial average.

But they also found that fewer Victoria boys, on the average, are sent there for a first offence.

New Officer

They found that if another probation officer were added to the staff, there would still be a work overload.

In seven years the number of juvenile boys brought before the courts on other than traffic offences jumped 85 per cent.

This compares with a 68.3 per cent increase in traffic offences, and a 56.3 per cent population increase in the group.

In the overall area, they found, there are about 76 juvenile delinquents for every thousand juvenile boys, as compared with 68 per thousand in 1956.

VIENNA (AP) — About 400 African and Chinese Communist students stoned the U.S. Legation in Sofia, Bulgaria, today, protesting against the U.S.-Belgian action in The Congo.

Killers 'Found'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI believes it has identified the killers of three civil rights workers slain in Mississippi and the bombers of a Birmingham church where four children died an FBI spokesman said today. The FBI still is trying to gather enough evidence to go to court in both cases, the spokesman said.

Hostages Held

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — About one-sixth of the 800 prisoners at Brushy Mountain State Prison holed up in a prison coal mine today with three mine foremen as hostages in an apparent complaint about mail service.

Students Expelled

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The government announced today it was expelling the leaders of the Congolese Students' Union in Belgium for carrying out political activities.

Bayonets, Gas Dispel Students

HUONG
. . . under attack

SAIGON (AP) — About 2,000 students rioted in Saigon today demanding the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong of South Viet Nam and were dispersed by paratroopers with bayonets and tear gas.

Martial law was declared after a day of violence that saw scores wounded.

In an attempt to end the civil tumult and get on with the war against Communist guerrillas U.S. officials warned that American aid may be curtailed unless the disorders end, reliable sources said.

It was the fourth straight day of disorders and U.S. authorities are telling the South Vietnamese that "the patience of the American public is wearing out," one informant said.

In declaring martial law, the government imposed a curfew from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m.

LED BY BUDDHISTS

At least 100 persons, 60 of them police and troops, were injured in the melee around the headquarters of the politically powerful national Buddhist organization.

Premier Huong's predecessor, Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was brought down by riots in August. But the rioting today exceeded the August riots in violence.

The Buddhist hierarchy also declared open political war on Huong's government and demanded immediate release of demonstrators arrested previously. Huong showed no sign of giving in.

The high national council, South Viet Nam's interim legislative assembly, scheduled a meeting Thursday. It was considered possible that the council might remove Huong in hopes another government could muster enough support to end the political chaos.

The violence broke out shortly after U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor left for Washington.

Rebels Open Fire At Mercy Flight

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Rebels opened fire on an RAF mercy mission which flew into Stanleyville today, wounding a British army doctor, a correspondent who flew with the mission reported.

Maj. David Findlay received a slight flesh wound in one arm when snipers fired as he was supervising the erection of tents for a field hospital unit.

'OUTSIDE INFLUENCE MUST VACATE CONGO'

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Kenya's Premier Jomo Kenyatta said tonight there had been a prospect on Monday that "arrangements could be made to repatriate the Stanleyville civilians through the International Red Cross" before Belgian paratroopers were dropped to free them.

Kenyatta, chairman of the Organization of African Unity's Congo commission, declared in a statement:

"I was neither consulted nor advised before the news came of the paratroop landings in Stanleyville."

This contemporary tragedy has pointed to the paramount need for removing from The Congo scene all outside influence and contribution from whatever source and directed to whatever cause."

Troops Flush Jungles for Last Rebels

(Times News Services)

STANLEYVILLE — Belgian paratroopers today plunged into the jungle villages around this captured rebel stronghold in the Congo in an effort to save the last of the white hostages held by rebel guerrillas.

The mopup operation was undertaken in a 30-mile radius around Stanleyville while sporadic gunfire rattled throughout the day in the city. Rebel snipers, holed out in the sprawling African city and in some houses in the European section fired at cars driven by paratroopers and white mercenaries.

Some 200 white persons including seven Canadians are still missing in the northern Congo and believed to be held by the rebels.

Included among the Canadians still unaccounted for is Miss Muriel Harman of Victoria, a member of the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade.

Miss Harman was last known to be at Yumbi, 200 miles south of Stanleyville, said Rev. Alfred Ruscoe of the Crusade's Canadian headquarters in Toronto.

A task force of white mercenaries and the Katanga gendarmes column of Belgian Co. Robert Lamouline crossed the Congo River this morning and penetrated into the left bank of the Negro sector with some resistance from rebels.

Meanwhile, a company of crack Belgian paratroopers prepared to jump on the city of Paulis, 300 miles northeast of here, where 100 Europeans are being held.

UNITS FAN OUT

Other paratroop units fanned out around Stanleyville in an effort to find 24 Spanish nationals, 11 Italians and a Belgian believed still imprisoned in the immediate vicinity of Stanleyville.

Central government forces including the Belgians battled last-ditch rebel resistance in Stanleyville, scene of a bloody white massacre Tuesday that took at least 25 lives.

Canadian missionary Rev. Hector McMillan, 49, of Avonmore, Ont., was killed but his family of seven escaped. Another family of seven, from Steinbach, Man., also made it to safety.

The soldiers went about their grim task with the knowledge that their swift dawn drop Tuesday resulted in more than 1,400 hostages being freed, including 18 Canadians.

More than 900 refugees have arrived at Leopoldville from the former rebel capital and another 500-600 awaited evacuation at Stanleyville airport.

Several rebels and a Belgian paratroop sergeant were killed during the night in the Stanleyville area. Much of the skirmishing took place near the airport

TROOPS FIRE QUESTIONS, THEN SHOTS

STANLEYVILLE (UPI)— Automatic rifles ready for trouble, the Belgian paratroops today stopped an African riding a bicycle with a bunch of bananas balanced on his head.

"Are you a Mulelist?" the soldiers demanded. (Pierre Mulele is a Communist-backed Congo rebel leader).

"No," the African replied.

"You're lying," one of the Belgians said. And shot the man dead.

Paratrooper Landing Hit By Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet foreign ministry called in U.S., Belgian and British diplomats today and demanded an immediate end to military operations in The Congo and the withdrawal of all foreign mercenaries.

The Soviets called the Belgian paratrooper landings in Stanleyville "a new gross act of armed intervention in the internal affairs of The Congo." The paratroopers were flown in U.S. planes.

Statements handed to the three Western diplomats rejected the Western explanation that the paratroopers went to rescue hostages in the hands of rebels. The Russian statement said the landing was made "to suppress the national liberation movement" in Stanleyville.

The U.S. and British diplomats immediately rejected the Soviet charge.

Mundane Projects Out for Centenary

TORONTO (CP) — All provinces have agreed with the federal government to limit their federal-provincial centennial projects for 1967 to things of an historical, education, cultural or recreational nature State Secretary Lamontagne said today.

He announced that provincial ministers attending a closed conference agreed to reject any proposals in future by municipalities for more utilitarian projects, such as fire halls, sidewalks, sewers and even cemetery vaults.

Inquiry Terms Made Broader

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec was appointed today to head a judicial inquiry into accusations of attempted bribery and coercion of a Montreal lawyer by aides to two federal cabinet ministers.

DORION
. . . 'full study'

The appointment was announced by External Affairs Minister Martin at the opening of the day's sitting of the Commons.

Mr. Martin also tabled the terms of reference for the chief justice's investigation.

The inquiry is to make a full study of "allegations about any improper inducements having been offered to or improper pressures having been brought to bear on counsel acting upon application for the extradition of one Lucien Rivard and all the relevant circumstances connected threwith . . ."

In addition it will "consider fully the reports submitted to the minister of justice by the RCMP and the evidence laid before him in connection therewith and any further evidence elicited or laid before the commissioner . . . consider such other matters as may appear to the commissioner to be relevant and . . . report where there is sufficient evidence to warrant any prosecution for offences that may be involved."

The cabinet decided at a meeting this morning to reword the terms of reference, making them broader than the interpretation placed on them Tuesday in the Commons.

However, New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas proposed that the Commons hold an emergency debate on the "inadequacy" of the new terms of reference.

CHARGES ROCK PARLIAMENT HILL

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Parliament Hill was reeling in stunned bewilderment today as the full impact of Conservative allegations of bribery and coercion began to take effect.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker warned Tuesday the Conservatives have unearthed new material that will provide further political shocks.

DENIS
. . . accused

ROULEAU
. . . resigns

"This might cause further interest even than those (matters) already revealed," Diefenbaker said.

Speculation Parliament Hill centred on the possibility that this new information could link notorious former Seafarers' International Union boss Hal Banks with the affair.

This speculation started after New Democratic party leader T. C. Douglas asked Labor Minister Alan Maceachen in the Commons if Norris commission documents showed Raymond Denis, the former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay, had been given $1,500 by Banks.

Maceachen agreed to search files to see if there was any voucher showing such a payment.

Denis has been accused in the Commons of offering a $20,000 bribe to a Montreal lawyer in an unsuccessful attempt to have the lawyer not oppose a bail application by an alleged associate of members of the Mafia.

Conservative Erik Neilsen (Yukon) has also accused Justice Minister Guy Favreau's former executive assistant Guy Lord of naively attempting to coerce the Montreal lawyer into "going easy" on the bail opposition.

The Montreal lawyer, Pierre Lamontagne, confirmed Tuesday that he was the object of a bribe and coercion attempt while acting for the United States government in a case involving drug smuggling.

A day of crisis in the Commons Tuesday began with the resignation of Guy Rouleau (Montreal Dollard) as parlia-

BUT THE NEED GOES ON

For 12 Years You've Been Giving

By MARGE GILROY

Twelve years ago Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova walked into the Times office and told the story of thousands of starving youngsters in Korea, Greece, Hong Kong and India.

She pleaded for help through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

The Times listened to the USC director, then told Dr. Lotta's story to its readers.

That was how it all began 12 years ago.

Every year since then Dr. Lotta has made a pre-Christmas trip to Victoria to renew her appeal, and to thank Victorians for their generous support the previous year.

That support, given during the past 11 years, went over the $100,000 mark last year. It is hoped that another $15,000 will be added to the total this year.

The USC campaign is primarily carried on by one woman with a staff of 12 at headquarters in Ottawa, but it is the support of thousands of volunteers across the country which makes it a success.

In Victoria you can support the campaign by sending a donation to "Help the Hungry Child" fund, care of The Times, 2631 Douglas, or deliver it before 5:30 p.m.

Donations are also being accepted at the Bank of Montreal main branch, at Yates and Douglas.

Acknowledgment of contributions will be made in a daily list published in the paper and official receipts will be sent later from USC headquarters in Ottawa.

Canadian Dehli Offer of $10.12

TORONTO (CP) — Nesbitt Thomson and Co. Ltd., Toronto investment dealers, said Tuesday it will offer $10.12 a share for all the shares of Canadian Delhi Oil Ltd. of Calgary.

If the deal and certain conditions attached to it are completed, Nesbitt Thomson will sell all the Delhi shares it acquires to Standard Oil of Ohio, the announcement said.

Delhi directors have agreed to accept the offer for their holdings and to recommend it to other shareholders, it added.

Canadian Delhi has authorized capital of 7,775,765 shares, with 5,337,000 outstanding.

Its shares traded actively on the Toronto stock market Tuesday, reaching a 1964 high at one stage of $9.75. Low for the year, last January, was $4.75.

The offer is subject to acceptance by at least 70 per cent of the shares being tendered, but Nesbitt will have the option of accepting a lesser amount.

It would require the approval of shareholders and the Supreme Court of Alberta and all other necessary governmental bodies for pro rata distribution to the shareholders of Canadian Delhi of all its holdings in Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., the distribution to occur after the purchase by Nesbitt.

Probe Urged Into Option By MB & PR

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI) — A judicial investigation into an agreement between a B.C. pulp and paper company and Alberta West Forest Products Ltd. was urged Tuesday by Neil Reimer, leader of the Alberta New Democratic Party.

"This transaction is going to raise a lot of eyebrows," he said.

Alberta Minister of Lands and Forest Norman Willmore said he had been advised that MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. had taken an option agreement on assets of the Alberta firm. Details of the agreement were not revealed.

Alberta West, a private company incorporated in 1957, has a 21-year lease on 2,483 square miles of timber near Whitecourt, Alta., 100 miles northwest of here. In addition, a 2,500-square-mile timber reserve has been set aside for possible expansion.

Reimer said the Alberta government, which had supported the company publicly, has been "a willing or unwilling pawn of a group of promoters."

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1964—PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

As a semi-reluctant Saanichite, I have more than once peered across our borders into Oak Bay Municipality with admiration and even envy.

Over there in the Happy Land, I assured myself, those whom the vexed and harried property owner elects to guide and serve him don't have heads fashioned from our native Gary oak.

They think, I thought. They pilot the municipal rowboat as if it were a veritable ship of state.

Then, dog-gone it, they up and betray my confidence by a stupidity so fantastic that even Saanich draws back from it in horror.

I refer to the Council vote which last month opened Oak Bay's splendid waterfront reaches to invasion by multiple-storey apartment building.

★ ★ ★

For this act, the yea-sayers who permitted their vision of Oay Bay's municipal future to be clouded deserve nothing better than to have each a high-rise named after him.

I can glimpse those top-lofty buildings now, standing shoulder to shoulder between a citizenry and the maritime view which was once its joy and pride.

They will have scowls and sneers in plenty darted at them as baffled burghers drive on to Saanich, where the roads may be whimsical, but one at least can see the sea.

This was a mistake, gents. It may well be that when December brings a municipal election, men who believe high-rise climb no answer to suburban sprawl will topple you from office.

(And if they happen to need help, there are Saanichites who just might be persuaded to slip over and scatter a few votes in the right places!)

★ ★ ★

Not that I'm against high-rises in principle. Just in Oak Bay, and anywhere else where their presence works hardship or annoyance on family folk who pay like the very devil for the right to own a home in a flourishing community.

It would seem to be axiomatic that those who put down roots and cough up taxes deserve all the property-value protection a municipality can provide for them.

With this responsibility in mind, a local government which permits the erection of high-rises in its area by off-Island promoters should insist upon certain precautions.

There are, for instance, sectors where the planners of any structure higher than a two-storey house or a low-silhouette garden court should be denied a building permit.

Even in areas where the family home has become a rooming house, strict controls should be exerted.

To prepare for certain and drastic increases in university student population by expanding the physical plant makes sense and serves progress.

But I'm not sure whether—except in the view of those who supply construction loans—it makes anything but nonsense to sanction new high-rises until those we're already blessed with have demonstrated a demand for vertical housing.

Here, we might cast an appraising glance at Vancouver, where the occupants of too many high rises rattle around in a considerable emptiness.

With that dubious example in mind, an alert municipality should think twice before decking its skyline with what could be white elephants for many a year to come.

★ ★ ★

Nor is Oak Bay's handling of her domestic affairs strictly her own business.

Even though we've never chosen to amalgamate, she is part of Greater Victoria, and flies in the face of ethics as well as aesthetics when she hoists yet another penthouse a few hundred feet above the street-level.

I must also warn that she offers an extremely dangerous example to a lovely but flitter-brained neighbor.

"Monkey see, monkey do," the saying runs; and I hope Saanich won't go high-rise happy too!

Semi-Metro Idea Liked By UBCM Says Campbell

By JOHN MIKA

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today said the Union of B.C. Municipalities executive board showed a "very good" initial response to proposed "semi-metro" boards.

He said another meeting will be held early next month to obtain the UBCM's detailed comments on the draft proposals shown them at a recent meeting.

"We'll have some legislation ready for the next session," he told reporters.

"But exactly how far we'll go with it I don't know yet."

The minister also released a three-page letter replying to 14 questions posed by the Saanich Information Committee—a political power in the municipality—regarding the joint services board proposal for Greater Victoria.

OUTLINES PLAN

He said such a board would differ from the present inter-municipal committee in that it would be an independent corporation which "would always function with the concept in mind that the regional district is one entity, and there are no internal boundaries."

He also sketched the bare outlines of the board's proposed mechanics and organization.

Under the suggested permissive legislation, municipalities could "opt in" to the arrangement, but having done so would "generally, will not be able to opt out."

He said the councils of participating municipalities would appoint members to represent them on the board for one-year terms.

Unorganized territories participating as electoral districts would elect representatives for two-year terms.

SAME POWERS

The board would have all the powers and responsibilities—over the functions assigned to it—enjoyed by a municipality.

Cost of services or functions undertaken by the board would be charged back to those municipalities participating in the particular services.

Net general operating costs would be shared on the basis of municipal assessment.

Mr. Campbell said that existing services, such as the Greater Victoria Water District could be included if the participating members wished.

FINANCING

The purchase of an existing service by the joint board could be financed by board borrowings, or any separate agreements of various kinds.

"I must emphasize that the proposal for a regional district is an extension of local government according to the functions which the member units choose to operate on a regional basis.

"In other words, the councils say, 'Take this function, and operate it for us.'"

Unordered Cards Draw Queries —75 Telephone Calls Daily

The Better Business Bureau has been flooded with telephone calls about Christmas cards done by handicapped artists.

The well-finished cards flowed into households here in a mass-mail campaign early last week.

Since then, the bureau has received an average of 75 telephone calls a day, the most about any single subject, says manager William Tindall.

"Basically, they are calling to see if the company is reputable," he said.

"We are mailing a report to those who called us so people can make up their own minds."

He said the parent Swiss company is not a charitable organization, but a privately-owned business run by member artists who lack use of their hands and paint with a brush in their teeth.

Mr. Tindall said the paper, printing, envelopes and mailing lists are bought from Toronto companies. Each member artist receives a $200 monthly retainer plus a bonus based on the number of works selected for publication, and the organization's earnings.

WILLIAM TINDALL
. . . phones busy

There are 90 artists, including Earl Bailly of Lunenburg, N.S., and Myron Angus of Toronto, who are association members, he said.

There are also 40 others on scholarships, including Henri Baril and Donna Graham of Edmonton.

"The cards should be considered as unordered merchandise and you should understand that you are under no legal obligation to pay for them, nor are you required to return them," Mr Tindall said.

"You should, however, bear in mind that you have no right to use them unless they are paid for.

"The association asks you to judge the value of the cards on their merit (artistic expression) etc., when considering purchase."

If you don't want the cards, they can be dropped into a mailbox with the notation "not ordered" and returned to Toronto, Mr. Tindall said.

This is the third year the cards have been distributed. Price of a set of 12 is $2.

"There is no question as to the authenticity of the company, but I am critical of the method of distribution," said Mr. Tindall.

An Esquimalt man called him to say his mother, who died six years ago, received cards addressed to her.

Mr. Tindall said there had been similar complaints and he was writing to the Toronto company.

DEER SEASON EXTENDED ONE WEEK

Vancouver Island hunters received a bonus today when fish and game branch officials announced the deer-hunting season will be extended for one week.

Mild weather has resulted in a lighter deer harvest than was expected and because surveys indicated a bumper crop of animals in most sections, the season on deer of any sex has been extended until Dec. 6 on the Island.

It is the first extension in many years for Island hunters.

"Our kill is down 12 to 20 per cent, depending on the area," game branch director Dr. James Hatter said. "We know the deer are there, but hunting conditions have been difficult. We should have a larger harvest."

Biologists fear that heavy losses of animals could be incurred in areas of large deer populations if a severe winter is encountered.

Ambulancemen Set Up Picket At Legislature

Two Vancouver ambulance drivers this morning picketed the legislative buildings' entrance with placards hung on a stretcher.

Under blue umbrellas Raymond Beckett and Ralph Wand carried the stretcher which bore the messages—"Ambulance rated too high, a financial hardship to our sick and injured" and "Citizens of B.C. urge ambulance under BCHIS." (B.C. Hospital Insurance Service)

While television cameras whirred, they ran off in an effort to intercept Premier W. A. C. Bennett when his car arrived, but he entered the building several yards ahead of them.

Later, the two men, representing Local 873 of the Ambulance Employees' Union, submitted a brief through the premier's secretary and asked for a personal meeting.

MORE PICKETS

"We have a mandate to ask that ambulance charges be covered by BCHIS," said Mr. Becket, adding that other pickets were set up outside BCHIS offices in Vancouver this morning.

He said 54 organizations, representing more than half the population of the province, have appeared before a Vancouver-Burnaby-New Westminster intermunicipal committee to support inclusion of ambulance costs as a BCHIS benefit.

Mr. Beckett said the committee was set up to study the problem as a result of indications the present civic-subsidized ambulance charges of $21 in the lower mainland area will jump to $40 next year if subsidies are removed.

150% Increase In 'Impaired'

Police Chief Warns Crackdown Started

By DESMOND BILL

More than twice as many motorists have been charged with impaired driving in Victoria this year as in the comparable 1963 period.

This was revealed this morning by Inspector Brooke Douglass of the city police traffic department.

The exact figures are 100 this year compared with 40 up to this time a year ago.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory said part of the increase in prosecutions is due to more effective law enforcement.

But, he added, the increase also shows that many motorists just don't care if they drive after they have been drinking.

He warned motorists to be more careful in future. Police are intensifying their activity to catch impaired drivers, he said.

MORE SUSPENSIONS

Chief Gregory said the biggest deterrent to impaired driving would be suspension of the offender's licence regardless of whether or not his livelihood depends on it.

At present the courts usually allow an offender to retain his licence for business purposes if he needs it for his job.

The irony of the present situation is that the increase in the number of offences began almost immediately after a stiff warning late last year by Magistrate William Ostler.

At that time he said penalties would have to be increased unless the situation improved. He then increased the usual fine for a first offence to $350.

Inspector Douglass said the fine imposed in court is really the least of the penalties a motorist may incur by driving while impaired.

INSURANCE VOID

He said many insurance companies will not pay damages incurred by an impaired driver and a civil damages suit against an offender "can break him financially for life."

Trouble is, said Insp. Douglass, a lot of people don't know how little liquor it takes to make them impaired.

He said that a man who weighs 175 pounds will certainly become impaired if he drinks five bottles of beer or three "good doubles" of hard liquor.

A smaller man would become impaired with an even smaller consumption of alcohol, the inspector said. And he added that it does not help very much if the drinker eats a big meal after drinking.

ROAD BLOCKS

Insp. Douglass said police road blocks will be set up in different locations between now and Christmas. He said the main purpose of road blocks is to check mechanical defects but it is also to look for impaired drivers.

Insp. Douglass said that even if a driver is not technically impaired by alcohol, his efficiency is certainly hindered by drinking.

He said drivers who have had a few drinks are frequently involved in the accidents investigated by police. The drivers might not be charged with being impaired but alcohol certainly helped cause their troubles, he said.

CLYDE SAVAGE

VICTOR WILLIAMS

AND CURTIS TRIES AGAIN

Two New Aspirants To Victoria Council

Two new candidates and one incumbent today added their names to city council December election race.

Acting mayor Ald. A. I. Curtis was the third incumbent to declare himself and filed nomination papers just before noon.

The new candidates are Victoria-born Clyde Savage, a semi-retired druggist making his first try for local office, and Victor Williams, investment company director making his fourth try for city council in four years.

He previously ran unsuccessfully for federal office in 1957 and 1958.

NINE ON LIST

The additions bring to nine the number of candidates seeking four vacancies, one created by the death of Ald. Arthur Dowell. Ald. A. W. Toone and Ald. Cecil Parrott are the other incumbents who have filed.

Those who entered previously are Mrs. Evelyn McKenzie, Rev. J. L. W. McLean and Wes Dickie.

Harry Fanthorpe, a previous candidate for federal and provincial office, said today he would file papers this week.

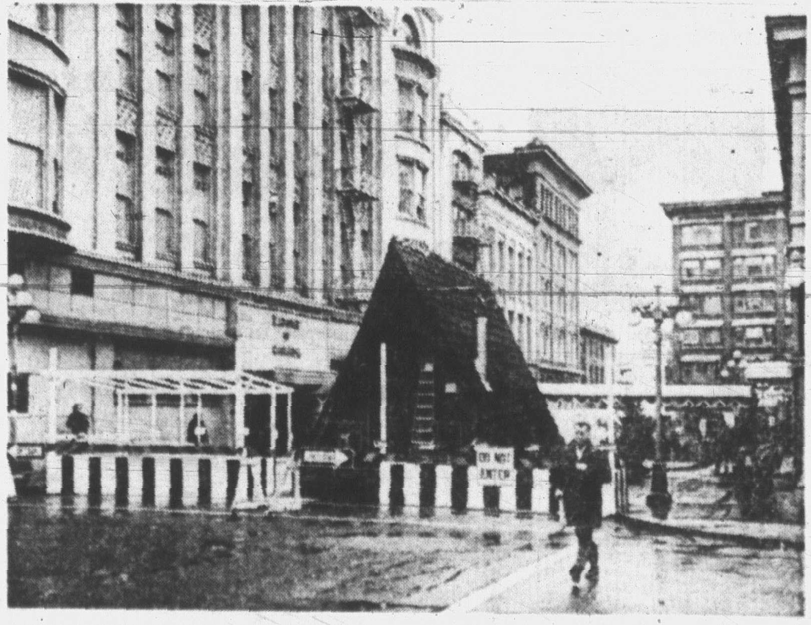
Both new candidates — Mr. Savage and Mr. Williams — say transit is a pressing local problem that needs a positive answer now.

NATIVE SON

Mr. Savage was born here in 1908, was schooled here and graduated in pharmacy in 1928, operating his own store for many years.

Mr. Williams, Welsh-born and current president of the Welsh Society, has lived here since 1956. He calls for a strengthening of the impetus given to civic affairs by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Specifically, he wants more recommendations of the Archer report on Victoria police put into force, giving Chief J. F. Gregory more assistance, more authority and more backing. He also would like more public rest rooms, particularly in parking facilities.



THE KIDDIE SET is dusting off its favorite ditty—Santa Claus Is Coming to Town—as city merchants mobilize for the hottest marketing season of the year. And when Santa visits Eaton's department store he will have a cosy A-frame cottage for headquarters. The city gave the store permission to seal off a block of Broad Street for its Christmas motif, creating a Yuletide mall for shoppers, complete with miniature train ride for youngsters. Labor MPs in Revolt As Pension Line Held

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson's embattled government today faced the twin threat of financial crisis and a backbench revolt among its own Labor supporters.

Despite a flight from the pound on international money markets, about 40 Labor legislators decided to press Wilson for quicker action to boost old age pensions.

The government already has promised a pensions increase for next March and at the weekend was believed ready to bring it closer.

But a private meeting of Labor MPs was told Tuesday night that in Britain's present urgent situation no earlier increase could be contemplated.

Several of the MPs left the meeting bitterly angry, some charging that the needs of old people were being sacrificed to the demands of "the gnomes of Zurich," meaning international bankers.

Financial authorities estimated that the Bank of England spent up to £35,000,000 ($105,000,000) in buying pounds Tuesday to prevent a major fall in its value against other currencies.

Foreign holders were selling sterling rapidly despite Monday's drastic increase in British interest rates — a move which financiers usually expect to bring money cascading into London.

Behind the sales, according to the Zurich correspondent of The Times of London, lay belief that Britain eventually may be forced to devalue its currency.

The Financial Times, independent business daily, said all London dealers reported that confidence in the pound remained low despite Monday's increase in lending rates.

One of the main reasons for lack of confidence, it said, was that sterling holders could not see how Britain's international trade deficit could be corrected once the government's emergency surcharge on imports is lifted.

This surcharge was the government's first action to heal a deficit estimated at more than £700,000,000 ($2,100,000,000) this year. It brought bitter criticism from Britain's trade partners in the European Free Trade Association.

In its lead editorial, the Financial Times said:

'Above all the current run on sterling springs from a widespread lack of confidence in the government's ability to solve the balance of payments problem. This cannot be put right quickly.

"The government can ride out this storm, provided that it is now ready to admit that it is itself partly responsible for it.

"The defence of the exchange rate is a national interest, and the government must enlist the support of every section of the nation.

VISITING Victoria Rotary Club Thursday and Friday is district governor Dr. John W. Richards of Seattle. He will address the club Thursday and in the afternoon will have talks with local president Dr. Robert Stark and secretary Mrs. Vivien Moore. In the evening a fellowship dinner is planned at the Empress Hotel, starting 6:15 p.m. Mrs. Richards will be entertained by Rotary ladies at Victoria Golf Club in the afternoon and a dinner will be held in her honor at the Pacific Club in the evening.

U.S. Not Likely to Approve Major Raid on N. Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Qualified Johnson administration officials would like to see a brake put on speculation that a drastic shift in U.S. policy to greatly expand the war in South Viet Nam is likely to result from the current review under way here.

This policy review, rather, is likely to rule out any massive air or sea assault against Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam, or against North Vietnamese military concentrations — actions that if taken could be expected to evoke a Communist Chinese response, informed sources said.

Officials are sounding this cautionary note as Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, heads for Washington and consultations with President Johnson and his advisers.

These officials stress privately that whatever decision the president reaches, it likely will be far less dramatic than current speculation may have led the public to expect.

State department officials said they read and approved in advance Taylor's views on the South Viet Nam war that appear currently in Life magazine. And, these officials declared, Taylor has not advocated extending ths war to North Viet Nam.

Taylor is regarded here as saying there are both pros and cons that must be considered before U.S. aircraft could be ordered to hit Communist supply lines in Laos and guerrilla training areas in North Viet Nam.

It was pointed out that Taylor cautioned that military action outside of Viet Nam would not solve the situation any more than bare military action within South Viet Nam would if it were unaccompanied by other measures.

Taylor is believed to feel that a stable regime in South Viet Nam is necessary before any decision can be taken to broaden the war.

Mishap Kills Canadian

HONG KONG (AP)—Pamela Kolding, wife of Canadian advertising executive Martin Kolding, formerly of Vancouver, was killed and Vicky Burrows, wife of Life Magazine photographer Larry Burrows, was injured Monday when their car plunged 200 feet down a hillside near here.

Mrs. Kolding was thrown from the car. She was dead before an ambulance arrived.

Kolding, a Danish-born Canadian, met his wife while she was working for the British government in Malaya. They returned to Hong Kong this year after living in Vancouver.

BIRTHDAY FETE FOR SIR WINSTON

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's secretaries and Britain's post office department braced themselves today to handle an avalanche of birthday telegrams, gifts, greeting cards and letters.

Britain's wartime leader will be 90 Monday.

The post office estimates that Sir Winston may receive 60,000 congratulatory messages by nightfall on his birthday.

A spokesman said there would be about 16 guests, including Churchill's son, Randolph; his grandson, Winston, and his daughters, Sarah and Mary.

If past plans are followed, there will be oysters and champagne as a starter. Sir Winston likes both, and together.

Canadian Delhi Offer of $10.12

TORONTO (CP) — Nesbitt Thomson and Co. Ltd., Toronto investment dealers, said Tuesday it will offer $10.12 a share for all the shares of Canadian Delhi Oil Ltd. of Calgary.

If the deal and certain conditions attached to it are completed, Nesbitt Thomson, will sell all the Delhi shares it acquires to Standard Oil of Ohio, the announcement said.

Delhi directors have agreed to accept the offer for their holdings and to recommend it to other shareholders, it added.

Canadian Delhi has authorized capital of 7,775,765 shares, with 5,337,000 outstanding.

Its shares traded actively on the Toronto stock market Tuesday, reaching a 1964 high at one stage of $9.75. Low for the year, last January, was $4.75.

The offer is subject to acceptance by at least 70 per cent of the shares being tendered, but Nesbitt will have the option of accepting a lesser amount.

It would require the approval of shareholders and the Supreme Court of Alberta and all other necessary governmental bodies for pro rata distribution to the shareholders of Canadian Delhi of all its holdings in Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., the distribution to occur after the purchase by Nesbitt.

Probe Urged Into Option By MB & PR

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI) — A judicial investigation into an agreement between a B.C. pulp and paper company and Alberta West Forest Products Ltd was urged Tuesday by Neil Reimer, leader of the Alberta New Democratic Party.

"This transaction is going to raise a lot of eyebrows," he said.

Alberta Minister of Lands and Forest Norman Willmore said he had been advised that MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. had taken an option agreement on assets of the Alberta firm. Details of the agreement were not revealed.

Alberta West, a private company incorporated in 1957, has a 21-year lease on 2,483 square miles of timber near Whitecourt, Alta., 100 miles northwest of here. In addition, a 2,500-square-mile timber reserve has been set aside for possible expansion.

Reimer said the Alberta government, which had supported the company publicly, has been "a willing or unwilling pawn of a group of promoters."

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

It was rare indeed to find a swing due to superior card play in the World Bridge Olympiad, but in the match between England and France Maurice Harrison-Gray made a three no-trump contract while his opposite number went down.

Opening lead—♠ 4

The bidding and opening lead was the same at both tables and in each instance dummy's jack of spades won the trick.

Harrison-Gray promptly led ace and another club. East was in with the queen and led back a spade to his partner. This gave declarer four diamonds, three clubs and two spades for a total of nine tricks.

The French declarer cashed four diamond tricks and led a spade. West took his ace and returned the suit, whereupon the defence was able to take five tricks.

Harrison-Gray's line of play was eminently correct. He could count eight tricks to start with and the best place to go after a ninth was in clubs.

The French declarer's play would have worked if East held the ace of hearts, but that was a 50 per cent chance only. The chance of being able to develop a third club trick was far better. This time the percentage play was the winner.

Incidentally, it should be noted that both South players rebid to two no-trump over the two clubs response with a no-trump pattern, but only 13 high card points.

Hijackers Get $50,000 In Liquor

MONTREAL (UPI)—Montreal police today were investigating a $50,000 liquor hi-jacking.

Truck driver Leo Vezina told police he was delivering the load, owned by Seagram's Distilleries, to the harbor for shipment overseas. He said two men jumped into the cab of his trailer-truck and overwhelmed him.

Prisoners Hold Hostages In Mine

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI)—About 150 prison inmates used to work the mines in this east Tennessee area revolted today and took three foremen hostage in a coal mine shaft.

Demand Made to Produce Cheques

OTTAWA (CP)—Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) demanded in the Commons today to know what has become of cancelled cheques said to have been made out by Hal Banks in favor of some Montreal Liberal MPs.

He maintained that there is a working paper in the labor department which says the cancelled cheques were sent to the maritime trustees who now administer Banks' old union, the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.).

Labor Minister MacEachen said there are no such cheques in the files of the labor department and that the trustees have advised that there are none in theirs.

Cannon Wins Nevada—Recount Set

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Senator Howard W. Cannon (Dem. Nev.) was certified today as winner by 48 votes in Nevada's Nov. 3 senatorial election, but the wheels are rolling already for a recount.

In official results canvassed by the Nevada Supreme Court, Cannon, 52, received 67,336 votes to 67,288 for Republican Lieut.-Gov. Paul Laxalt, 42, of Carson City. Laxalt already has requested a recount.

Troops Flush Jungles for Last Rebels

(Times News Services)

STANLEYVILLE — Belgian paratroopers today plunged into the jungle villages around this captured rebel stronghold in the Congo in an effort to save the last of the white hostages held by rebel guerrillas.

The mopup operation was undertaken in a 30-mile radius around Stanleyville while sporadic gunfire rattled throughout the day in the city. Rebel snipers, holed out in the sprawling African city and in some houses in the European section fired at cars driven by paratroopers and white mercenaries.

Some 200 white persons including seven Canadians are still missing in the northern Congo and believed to be held by the rebels.

Included among the Canadians still unaccounted for is Miss Muriel Harman of Victoria, a member of the World-wide Evangelization Crusade.

Miss Harman was last known to be at Yumbi, 200 miles south of Stanleyville, said Rev. Alfred Ruscoe of the Crusade's Canadian headquarters in Toronto.

A task force of white mercenaries and the Katanga gendarmes column of Belgian Col. Robert Lamouline crossed the Congo River this morning and penetrated into the left bank of the Negro sector with some resistance from rebels.

Meanwhile, a company of crack Belgian paratroopers prepared to jump on the city of Paulis, 300 miles northeast of here, where 100 Europeans are being held.

UNITS FAN OUT

Other paratroop units fanned out around Stanleyville in an effort to find 24 Spanish nationals, 11 Italians and a Belgian believed still imprisoned in the immediate vicinity of Stanleyville.

Central government forces including the Belgians battled last-ditch rebel resistance in Stanleyville, scene of a bloody white massacre Tuesday that took at least 25 lives.

Canadian missionary, Rev. Hector McMillan, 49, of Avonmore, Ont., was killed but his family of seven escaped. Another family of seven, from Steinbach, Man., also made it to safety.

The soldiers went about their grim task with the knowledge that their swift dawn drop Tuesday resulted in more than 1,400 hostages being freed, including 18 Canadians.

More than 900 refugees have arrived at Leopoldville from the former rebel capital and another 500-600 awaited evacuation at Stanleyville airport.

Several rebels and a Belgian paratroop sergeant were killed during the night in the Stanleyville area. Much of the skirmishing took place near the airport.

TROOPS FIRE QUESTIONS, THEN SHOTS

STANLEYVILLE (UPI)—Automatic rifles ready for trouble, the Belgian paratroops today stopped an African riding a bicycle with a bunch of bananas balanced on his head.

"Are you a Mulelist?" the soldiers demanded. (Pierre Mulele is a Communist-backed Congo rebel leader).

"No," the African replied.

"You're lying," one of the Belgians said. And shot the man dead.

REPORT SAYS

Drive Vital On District Youth Crime

By LESLIE MILLIN

Underpaid, underhelped workers are standing hapless in the face of a substantially increasing rise in Greater Victoria juvenile delinquency.

And it will take a massive, co-ordinated effort at all levels from the provincial cabinet to the man in the street to help the situation.

So says a report released today by juvenile delinquency study committee of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria.

It was presented to a noon luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel.

It took more than a year to prepare . . . and some of the conclusions are the same as were reached in a 1956 study by a committee of the council.

See Stories Page 12

Recommended by the committee are these measures:

- A new, fully-equipped, dignified court building behind present detention home quarters;
- A provincial government agency to co-ordinate the attack on juvenile delinquency;
- Social workers or psychologists in every elementary school, paid for by the provincial government, to identify and curb the budding delinquent;
- More, smaller, more diversified institutions — properly staffed—to deal with the widely-differing types of juvenile delinquents.

Inadequate quarters for family court, inadequate court staff, too heavy a work load on policemen and probation workers, a lack of respect for the family courts—these are cited in the report.

And the result is a judical system for juveniles that the report says is inefficient and undignified, the subject of "interminable argument as to who should be responsible for its welfare."

Young Crime

Only an aroused community can do much to reduce incidence and seriousness of juvenile crime, says the report.

Provincial and municipal authorities responsible for coping with juvenile delinquency have failed.

They have not provided the leadership, money, staff or buildings to do the job, says the report.

In fact, they have heaped more work on the already overloaded system without offering financial help.

Serving on the committee were chairman D. H. Nelson, A. H. Stott, Ald. Lily Wilson, Prof. W. A. Cooke, Dr. R. E. L. Watson, F. V. Shoemaker, Donald Bell, J. W. Nicol, Ian Stewart, Lundy Sanderson, and Donald Smith.

Committee secretary was J. M. Anguish.

Mr. Anguish is credited by other members of the committee with doing much of the work of preparing their report.

His work involved collecting and compiling statistics, and drafting questionnaires submitted to workers in the field.

U.K. HONORS CONTRACT FOR PLANES

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson told Parliament today Britain will honor a contract to supply 16 jet fighters to South Africa.

Wilson's statement made no specific reference to a further 14 Buccaneer aircraft understood to be on option to South Africa but he said: "No further South African contracts will be entered into."

B.C. Bank Decision Postponed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate banking committee decided today to postpone for one week consideration of a motion that would throw out a bill to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia.

Senators were just about to vote on the motion of Senator A. D. Hugessen (L—Quebec), that the bill be dropped until Parliament revises the Bank Act when another Quebec senator, Jacques Flynn (PC—Quebec), moved adjournment of the committee until next Wednesday.

The adjournment motion carried 16 to 10.

VOICES OBJECTION

Senator Ralph Horner (PC—Saskatchewan), an observer at the committee, jumped to his feet after the Hugesson motion to say that the committee "has no business to pass this resolution."

He said the committee had earlier this session approved incorporation of two other chartered banks—Laurentide and the Bank of Western Canada—and that it would be wrong to "prevent this man Bennett from banking."

Senator Alfred Brooks, Conservative leader in the Senate, said it would be unfair to vote on the motion until the sponsor of the bill, Senator J. W. deB. Farris (L—British Columbia), had a chance to speak.

Bayonets, Gas Dispel Students

SAIGON (AP)—About 2,000 students rioted in Saigon today demanding the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong of South Viet Nam and were dispersed by paratroopers with bayonets and tear gas.

Martial law was declared after a day of violence that saw scores wounded.

In an attempt to end the civil tumult and get on with the war against Communist guerrillas, U.S. officials warned that American aid may be curtailed unless the disorders end, reliable sources said.

It was the fourth straight day of disorders and U.S. authorities are telling the South Vietnamese that "the patience of the American public is wearing out," one informant said.

In declaring martial law, the government imposed a curfew from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m.

At least 100 persons, 60 of them police and troops, were injured in the melee around the headquarters of the politically powerful national Buddhist organization.

Premier Huong's predecessor, Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was brought down by riots in August. But the rioting today exceeded the August riots in violence.

The Buddhist hierarchy also declared open political war on Huong's government and demanded immediate release of demonstrators arrested previously. Huong showed no sign of giving in.

The high national council, South Viet Nam's interim legislative assembly, scheduled a meeting Thursday. It was considered possible that the council might remove Huong in hopes another government could muster enough support to end the political chaos.

The violence broke out shortly after U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor left for Washington.

Favreau Bows To Demands

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA—The Commons today thundered into a full-scale debate of the charges of intimidation and bribery levelled at two former assistants to Liberal cabinet ministers after the government named a Quebec chief justice to investigate them.

Immediately after acting prime minister Paul Martin named Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court to conduct the investigation, New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas demanded all other Commons business be set aside to debate the terms of reference of the committee.

Douglas, backed by opposition leader John Diefenbaker, argued that the terms of reference were too limited and that it was "urgent" that they be discussed by the Commons immediately.

Justice Minister Guy Favreau halted the name-calling, shouting debate over the Douglas motion when he agreed with a suggestion by Marcel Lessard (SC—Lac St. Jean) that he bring his estimates today — rather than Thursday as planned.

Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled then there was no urgency and eliminated Douglas' motion.

Douglas won indirectly because the Commons immediately following the question period launched into full debate of the issue.

Mr. Douglas said it now is clear that an RCMP report to Justice Minister Favreau indicated that a lawyer was confronted by a former cabinet aide and that it has been alleged a bribe was offered.

Mr. Martin immediately interrupted the NDP leader and suggested members should say nothing about any matter that will be considered at the commission inquiry.

Mr. Martin said Mr. Douglas was entitled to discuss the adequacy of the terms of reference but that nothing should be said to reflect in any way on any matter that has to be confirmed as a fact.

He said it would be to "usurp the functions" of the inquiry and "not right, fair or within the rules" to discuss the matter which now was under the judge's terms of reference.

OPPOSITION OBJECTS

Cries of "nonsense" and "what are you afraid of" came from the opposition groups as Mr. Martin spoke.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) said there was no question of going into the judge's terms of reference. What the leader of the New Democrats and the House in general were concerned with was the things missing from the terms of reference.

Mr. Douglas said Mr. Martin was contradicting himself since he had said earlier adequacy of the terms of reference could be discussed.

Mr. Martin said he had been referring only to discussion of the "adequacy of the order-in-council." At no time would anything of the terms themselves be legitimate subject for debate until a report was received.

DOUGLAS APPLAUDED

Mr. Douglas said the government and Parliament must take immediate action to clear away any suspicion and renew the confidence of Canadians in the administration of justice.

Any failure to act now, and widen the terms of reference, would only increase suspicion.

Mr. Douglas, to rousing opposition applause, said the terms of reference are too narrow, and that once the inquiry starts MPs will be precluded from discussing the affair.

"It's a matter of today or never," he declared.

He said the government passed the cabinet order quickly to stop discussion of the case.

The confidence of MPs and of all Canadians in the administration of justice had been "profoundly shaken."

The opposition had asked that

Quebec Justice Will Head Bribe Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec was appointed today to head a judicial inquiry into accusations of attempted bribery and coercion of a Montreal lawyer by aides to two federal cabinet ministers.

The appointment was announced by External Affairs Minister Martin at the opening of the day's sitting of the Commons.

Mr. Martin also tabled the terms of reference for the chief justice's investigation.

The inquiry is to make a full study of "allegations about any improper inducements having been offered to or improper pressures having been brought to bear on counsel acting upon application for the extradition of one Lucien Rivard and all the relevant circumstances connected therewith . . ."

In addition it will "consider fully the reports submitted to the minister of justice by the RCMP and the evidence laid before him in connection therewith and any further evidence elicited or laid before the commissioner . . . consider such other matters as may appear to the commissioner to be relevant and . . . report where there is sufficient evidence to warrant any prosecution for offences that may be involved."

Victorians Have Given For 12 Years

By MARGE GILROY

Twelve years ago Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova walked into the Times office and told the story of thousands of starving youngsters in Korea, Greece, Hong Kong and India.

She pleaded for help through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

The Times listened to the USC director, then told Dr. Lotta's story to its readers.

That was how it all began 12 years ago.

Every year since then Dr. Lotta has made a pre-Christmas trip to Victoria to renew her appeal and to thank Victorians for their generous support the previous year.

That support, given during the past 11 years, went over the $100,000 mark last year. It is hoped that another $15,000 will be added to the total this year.

In Victoria you can support the campaign by sending a donation to "Help the Hungry Child" fund, care of The Times, 2631 Douglas, or deliver it before 5:30 p.m.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Albert Sterling, 28-year-old Victoria artist, has gone to New York to present his portrait of the late U.S. president to Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Sterling

"I hope to give it to her personally," Mr. Sterling said.

The portrait is painted in black oils and measures two by three feet.

"I have learned that she likes black-and-white paintings," Mr. Sterling said, "and I think she will like this one."

Earlier this year, Mr. Sterling said he had been commissioned by Mrs. Kennedy to do three portraits in oils of the late president, Mrs. Kennedy and the Kennedys together.

You learn to be varsatile in the army.

Retired lieutenant-colonel Harry "Moke" Morgan has two hobbies, golf and playing the organ.

He's a Baptist but he's organist at an Anglican church. One night next month he'll play at a Catholic wedding. Soon after he's booked for a Mormon ceremony.

A good soldier can adapt himself to any conditions.

The next sound you hear will be the frantic flinging open of club doors in the wake of the Secret coffee house's closure.

If it really has closed, that is.

Else

From Vancouver comes the word that the operators of the Bunkhouse there will attempt to open a club here.

And there are persistent reports about another club opening in an ex-supermarket on Douglas Street.

It is to feature a Victoria lad whose golden tonsils have led him to a good record contract . . . or so I hear.

Why-didn't-I-do-something-about-it-first noises are being made by people looking hungrily at the wealth of business going through a Pandora Avenue discotheque room.

And when Secret owner Tony Else gets back from scouting the land for other discotheque rooms in Vancouver, we may find out the Secret's fate.

He's had offers to purchase, but says he'll only sell to someone who'll run the place right.

Business machines are fine until they go out of whack, says Gwen Scott of the Marionette Book Shop on Douglas.

Gwen

Recently she ordered one book from a publisher on a rather specialized subject and the form went through the machine in the firm's Toronto office.

Back came an invoice for 37 books and an actual delivery of 21.

"Isn't it strange," she mused.

A really swinging group played for the crowds that turned out at Prospect Lake Community Hall's carnival Saturday night.

The quartet pounded out a mean beat with piano, drums, trumpet and guitar that went over big with the audience particularly because they were only boys.

I couldn't get close enough to ask their names but they must have been in the 11 to 15 age group and all dressed up in Sunday suits.

Elections we have always with us, and with that in mind some words from the Columbia Journalism Review might be worth pondering.

That respected journal wonders whether the get-out-and-vote urge should be made by newspapers.

It suggests a more constructive line might be:

"If you have taken the trouble to inform yourself on candidates and issues, get out and vote. If you have not, it is your patriotic duty to stay away from the polls."

The Non-Smokers' Association of Canada is coming to Victoria next month to fire another salvo against the smoking habit.

The association, which has its headquarters in Vancouver, will hold a seminar in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, 680 Courtney Street, Thursday, Dec. 10, at 8 p.m.

Representatives of city churches, schools, health organizations and service clubs are being invited.

"The need for non-smoker education is now widely recognized," said Robert Ludwig, secretary of the association.

"There have been more than 340 deaths from lung cancer in British Columbia since the start of this year."

Killers 'Found'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI believes it has identified the killers of three civil rights workers slain in Mississippi and the bombers of a Birmingham church where four children died, an FBI spokesman said today.

. . . DELINQUENCY

But they also found that fewer Victoria boys, on the average, are sent there for a first offence.

New Officer

They found that if another probation officer were added to the staff, there would still be a work overload.

In seven years the number of juvenile boys brought before the courts on other than traffic offences jumped 85 per cent.

This compares with a 68.3 per cent increase in traffic offences, and a 56.3 per cent population increase in the group.

In the overall area, they found, there are about 76 juvenile delinquents for every thousand juvenile boys, as compared with 68 per thousand in 1956.

In downtown Victoria, 83 juvenile boys out of a thousand are delinquent.

But in one part of Saanich, there are 167 delinquents for every thousand boys in the 15-17-age bracket.

A quarter of all delinquent boys come from broken homes, and more than a quarter have parents who are both employed.

More than a quarter of the boys sent to Brannen Lake from Victoria have been sent there before.

But Greater Victoria courts committed fewer boys on their first appearance than the provincial average.

In its attempt to wrestle with what it admits is a problem woven right into the fabric of society, the committee came up with a detailed series of recommendations.

Family Court

Urgently required are the following for the family court, says the committee—and provincial and municipal governments must foot the bill:

Enough qualified probation officers that the case load does not exceed 50 per officer;

A full-time family court judge, with no other responsibilities;

A full-time prosecutor — and the end of juvenile prosecution by policemen.

Another area where the provincial government should help out, says the committee, is in aiding delinquency prevention.

Because delinquent behavior is part of a discernible pattern, each elementary school should have "sufficient" social workers or psychologists added to its staff to help teachers spot potential delinquents early.

And their salaries should be underwritten or at least partly paid for by the government.

Leadership in establishing a number of smaller institutions to handle delinquents should come from the province, says the committee.

These should be smaller than the training schools like Brannen Lake provided for in the present system.

The new system should include group homes with a maximum capacity of 12 children, established on a regional basis.

"Too much emphasis can not be placed on the importance of carefully selected and properly trained staff . . ." says the report.

The committee's report points out that juvenile delinquents are not all of a type.

Their backgrounds vary, so that "for many, removal from their own home and a period in a residential or correctional institution is required — and not always as a last resort."

"It is evident, therefore, that no single institution can meet the need."

This will cost more than the current training schools program, but will be well worth it, says the committee.

Although some of the institutions suggested perhaps should be developed at the local level by municipalities, leadership and adequate financial assistance would have to come from the province.

Virtually the same recommendations were made by the Community Welfare Council in 1956 and 1961.

Different aspects of correction and treatment are now the responsibility of different government departments.

The approach should be a co-ordinated one, perhaps in line with a 1961 recommendation that the provincial government create a specific agency for child rehabilitation.

Court Judges

Also, to assist juvenile court judges in disposing of cases, local disposition boards should be set up to help decide the best possible handling of delinquents.

In line with its aroused-community concept, the committee wants to establish a standing committee on children and youth.

It would attempt to find out more about juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria, which is admitted to have many aspects not yet explored.

It would attempt to help with co-ordination, examine the problem of school dropouts, seek programs to attract and rehabilitate delinquents or prospective delinquents.

It would attempt to implement the council's report.

And if would attempt to help find a better system for tackling the delinquency problem than the present one, which has failed.

Students Expelled

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The government announced today it was expelling the leaders of the Congolese Students' Union in Belgium for carrying out political activities.

where the foreigners awaited evacuation to Leopoldville.

Ten Britons and a number of Canadians were believed to be still in rebel hands in Stanleyville, according to a correspondent of the East African Standard flew from Nairobi, Kenya, to Stanleyville today.

Well-informed sources here said it appeared as it would take about three more days to clear up resistance by the rebels.

Four U.S. planes flying refugees out of Stanleyville this morning were all fired on by rebels but none was hit badly enough to stop its flight to Leopoldville.

Several rebels were killed night and morning.

Refugees from Stanleyville said rebels were hiding in every possible place, including private homes.

None of the rebel leaders had been captured yet and a military observer in Leopoldville said it looked as though they escaped "although they may be fighting with one of those small bands on the outskirts of the city."

EXECUTED CONGOLESE

One evacuee said the rebels carried out thousands of executions during their occupation of Stanleyville.

"Every day, any time of the day, some Congolese was being dragged to the Lumumba monument in the city centre and executed," he said.

"They were tied, hands behind their backs, and hacked to death with machetes."

An American embassy official said patrols "found some more bodies" in Stanleyville today, bringing the estimated number of whites killed by rebels Tuesday to 25, with 38 wounded now in hospitals in Leopoldville. Eleven are in critical condition.

It was believed the dead found by the patrols were Belgians.

At least 19 persons were killed when rebels opened fire on hostages in front of the Patrice Lumumba monument in Stanleyville.

McMillan, according to a U.S. embassy spokesman, was cut down in Lumumba square. His wife and six sons, who were held hostage with him, were rescued.

Two of the McMillan boys were shot and wounded.

One boy was shot in the hip and the other was nicked on the cheek by a bullet when the rebels opened fire on the white hostages in the main square of Stanleyville.

McMillan was a member of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, an inter-denominational mission group.

The other large Canadian family to escape were Dr. Melvin Loewen, 38, his 41-year-old wife, Elfrieda, and their five children, of Steinbach, Man.

Dr. Loewen is dean of the Protestant University of Stanleyville.

(Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burk of Toronto, Muriel Harman of Victoria, B.C., Sister Yvonne du bon Pasteur (Jeannette Vezina) of Montreal, Sister Thecle de Marie (Marie-Claire Carrier) of Edmunston, N.B., Sister Marie Gaston (Donia Bedard) of Notre Dame de la Paix, Que., and Mrs. Hulda Schroeder Brown of Waldheim, Sask.

(Rev. George Thomas of Toronto, Canadian secretary of the UFM, said earlier that the Burks were reported to have escaped.)

the terms be broadened. Prime Minister Pearson had said they would be sufficiently wide to permit an investigation of Justice Minister Favreau's action in deciding there was insufficient evidence to prosecute, in alleged case of bribery against a ministerial aide.

"These terms do nothing of the kind," Mr. Douglas said.

CLAIMS COVER UP

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said it is obvious from acting Prime Minister Martin's objections to a discussion that the government wants to hide behind the rules to cover up the case.

It now was clear why the cabinet at 10:30 a.m. EST today passed an order-in-council to set up the judicial inquiry. It displayed uncharacteristic zeal in rushing through the cabinet order, an order so limited in its terms of reference that the judge will be limited to things the government wants revealed and to a whitewash of the government.

CANDIDATE?

Fulton Talk Increases For City

Speculation that E. Davie Fulton may run as a federal Progressive Conservative for the Victoria seat increased somewhat Tuesday when it was learned the local riding's annual meeting was postponed for him.

The federal riding executive decided to push back its scheduled Nov. 30 meeting to sometime in mid-January when it learned the provincial PC leader could not make the earlier date.

Mr. Fulton will be the main speaker at the meeting, whenever it is held.

Victoria federal riding president Alex H. Reed, asked for his comments on rumors Mr. Fulton may re-enter the federal field here, was reported to have replied:

"I'm satisfied that if Mr. Fulton decided to come here he would make a splendid candidate."

MANY ENTRIES

However, he added, he would like to see as many candidates in the field as possible.

T. Foster Isherwood, acting secretary of the riding association, commented that there is no nominating convention under way "and we're not really shopping for a candidate."

Mundane Projects Out for Centenary

TORONTO (CP) — All provinces have agreed with the federal government to limit their federal-provincial centennial projects for 1967 to things of an historical, educational, cultural or recreational nature, State Secretary Lamontagne said today.

He announced that provincial ministers attending a closed conference agreed to reject any proposals in future by municipalities for more utilitarian projects, such as fire halls, sidewalks, sewers and even cemetery vaults.

Nations Unite to Bolster Status of U.K. Sterling

LONDON (Reuters) — The Bank of England announced tonight it had made arrangements under which $3,000,000,000 (U.S.) will be available for the support of the pound sterling.

Eleven central banks and the Bank for International Settlement will make the funds available.

The Bank of Canada is among those participating.

The Bank of England's official statement said: "The Bank of England have made arrangements under which $3,000,000,000 are made available for the support of sterling.

"The central banks of Austria, Belgium, Canada, France, West Germany, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland and the U.S.A. are taking part, as is also the Bank for International Settlement.

"Included in the total is a loan from the Export-Import Bank of the United States.

"The credits newly made available are separate from the existing central bank credits which have been drawn on over recent months and which will mature shortly. These latter credits will be repaid after the forthcoming drawing by the United Kingdom from the International Monetary Fund has been completed."

Earlier an authoritative government source denied suggestions that the pound might be devalued.

Last-Born of Quints Dies of Lung Ailment

PARIS (Reuters) — Jean-Luc Sambor, last of the quintuplets born Monday to Mrs. Monique Sambor, died Tuesday night, the health ministry announced today.

There was "no change" in the condition of the othre four children—two boys and two girls.

The ministry said Jean-Luc had been suffering from respiratory troubles which suddenly worsened Tuesday night. Three hours later a hemorrhage of the lungs developed and he died.

The surviving babies were in incubators at the pediatrics centre of the Paris Faculty of Medicine.

Professor Marcel Leong, head of the centre, said "all of the babies are fighting for survival in their incubators."

The quintuplets, two girls and three boys, were born Monday, 2½ months premature, to Mrs. Monique Sambor, 27, wife of a postman. They were France's first quintuplets.

They weighed between two pounds, 1½ ounces and two pounds, 12 ounces. All five babies had difficulty breathing.
